torium on war debts and reparations, which the chancellor and his cabinet have been so deeply stirred today to adequately express their gratitude for President Hoover's initiative which may liberate their country for a year from the nightmare of reparations payments and permit a new start toward economic revival.

"We rushed our reply accepting the proposals to President Hoover this afternoon," Foreign Minister Julius Curtius said as he termed the American President's action heroic.

Berlin refused to divulge the text of the urgent message which 83 year old President Paul von Hindenburg sent to President Hoover. It is understood that the German president awaited American Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett before sending the note to Washington.

Embassy Rote Stirs Germany.

Early this morning were rumors current that President von Hindenburg had begged President Hoover to help Germany was as stunned as by the day she learned that her delegation had agreed to ask the allies for an armistice. The masses felt that President von Hindenburg would have cabled Washington when the nation was closer to the precipice than it realized. Then when the text of the Hoover statement was published, where despair had reigned, hope suddenly was reborn.

"President Hoover's suggestion is greater than any of the possibilities of the Young plan," Dr. Curtius stated. "President Hoover's plan in no way abandons our efforts to obtain revision in reparations—but that is for later on. Now we must see that results may be made of his suggestions."

Hope France Will Accept.

We feel that England and Italy will accept the proposals. We have faith that France will find ways and means of doing it too. We want to collaborate with France as much as with the other nations and it would be unfair to surmise that she wants to isolate herself from this international drive to start business machinery to create jobs for the world's millions of jobless."

If President Hoover's plan succeeds, Germany would be freed of the obligation of paying approximately $350,000,000 during the next 12 months, of which about $150,000,000 would be available to the budget. The balance would go to the federal railway system.

The bulk of the German press does not share Dr. Curtius' hope that France will be willing to coöperate. There are reports that Chancellor Bruening approached French officials concerning a Franco-German conference similar to the Anglo-German conference at Chequers. He was brusquely turned down, which Germany fears will mean since "France has been getting money out of the reparations during only half of what she should from Germany last year on account to America."

FRANCE HOLDS UP APPROVAL; OTHERS ACCEPT

Hoover Gets Figures from Berlin.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—With the President at his Rapidan camp anxiously awaiting disclosure of the attitude of France toward his proposal for the postponement of one year of all German reparations and allied war debt payments it became known tonight that there has been a personal correspondence between President Hindenburg of Germany and Mr. Hoover regarding the crisis in the affairs of the reich.

OGDEN L. MILLS.

Mr. Hoover asked the Berlin government for information on the financial situation of Germany and received it in a personal communication from the German president. It was reported tonight that President Hindenburg's response was received in Washington yesterday and that its contents were among the factors determining Mr. Hoover to announce his moratorium proposal last night instead of waiting until this week, as was his intention earlier in the day.

Statement by Stimson.

When inquiry was made concerning the Hindenburg message, Secretary of State Stimson after telephoning the Rapidan camp issued the following statement:

"Since the financial situation in Germany has been under consideration, the President has been making every effort to gather information in regard to it, which should be accurate and authentic, and he recently made a request for such information from the German government, requesting that it be of the highest authority. He has received a response in the form of a letter to him from President von Hindenburg and considers its contents as confidential to himself. The information thus obtained corresponds to that obtained from other official and private reports and which is publicly current."

Accompanying Mr. Hoover to his camp last night was Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, who had two telephone conversations with Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon in London yesterday during the course of the formulation of the Hoover debt moratorium project and who was prepared to get in touch with the American finance minister again today if necessary.

Smoot Goes to Rapidan.

Shortly before noon Mr. Hoover and Mr. Mills were joined at the camp by Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], chairman of the finance committee of the senate and a member of the commission that produced the war debt settlements. The President had desired to consult Mr. Smoot on his plan last week and as it happened the senator had left Salt Lake City for Washington to attend a conference to be held in a day or two on the silver stabilization problem.

When Mr. Smoot reached Washington this morning he found a White House car waiting at his residence to bear him speedily to the Rapidan. After discussing the subject with the President, Mr. Smoot late this afternoon gave his opinion in the following statement, which was telephoned from the camp and made public at the White House:

"The position taken by the President in his remarkable statement of yesterday proffering financial assistance to distracted Europe cannot help but meet the approval of the civilized world. It will no doubt bring confidence to the business interests of the world and again prove that America has nothing but the welfare of the peoples of the civilized world at heart.

Would Lessen Economic Burdens.

"The President's proposal is most significant. It is without a parallel in the years that have passed since the ending of the world war.

"Acceptance of it by all the inter-

A Sullivan Visits with His Cousins

There are twenty-one adult John L. Sullivans listed in the city directory. There is one John L. Sullivan in the immortal list of fistic champions. But the John L. Sullivan of 3241 Polk street is, on occasion, as truculent a John L. as ever lived.

Mr. Sullivan, who is 35 years old, was host at a party last evening. It was held in a dilapidated flivver on a vacant lot at Arthington street and Lavergne avenue and there were refreshments of the kind one would suspect a truculent John L. Sullivan of preferring. There was only one guest —a young woman—but the singing was so loud that residents of the neighborhood complained to the Fillmore street police that they were not able to hear their radio sets.

Police Join the Party.

So from a nearby beat a policeman set out to squelch the party. And from the station set out also a flivver squad commanded by a sergeant. The beat man arrived first and yelled lustily over the strains of "Sweet Adeline":

"Hey, you can't do that here!"

"Why, you old son of a gun," he said. "Kitty, if it ain't my cousin Roy Sullivan. Come on in, Roy. You used to be a swell bass."

Policeman Sullivan demurred. While he was demurring the sergeant arrived. It was Sergt. Robert Sullivan with his flivver squad. John L. Sullivan informed Sergt. Sullivan that his cousin owned the beat and had given him the singing concession.

"Listen," said Sergt. Sullivan. "Cousin or no cousin, Sullivan or no Sullivan, what do you think you're doing here?"

"I am setting up housekeeping here," retorted John L. Sullivan. "And the curse o' Cromwell on all Sullivans that try to bother me."

The Sullivan temper came upon the ranking Sullivan, Sergt. Sullivan, and led John L. Sullivan to the Fillmore station, with Cousin Roy Sullivan following.

At the station John L. Sullivan was turned over to the lockup keeper, Policeman Robert E. Sullivan.

"Well, if it ain't my cousin, John L.," said Robert E. Sullivan.

"And a fine lot of cousins and Sullivans you all turned out to be," sneered John L. Sullivan. "Phooey!"

"You can't talk that way to me," averred Cousin Robert E. Sullivan. "I'm going to see that the desk sergeant books you now."

At the desk sat Sergt. Sidney Sullivan, a cousin of Sergt. Robert Sullivan.

"Now, now," said he, "what should we do with this Sullivan? He has insulted my cousin Robert and his own cousin Robert and his own cousin Roy. Shall we charge him with 2655, disorderly conduct?"

"Charge him," cried three Sullivans in concert.

Sitting meekly by was Miss Katherine Crowley, the guest at John L. Sullivan's party.

"What," she asked in a meek voice, "are your going to do with me?"

Evelyn Knapp, Young Film Star, Falls Off Cliff

Hollywood, Cal., June 21.—[Special.]—Miss Evelyn Knapp, young film star, today was seriously injured when she plunged from a cliff while hiking with her brother, Stanley, 18, and fell thirty feet to a rocky ledge below. Her back was injured and some fear was felt as to her future as an actress. She starred in George White's "Scandals," "Sinners' Holiday," "The Millionaire," and others.

A. Fallieres, Ex-President of France, Dies

MEZIN, France, June 22.—(AP)—Armand Fallieres, former president of France, died suddenly today. He was 89 years old.

With his death one of the few surviving founders of the Third Republic passed away. As senator, minister, and president he aided the growth of the French nation, but his strong republican tendencies did not deter a most active social life among Europe's royalty when he became president. His career encompassed the entire period from the Franco-Prussian war until 1910.

Elected Deputy in 1876.

Fallieres was elected deputy from his department in 1876, the first really Republican parliament after the Royalist party had been routed and its leader, Marshal MacMahon, forced to abandon power.

Becoming under-secretary of the interior department in 1880, he began a spectacular career as holder of government portofolios which lasted for ten years. These included minister of the interior under Jules Ferry and Duclerc; minister of foreign affairs and premier; minister of the interior under Rouvier, 1887; minister of justice in Tirard's cabinet, 1889; minister of public instruction in Tirard's second cabinet, and again minister of justice under de Freycinet in 1890.

Drops Out of Public Life.

Following this post he dropped from public office, remaining aloof, until fifteen years later when a political change made him president of the senate. A year later he was elected to the presidency, succeeding Emile Loubet. As president he contributed considerable to the establishment of the Entente Cordiale with Great Britain and helped to develop that into the triple alliance with Russia.

Unemployed, He Inherits $63,000 in Doctor's Will

Delbert Dunham, a shop worker of St. Charles, Ill., who has been unemployed for several months, was notified yesterday that he had been left $63,000 in the will of Dr. E. L. Prescott, a New York city physician, with whom he had made his home when a boy. Dunham said that he would go to New York this week to take charge of his inheritance, but would continue to make his home in St. Charles. His wife said that she regarded the bequest as "money from heaven."

Poisoned Food Kills Two at Family Dinner

Lebanon, Ind., June 21.—[Special.]—Two girls, sisters, died here today and three other persons, one their father, are seriously ill, all victims of poisoned sandwiches which they ate at a family reunion. Capsules which supposedly contain strychnine were found in their unfinished sandwiches.

The dead girls were Virginia Simmons, 14 years old, and Anna, 10. Those made ill are John Simmons, 43, their father; Lester Carr, 18, a family friend, and Horace N. Jackson, 55, all from the vicinity of Greenfield, 65 miles from here. Jackson may die.

Three other members of the Simmons family, all children, were slightly affected by the poison. They are George, 17; Elizabeth, 13, and Dale, 20. They bit into the capsules, noticed a bitter taste, and stopped. Mrs. Carrie Barrett Simmons, the mother, was the only member of the family unaffected.

Relative Is Suspected.

Boone county officials were aroused by the mysterious poisoning and began an inquiry which, according to Dr. Guy Owsley, the coroner, will result in arrests. A member of the family is suspected, he said.

The family gathering was held at Memorial park in this city and was attended by twenty-five men, women, and children, mostly relatives. The Simmons family, considered wealthy, drove from their farm eight miles northeast of Greenfield. Near Lebanon the Simmonses paused for an hour, leaving their car outside the home of Ora Pollard, a distant kinsman.

At the park the celebrants prepared for a holiday feast. Mrs. Simmons unpacked a number of chicken sandwiches which she had prepared just before the motor journey and placed them on the table with sandwiches made by other guests. Just before the reunion dinner started one of the guests discovered a tiny white capsule on the table. Curious, he took it to a physician who pronounced its contents to be quinine.

Five Made Violently Ill.

The guest returned to Memorial park. Meanwhile Virginia, Anna, their father, Carr, and Jackson already had eaten parts of their sandwiches and were violently ill. All five were taken to the Witham hospital. Anna died fifteen minutes later. Virginia died this evening.

Coroner Owsley, Police Chief Ed Casey and Sheriff Grover Small were summoned. They hastened to the park and gathered remnants of the victims' sandwiches and other sandwiches. After a cursory examination Dr. Owsley declared his belief that the capsules contained strychnine.

"Apparently there were only two opportunities to place the capsules in the sandwiches," he said. "These opportunities are being inquired into as leading to possible clews."

Later in the night Sheriff Small and Chief Casey searched the Simmons home near Greenfield. They admitted they sought poison capsules and that their quest was futile. They then grilled Mrs. Simmons, who, with her husband, had returned home. They gathered information showing that she the daughter of Benton L. Barrett, who now is in an asylum in California for the slaying some time ago of his wife and stepson.

CAPONE'S HOTEL HELD UP; SAFE IS CARTED AWAY

The Metropole hotel, 2300 Michigan avenue, one of the many homes of Al Capone, and known as a haunt of the "Big Fellow's" friends, was only just another hotel to bandits who shortly after daylight this morning held up the place, robbed the till of $50 and toted off a 500 pound safe containing valuables of the guests.

Two men entered the hotel and asked for a room, which was assigned them. Drawing pistols, they forced Elmer Getleland, the clerk, and Al Ryder, a bell boy, to go to the room that had been assigned to them. There they taped the mouths of the clerk and bell boy, tied them up, locked the door and hastened back to the office. By the time Getleland and Ryder released themselves and reached the office, the robbers were gone. So was the safe and $50 from the cash drawer.

Getleland said that frequently Capone left diamonds and other valuables in the safe, but he did not know whether any of the gangster's possessions were in it when it was stolen.

In another early morning holdup five men robbed Peter Wade, a Bridgeman, Mich., farmer of his truck carrying 217 cases of strawberries valued at $400, which he was bringing to the city. The robbery occurred at 83d street and Brandon avenue.

SEEK UNION CZAR IN SLAYING OF FILM OPERATOR

Thomas Maloy, business agent of the motion picture operators' union, was hunted in vain yesterday for questioning concerning the murder Saturday night of Jacob Kaufman, veteran member of the union who had been opposed to Maloy's rulership. But Assistant State's Attorneys Charles E. Lounsbury and Charles Bellows said, though they could not find Maloy, they learned much concerning the feud between Maloy and Kaufman, as well as about Maloy's methods of conducting the affairs of the union.

Kaufman, it was learned, was to have been a witness before the grand jury tomorrow. He was prepared to aid the prosecutors who have been presenting evidence against the union to the jury for two weeks, seeking an indictment of its leaders on conspiracy charges.

Tell of Bribe Offer.

An offer of money had been made to an employé of the state's attorney's office for a list of the names of the witnesses who were giving information against Maloy and his fellow union officials, the prosecutors declared. They said they suspected that Kaufman was slain because he was making trouble for the leaders who, they charge, are operating the union as "a $750,000 a year racket."

Instead of getting aid from the union in the inquiry into the murder of one of its members, Lounsbury said he had been informed that a special meeting of the union was called yesterday morning in the union headquarters at 500 South Wabash avenue, and the members were warned against giving coöperation to the state's attorney or police. Attorney Michael J. Ahern advised the unionists, Lounsbury said, to resist any attempt to take them to the state's attorney's office for questioning without a warrant.

Tells of Police Failure.

Prosecutor Lounsbury said that early in the day he asked Chief of Detectives John Norton to apprehend Maloy and other leaders of the union for questioning. Among those wanted were Ralph O'Hara, union organizer, and Jack Quinn and Frank Clifford, Maloy's lieutenants in running the organization. Lounsbury also said he wanted to question Danny Stanton, Al Capone's representative in labor rackets. Stanton is now free on bail pending a decision on whether or not he must return to Wisconsin to face a charge of murdering Jack Zuta.

Lounsbury stated that after Norton's men failed to apprehend any of the movie union men, he assigned detectives of the state's attorney's staff to make the search, it was too late to find them.

War Chest Is Opened.

Lounsbury said he was advised that at a meeting last week the union authorized Maloy to use all its funds—he estimated the sum at $248,000—in fighting the grand jury investigation. Part of that sum, according to the prosecutor was made available immediately in seeking to hire a spy in the prosecutor's office.

The general investigation of the union was launched on the complaints of numerous owners of small theaters that Maloy was forcing them to employ two union operators when one is sufficient. The extra operator costs about $100 a week, it was said, making the difference between a profit and a loss in many small theaters. Maloy was said to have admitted to the prosecutors that he owned stocks that would benefit if a number of the smaller houses were closed.

Dissension in Ranks.

Aside from this phase of Maloy's activities, the prosecutors said he was facing dissention in the union ranks. It was recalled that Henry Gusenberg, respectable brother of Frank and Pete, who were among those slain in the Valentine day massacre of 1929, had pitted himself against Maloy for the office of business agent. Kaufman, it was said, supported Gusenberg against Maloy several years ago.

The prosecutors recalled that in December of 1929, Patrick J. King, a brother-in-law of the Gusenbergs and a moving picture operator was slain in an abandoned gambling joint on an upper floor of the building at 428 South Wabash avenue, near the movie union headquarters.

Maloy was reported to have been in Springfield recently in the interest of the bill seeking to enforce by law what he has so far been able to enforce by his own power—the retention of two operators at each theater. Two state senators—Daniel A. Serritella and James B. Leonardo—were active for the bill, along with Philip Friedlander, a radio announcer.

The bill failed of passage in the house by three votes last Friday, but on a request for a verification of the vote one representative was induced to change his vote and two others who had not voted came in and were recorded as favoring it, and it secured the 77 votes needed for passage. But the activity of certain senators had attracted attention in their own branch of the legislature, and when the bill was considered there it was tabled.

Tells How Union Is Ruled.

There are only 580 members of the union holding regular cards, according to Lounsbury. The rest of the operators working in the city, he said, are so called "permit men," working under temporary permits granted by Maloy. There are 400 of these.

The permit men, Lounsbury says, have to pay whenever they get a job, and then have to turn 10 per cent of the wages in the union treasury.

One phase of the grand jury investigation of the movie union, according to the prosecutors, has to do with the issuance of city permits to movie operators. Thomas Maloy's brother, Joseph, is head of the city hall bureau which has the power to issue these permits.

Lounsbury says Kaufman, who had been an operator for twenty years, and held a regular card, was entitled to employment before any of the "permit men" got jobs. But because of Maloy's enmity he found it difficult to find work, his relatives reported to the prosecutor. Two years ago, Bellows learned, Kaufman was kidnaped from the theater where he was working, taken to the union headquarters, and there beaten so severely that he was incapacitated for two months.

Events Lead Up to Killing.

Last Monday Kaufman got a single day's work at the Lincoln theater, 3132 South State street. There he found Crawford Johnson, a Negro, also working as an operator. Johnson interested him in buying a radio set to be installed in his automobile.

Two days later, on Wednesday, Johnson went to the union office to pay his union dues. When he left there he met Kaufman and took him to the garage at 9525 Princeton avenue, owned by David Greer, a Negro and a former motion picture operator, where Kaufman was told the radio would be installed in his car.

On Wednesday, also, Kaufman went to the union headquarters and was assigned to another job, at the Piccadilly theater, Hyde Park boulevard and Blackstone avenue. It paid $130 a week, in place of the $90 he had been getting at the jobs Maloy had allotted him in small outlying theaters, and he expressed surprise to his family that he should be given such a job.

Previous Attack Told.

The first night he left work, members of the family told the prosecutors yesterday, two men tried to enter the automobile in which Mrs. Samuel Kaufman, his sister-in-law, had called for him when he finished work. They left when they saw Mrs. Kaufman and another woman in the car.

"I think the presence of the women frustrated an attempt to take Kaufman for a ride," Bellows said.

Kaufman took his automobile to Greer's garage Saturday morning to have the radio installed in it. He returned for it Saturday evening, and while he was standing in the garage a young gunman, dressed in white flannels, entered and shot him five times. He died early yesterday morning.

As he lay dying, a cripple, also a motion picture operator, bent over his bed at the hospital, and Kaufman whispered to him. The identity of that man was being guarded closely last night by prosecutors.

Kaufman, asked if he had any enemies, replied to Bellows, the latter said, "Only the officials of the union. They all hate me."

Johnson and Greer were questioned. The prosecutors said they were investigating the possibility that the radio sale was part of the murder plot.

Discrepancy in Statements.

Kaufman, as he lay dying Saturday night at the Little Company of Mary hospital, told Prosecutor Bellows that he had been discharged from the Piccadilly theater Friday. Arthur and Henry Schoenstadt, owners of the theater, and Joseph McKeown, manager there, told the prosecutors that they discharged Kaufman Saturday. Romeo La Piante, the other operator at the theater, complained that he was incompetent, they said.

La Piante, when questioned, denied that he had said Kaufman was incompetent. In fact, he asserted, Kaufman was a highly competent man.

IF FACTOR WINS HE MAY LOSE BY U. S. DEPORTATION

Alien Warrant Is Issued for Barber Jake.

A deportation warrant has been issued, it was learned yesterday, for John [Jake the Barber] Factor, whom the British crown is seeking to extradite from Chicago on a charge of swindling English investors out of $6,000,000. Dispatches from Washington stated that the secretary of labor had sent the deportation warrant to Chicago, but that it had been returned by the Chicago authorities for of British authorities to face the minor revisions.

It is known that immigration officials have been busy on Factor's case, and that they are confident they will be able to have him sent back to England. If that is true, Factor will be forced to return to the jurisdiction swinding charges, even if he should be able to defeat the extradition proceedings here.

Resume Hearings Today.

Hearings on the extradition of the former Halsted street barber are to be resumed tomorrow before United States Commissioner Walker. Factor's counsel, the law firm headed by United States Senator Otis F. Glenn, will object to the admission of depositions submitted by the attorney for the British crown. Factor's lawyers contend that the charge on which England demands Factor, "receiving money knowing the same to have been fraudulently obtained," is no crime under the laws of Illinois, a point necessary under the terms of the extradition treaty.

Factor is said to have entered this country from Mexico last March, returning from the races at Tia Juana. If he entered as an alien, there would be a record of his examination, the authorities say, and they have no such record. This raises the presumption that he entered as a citizen, which he is not.

Thus Factor's case would be similar to that of Tony [Mops] Volpe, Capone gangster who is appealing from a deportation order. Volpe was ordered deported on the charge that he claimed citizenship to gain admission without inspection.

Admits British Nativity.

Factor claims that he was born in Hull, England, where he would go if deported, and entered this country originally as a nonquota immigrant. Under such circumstances he would be permitted to leave and return without awaiting his quota privilege, only a permit for a domiciled alien being required. But he would not be entitled to admission by claiming citizenship, thus evading inspection, say the immigration authorities.

The immigrant barber who is charged with fleecing thousands of Englishmen in his fake stock pushing enterprises and once played chemin de fer with the prince of Wales, is virtually at liberty pending the outcome of his extradition case. Technically, he is in the custody of the United States marshal, but he goes where he pleases, taking the deputy marshal along with him.

PLUMBERS MOVE TO END 30 YEARS OF RACKET RULE

Union Plans to Elect Officers in Peace.

The Chicago Journeyman Plumbers' union, an organization of 3,200 skilled workmen, successfully dominated for thirty years by such bravoes as Skinny Madden, Frenchy Mader, Mossy Enright, Big Tim Murphy, Dapper Dan McCarthy, and William [Billygoat] Taglia, will hold an election next Sunday.

The balloting, some members of the rank and file predict, will mark the overthrow of racketeer leadership. Chiefs of the reform element who expect to win next Sunday charge depletion of the treasury, looting of the union's unemployment fund, and the saddling of a $195,000 building mortgage on a membership, of which 75 per cent is now unemployed. All these things, they charge, are due to unbusinesslike methods and worse.

Peaceful Election Predicted.

Despite the bloody strife which marked past contests among the business agents, who generally succeeded each other by extermination, the forthcoming election is expected to be peaceful. George Masterson, general organizer of the International Plumbers and Steamfitters' union, will act as a one man election board and voting machines will be employed to prevent fraud.

Mr. Masterson said that more than 90 candidates have entered the lists, in contrast to past elections where the dominating faction bullied the opposition into silence.

The only organized ticket in the field is the "progressive," which offers Frank J. Bent for president and Thomas Ferrier, Barney Egan, and William Curran for business agents. Nine others are in the posts.

500 Attend Campaign Rally.

At a campaign rally, held yesterday in the union's clubhouse at 1340 Washington boulevard and attended by nearly 500 members, Curran and Ferrier pledged a new order of conduct if elected. The presiding officer was Dave F. Garvey, candidate for vice president and chairman of the executive board, on which he now holds membership.

"Such a meeting would not have been possible six months ago," Garvey said. "If you had dared to attend, you might have gone out with a black eye, a broken leg or a bullet in your back."

PURPLE GANG'S BOOKKEEPER IS SHOT TO DEATH

Detroit, Mich., June 21.—[Special.]—With a bullet in his head and another in his abdomen, the body of Ben Bronston, 26, alleged member of the Purple gang, was found early today in the street. He had been taken for a ride.

Bronston was slain as the result of a feud between rum runners and alcohol dealers, and because of his talking out of turn. The killers sped away only a few minutes before the body was found by a passing motorist.

It is said that a girl had induced Bronston to forsake his former companions and so unwittingly brought about his death. Friends volunteered the information that he "talked too much." He was bookkeeper for the gang.

STRUCK BY STREET CAR; DIES.

KILL MINION OF SCHULTZ, BRONX BEER OVERLORD

Enemies Grow Brave as "Dutch" Fights Law.

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—The power of Dutch Schultz, regarded as overlord of beer runners in the Bronx, met with open defiance early today when an automobile load of armed men, believed to be members of a rival "mob," shot and killed a driver of one of Schultz's beer trucks as he stood in the doorway of his apartment. The dead man is Jack Sorrettelli, 31, said to be a veteran in the game of running Schultz's contraband liquors into territory already served by rival gangsters.

Sorrettelli is supposed to be only one of a list of gangsters working for Schultz who are scheduled to be put on the spot.

Schultz himself, just released on $75,000 bail after his recent arrest, is said to be slated for "rubbing out" by his opponents, who have become embittered because of Schultz's habit of "musciling in" on territory they considered outside his province. The drive to end the beer baron's reign in the Bronx is believed to have drawn encouragement from the recent arrest of Schultz and his exhibition of fear of gunplay.

KILLED ACCIDENTALLY BY GAS.

Lawrence Therwaldsen, 47 years old, a tailor, was found dead from gas fumes yesterday in his shop at 3635 North Narragansett avenue. The fumes came from a gas heated iron in which the gas flame had been extinguished accidentally, the police believe.

TAXES GROW 11 TIMES AS FAST AS POPULATION

City and School Levy Up 553% in 18 Years.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The 1931 general assembly, which folded out Saturday, authorized a smaller tax increase for Chicago than any other session in the last 20 years.

It has become the custom for every session to boost the tax bills in Chicago, or authorize the local officials to increase them—which they have done, with two exceptions at every opportunity since 1911.

The taxes for the city proper and the public schools, which constitute 65 per cent of the local tax bill, have jumped from $24,733,839 in 1912 to [illegible] in 1929. This increase in city and school taxes has been at a rate ten times that of the population increase. These taxes went up 493 per cent, while the poulation advanced from 2,753,565 to 2,375,348, or 47.5 per cent.

Another Comparison Made.

That comparison is conservative. The special session of the legislature in 1930 granted certain tax increases which do not become effective until the levying of the taxes for 1930 and later years. The 1930 taxes will not become due until toward the end of this year or the first of next year.

By the action of the special session the 1930 city and school taxes will be about 10 per cent higher than those for 1929, or approximately $161,-[illegible]. That is an increase of 553 per cent over the city and school taxes for 1912, or 11 times the population increase for the same period.

To the 1930 taxes must be added the "increases" which the legislature just ended has authorized. In comparison with other sessions, however, these new increases are shown to be relatively small.

It is now thought—the legislative accountants are not certain—that the state appropriations have been increased from $272,000,000 to $280,000,-000. If there has been an increase, it necessarily means more taxes, and Chicago property will pay about one-half of the amount, whatever it is.

Why Taxes Are Increased.

In the session just closed Cook county was given the power to issue $[illegible] in bonds for poor relief, and also the authority to issue refunding bonds for the $1,883,400 in bonds and interest on which the county defaulted June 1. More taxes are needed to pay the bonds when they come due and also interest upon them. That will add a little more to the burden Chicago property.

Other bills passed increased the borrowing power of the south park commission, authorized the west park board to issue more bonds for permanent improvements, and specifically empowered the Lincoln park board to issue $[illegible] more in bonds for lake shore development. The sanitary district also obtained authority from the legislature to issue without referendum bonds totaling $36,000,000 for sewage treatment works.

As all these bonds are issued more taxes must be levied to pay the principal and interest as they came due. The last for the establishment of the [illegible] in the forest preserves, which would have lapsed, was extended to [illegible].

Pension Funds Get Help.

In addition to these bills, others were passed which authorize increased taxes for several pension funds. An additional tax was provided for the school teachers' pension fund, which, the state actuary reported to the governor, has a deficit of $37,851,709. The firemen's pension fund, which the actuary reported has a deficit of $36,473,343, was empowered to get more cash via the tax route.

Other legislative enactments affect the pension funds of the city and south park police, and the municipal employés. In addition a bill was passed creating a pension fund for the forest preserve employés.

All of these added costs of government will probably be sufficient to be noticeable in a local tax bill, but it was pointed out that they will be small in comparison with the increases authorized by other legislative sessions of the last 20 years.

Relief Sought in Assembly.

What the Chicago, Cook county and suburban real estate boards and other property owners asked of the legislature was relief from the present tax burdens. They asked a bond issue to replace the 1930 taxes.

There is about $36,000,000 unpaid on the 1928 tax bill of Cook county, which was due last July. If the forfeitures are added, the amount unpaid is $50,000,000.

Of the 1929 Cook county tax bill, which was due May 15, there remains unpaid $99,000,000 and if the forfeitures are added the 1929 total delinquency is $115,00,000.

Mark Levy and other representatives of the real estate boards told the legislators that the present taxes on real estate are so oppressively heavy as to be unbearable. They said that thousands of Chicago property owners are unable to pay their present taxes, and many of them will be forced to permit the county to sell their properties for taxes.

TAXPAYERS KEEP ASSESSORS BUSY HEARING PLEAS

1,000 Complaints Before Board on Sunday.

Property owners seeking reductions in their 1930 tax assessments, taking advantage of special Sunday hearings, kept the members and staff of the board of assessors busy listening to their complaints for nearly twelve hours yesterday. Between 1,000 and 1,500 complaints were heard during the day. More objections will be heard today.

Approximately half of the assessments contested are being confirmed, while the other half are being ordered rechecked to ascertain if a reduction is warranted, John E. Conroy, secretary of the board, said. According to Mr. Conroy, twelve of the thirty country towns books will be turned over to the board of review Tuesday and the others during the week.

Complainants Are Orderly.

For the most part the complainants yesterday were orderly. Several hundred were lined up in the corridors on the third floor of the county building at 9 a. m. when the offices opened, but these dwindled in the afternoon. Another rush is expected tomorrow.

A large proportion of the property owners brought in documents to show the depreciation in the value of their property and in some cases displayed mortgages almost as large as the amount they set as the market price of their property. Others complained of the higher tax rates and refused to be consoled by explanations that the tax spending bodies were responsible. A few went away cheerful and many downcast.

"Friday and Saturday we found a few agitators waiting in the lines and causing trouble," Conroy said. "We threw them out and we haven't had any trouble today. The cool weather also has helped to keep them quiet."

Cutmore Issue Quiet.

There were no further reverberations yesterday from the discharge two days ago of Harry S. Cutmore, director of appraisals and of the 1928 reassessment. The assessors charged Cutmore with insubordination. Mr. Conroy declared that "the board is getting along without him," while Assessor Walter W. L. Meyer said he believed most of the taxpayers "are glad that the assessors have decided to run their own affairs."

Cutmore did not appear at the county building yesterday, but he was said to be preparing a written defense of his actions and to be discussing with attorneys the possibility of counter proceedings against the board.

ROBBED AS HE SITS WITH GIRL.

J. J. Shaw, 4301 South Halsted street, was robbed of $60 and his watch early yesterday by two men who approached as he was sitting in a car with Miss Margaret Walsh, 5218 South Union avenue, in front of Miss Walsh's home.

GASOLINE DEALER MISSING; HIS WIFE FEARS KIDNAPING

Samuel Levin, 38, years old, 165 North Pine street, owner of several gasoline filling stations and formerly a wholesale gasoline merchant, was reported missing yesterday by his wife, Rea, who advanced a theory that he might have been kidnaped.

SAMUEL LEVIN.

Levin sold his interest in the Consumers Gas and Oil company, the wholesale concern, on Friday. He received $7,-000 in a check. Mrs. Levin said that she did not believe he would carry so large an amount in cash. She did not know, however, what disposition he made of the check on Saturday.

Saturday evening Levin returned home from one of the stations he owns. His wife at the time was playing bridge at the home of her sister, Mrs. Benjamin Finkelberg, 4219 North Crawford avenue. After he had eaten dinner, Levin went to the Finkelberg home in his shirt sleeves and finding the game still in progress remarked that he was going to visit his brother-in-law, Finkelberg, at a gasoline station at Harding and Elston avenues.

Apparently he did not reach the station. The brother-in-law went home some time later and asserted he had not seen Levin.

According to the wife, Levin had no financial worries.

Child Is Killed by Train as Father Races to Save Him

While his father ran toward him in a vain attempt to stop him, Henry Robertson Jr., 21 months old, 140 Laurel avenue, Lake Forest, toddled into the path of a North Western railroad train yesterday and was killed. The boy left his home, a block from the railroad tracks, and when Robertson noticed his absence and went in pursuit it was too late to intercept him. The father is assistant gardener on the A. A. Carpenter estate.

FREEING OF MAD KILLER AROUSES BOARD TO ACTION

Loesch Orders Inquiry on Jail and Court Jobs.

Frank J. Loesch as president of the Chicago Crime commission yesterday ordered his assistants to make a general investigation into the efficiency of the present Criminal court and county jail employés. The inquiry is a result of the blunder on Tuesday which caused the release from jail of Michael O'Neil, a homicidal maniac. O'Neil had tried to kill his wife and threatened her with certain death if he were ever released.

The veteran lawyer, who is a member of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, advocated a "real civil service" system under which experienced employés would be retained in the various important jobs, such as those of court clerks, bailiffs, and jail guards. The present system, Mr. Loesch points out, provides for a virtual turnover of practically all jobs, such as has occurred within the last few months, as soon as new incumbents are elected to office.

"No One to Blame."

The crime commission, which revealed the escape of O'Neil while public officials sought to suppress the fact, decided to investigate the situation after George Seif, clerk of the criminal court, and Sheriff William D. Meyering, who controls the jail patronage, had investigated and exonerated their employés from blame.

O'Neil was freed on a notation that the charge of murderous assault against him had been stricken with leave to reinstate, but another notation that he was to be sent to Chester prison for the criminal insane was overlooked.

"One thing is certain and that is that O'Neil is walking the streets," said Mr. Loesch. "Certainly some one is responsible.

"A real civil service system which would retain experienced men in office would prevent such accidents, if you can call them such. Under the present system the public does not receive the service to which it is entitled from the partisan employés of the various criminal court offices."

How Witness Is Treated.

The commission called attention to the recent treatment of Adolph Berger, owner of a small food shop at 1415 East 58th street, who is prosecuting witness against a gang of youthful robbers. The defendants are Frank Tedesco, Angelo Ravenick, Frank Fragola and Frank Bailey. Bailey has since pleaded guilty and is to be sentenced tomorrow by Judge Burke. The other defendants are to appear for trial at the same time.

Berger went to the courtroom of Judge Finnegan, where the case was set for trial, but a change of venue had been taken by the defendants and the case sent to the chief justice for reassignment. Berger complained that he was shunted from courtroom to courtroom by bailiffs and clerks and that finally he was told to go home and wait for another subpœna which would inform him when and where the case was to come to trial.

Since the election of new county officials it is said that the office of the criminal court clerk, the sheriff's office, and even the jail, have been filled with new employés. It was thought by some of the officials that the jail would be immune from the political spoils system, but the crime commission has found that outside of Warden David Moneypenny, a few of his assistant superintendents, and one efficient clerk from the former régimes, the jail jobs have been filled with inexperienced precinct workers.

Loesch Points Out Evils.

"The political system governs us," said Mr. Loesch. "Instead of appointing competent men the sole qualification is that the man be a precinct captain or ward politician who can produce votes for the party machine.

"I regret that political appointees are forced on the warden of the jail, which is one place where political workers should not be sent to fill the jobs. The warden of the jail has a highly responsible position. He has to keep in safety hundreds of desperate criminals who are constantly scheming to escape. The warden must have men experienced in all the wiles of the criminals. To foist on the warden inexperienced men or political appointees is injurious to the public interest and unjust to the warden and to the public."

FIGHT IN COUNTY BOARD TODAY ON $35,000 CONTRACT

The county board at its session today will have before it a demand for the rejection of a report from its committee on roads and bridges recommending the award of a contract for the appraisal of road improvement property to Donald T. Morrison for the lump sum of $35,000. A project against acceptance of the bid has been made by the Manufacturers' Appraisal company, another bidder. In a statement issued yesterday the company charged that its bid, made on a fee basis, is the lowest.

UNTERMYER OUT AS COUNSEL FOR N.Y. TRANSIT BODY

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Samuel Untermyer, since 1926 an outstanding figure in the movement for New York City rapid transit unification, as well as federal and state court battles to preserve the 5 cent fare, announced today his resignation as special counsel for the transit commission. Last minute efforts of the commission and of Mayor Walker to persuade him to remain at the post he has held, without compensation, for nearly five years proved futile.

In his letter of resignation Mr. Untermyer declared the commission, by abdicating its duty to adopt and promulgate a unification plan, had made it impossible for him to continue. His letter included a bitter attack upon John H. Delaney, chairman of the board of transportation, whom he accused of usurping the commission's functions by inaugurating unification negotiations now in progress between the board of transportation and counsel for the B. M. T. and Interborough.

BILLS TO CURB BAIL BOND EVILS UP TO GOVERNOR

Legislation Is Seen as a Blow to Crime.

Cook county's courts will have a modern law dealing with bail bonds which will abolish the flagrant abuses under the present system if Gov. Emmerson approves three bills revising the law now awaiting his signature. This view was expressed yesterday by Marshall E. Keig who, as former president of the Commonwealth club, was instrumental in securing passage of the legislation.

The bail bond bills were introduced by Senator Arthur A. Husbech of Brookfield. They were drafted by a committee of the Commonwealth club after an exhaustive examination of bond laws in New York, Wisconsin, Georgia, and other states, and conferences with judges and local law enforcement officials.

Business to Be Licensed.

One of the Husbech bills provides for the licensing of all persons in the bail business, requiring certificates of good character and a $5,000 reserve deposit for use in case of bond forfeitures. Another measure simplifies procedure by the county when bonds are forfeited. The legislation further provides that bail in felony cases may be taken only by the judge before whom the case is pending. This provision is designed to prevent professional bondsmen from fixing their bonds before friendly judges.

"These bills, I believe, will strike a heavy blow at organized crime by greatly restricting the activities of unscrupulous professional bondsmen," said Mr. Keig. "They will not remove any of the rights of suspected persons but they certainly will knock out one of the props of the professional criminal."

Cites Statistics on Forfeitures.

Statistics were cited by Mr. Keig showing that in Cook county between 1916 and 1930 bail bonds aggregating $13,679,500 were forfeited in the Criminal court. Of that amount $2,337,600 was lost. The amount realized on bail bonds forfeited in the Criminal court between 1916 and 1930 was only $6,336.

Members of the committee which framed the bills included Thomas L. Marshall, new president of the Commonwealth club; Charles S. Peet, David A. Crawford, Ralph Hoyt, S. B. Thomason, and Hays MacFarland.

143 MILES AN HOUR

Franz Kruckenberg's "Zeppelin on wheels."

BERLIN, June 21.—(AP)—Franz Kruckenberg's "Zeppelin on wheels" today bettered by four minutes the regular Lufthansa passenger plane time between Hamburg and Spandau on the outskirts of Berlin, running the course in two minutes less than its own schedule.

Kruckenberg, the inventor, was accompanied in the high speed railroad coach by his wife, the pilot, Willy Black, his assistant, Kurt Stedefeld, and two mechanics.

A commercial airplane, which took off from Hamburg at the same time to follow the progress of the strange new rail speedster, was behind most of the time but overtoop the "Zeppelin on wheels" when it slowed down at the end of the journey.

Kruckenberg left Hamburg at 3:27 a. m. and covered the 160 mile stretch in 1 hour 36 minutes. His highest speed was 230 kilometers [about 143 miles an hour].

The inventor said his car was capable of even greater speed, but today's test was to demonstrate what such a propeller-driven coach can do when following a regular time table.

The coach, of a streamline type, is driven by a propeller powered by a 600 horse power airplane engine.

The test was held at an early hour when the entire stretch was cleared of other traffic.

STATE CAPITAL IS DESERTED AFTER ASSEMBLY QUITS

Legislators Hurry Away; Governor Gone.

Springfield, Ill., June 21.—[Special.]—Springfield was almost completely evacuated by legislators and the assembly staff today, even Gov. Emmerson having left for a few days in Minneapolis now that the session is over.

For the next week the greatest activity in the state house will take place in the enrolling and engrossing department, where the scores of bills passed at the last minute will be prepared for submission to the governor. Most of these will be sent to Attorney General Carstrom's office for opinions on their constitutionality before they go finally to the executive's desk.

The last assemblymen to leave town were considering that they had, at least, passed congressional reapportionment, the one big accomplishment of the session, redistricting the state into new congressional areas after a period of thirty years. Some of them will be back June 30 to consider veto messages from the governor. This is regarded as a perfunctory session and sine die adjournment will be taken as soon as it is concluded.

CAFE IN WHICH PRESIDENTS ATE RAZED BY FIRE

Norfolk, Va., June 21.—(AP)—O'Keefe's casino at Cape Henry, where Lynn Haven oysters and ham have drawn many of the country's notables in years gone by, burned to the ground this morning.

William Howard Taft, during his presidency, ate at O'Keefe's; Theodore Roosevelt, when he was President, and Nicholas Longworth dined there on occasion. Woodrow Wilson visited O'Keefe's while he was governor of New Jersey, and Calvin Coolidge had a taste of Virginia's delicacies there while he was still governor of Massachusetts. Warren G. Harding, as senator from Ohio, also dined there.

W. J. O'Keefe, who had been in charge of the restaurant since it opened, July 4, 1902, discovered the fire.

SEEK TO PROVIDE FOR BOYS COUNTY WILL NOT KEEP

177 Hit by Closing of 2 Institutions.

Grave concern is manifest these days in Juvenile court circles over the future of the 177 boys to be released on the community at the end of this month from the Oaks, a home harboring borderline defectives, and the Chicago and Cook County School for Boys. Both institutions have been ordered closed on July 1 by vote of the county commissioners because financial stress.

JUDGE BARTELME.

The county also insists the care of the boys is a state function. The Chicago and Cook county school is at 22d street and Harlem avenue, Riverside, and the Oaks is in Oak Forest.

Many possible solutions for the care of these boys, Judge Mary Bartelme points out, are impossible because of lack of funds. Boarding home placement would be the most effective disposition, it is believed, but no means to provide such care have been provided. To commit them to the St. Charles state training school, officials say, would be deplorable, because it would bring them in contact with older and more hardened boys. Moreover, conditions at St. Charles preclude that possibility, as the institution already is overcrowded.

Homes Not of the Best.

It will be equally unsatisfactory if these boys are returned to their own homes without the careful supervision necessary to insure protection for themselves and the public. For in many instances the home environment is anything but salutary.

In a comparatively desperate attempt to cope with this problem, Judge Bartelme, assisted by a newly organized group known as the Friends of the Juvenile Court, headed by Edward L. Ryerson Jr., is hoping to set up for these boys the same sort of service that for some years has been given to girl wards of her court through the Mary clubs. Each girl has been provided with a suitcase containing some necessities which she takes with her when a job is found for her, helping to restore her confidence in herself and the world as she begins life anew.

Building Ready for Use.

The Friends of the Juvenile Court already have secured the top floor of a building at Roosevelt road and Newberry avenue and have furnished it with ten beds. A matron has been secured to superintend, and the Junior league has provided furnishings for the rooms. Funds collected approximate $300, with which the boys will be given small articles of apparel, as well as haircuts and similar attentions which will permit each one to present himself to a prospective employer neat in appearance and easier in mind.

One hundred and twenty-two of the boys are inmates of the Chicago and Cook County school. Fifty-five others are now at the Oaks. Of this number, the jurist added, she had ascertained that twenty-two have no homes to go back to and would therefore be turned out on the street without either supervision or livelihood.

FATHER HAS HIS DAY, ALTHOUGH ABASHED BY FAMILY PRAISE

Dad was just a bit overwhelmed yesterday by being forced into the limelight on the one day in the year that is his own. He appeared somewhat abashed at being made the center of attraction, the topic of sermons, the guest of honor, the recipient of flowers and gifts and telegrams.

Activities in observance of the day included everything from the special church services in the morning, to the fathers' and sons' dinners in the evening. In between there were father and son golf and tennis matches. Father's favorite dishes were on the dinner table. There were messages from far away sons and daughters, to say nothing of the avalanche of ties and socks and handkerchiefs.

Boat Upsets; Plunges Ten in Hudson River; All Saved

New York, June 21.—(AP)—Ten members of a motorboat party were rescued from drowning in the Hudson river off upper Riverside drive tonight after their small craft had capsized and sunk. Five of the rescued were women.

PICNIC TRUCK IS WRECKED; BOY KILLED, 5 HURT

Two Deaths in Chicago Raise Toll to 523.

A school boy was crushed to death and four other persons were injured yesterday when a delivery truck bearing a party of ten to a picnic grove near McHenry overturned on the Rand road two miles north of Lake Zurich in Lake county.

Elmer Sunagel, 14 years old, 4814 Argyle street, a prospective grammar school graduate this week, was killed. His father, August Sunagel, suffered a deep gash over the right eye, another boy, 8 years old, Robert Wilson, 6119 Addison street, had his nose torn almost completely from his face; his grandfather, William Schwartz, 65 years old, was slashed about the face, and Edward Dittman, 28 years old, 5655 Giddings street, suffered a crushed leg.

Driver of Truck Unhurt.

The truck driver, George Traud, 26 years old, 4900 Kruger avenue, a brother-in-law of the dead boy, was among those unhurt. The injured were treated at the private hospital of Dr. J. A. Ross at Wauconda, and later sent home.

At an inquest, held four hours after the accident at the hospital, Traud told a coroner's jury he believed the steering knuckle of the truck became locked, pitching the machine off the road, where it overturned. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

Two Die in Chicago.

The deaths of two Chicago traffic victims yesterday increased the Cook county motor toll this year to 523. The dead:

Mrs. Catherine Murvik, 56 years old, 2640 Harvey avenue, Berwyn. She died in the Belmont hospital of injuries suffered Saturday night when the automobile driven by her son, Victor, collided head-on with a car driven by John Naetert, 3926 Dickens street, in the 5200 block in North Crawford avenue. The son and Naetert escape injury.

William H. Rose, 65 years old, 7343 Clyde avenue. Mr. Rose, former vice consul of the Bolivian government in Chicago, died at his home supposedly as the result of injuries suffered Feb. 16 when an automobile knocked him down at 72d street and Jeffery avenue. Grand Crossing police were to notify the driver to attend the inquest this morning in a mortuary at 4141 Cottage Grove avenue.

Mr. Rose was head of Reynolds and Rose, real estate firm at 7 South Dearborn street, and had been in the mortgage and real estate business in Chicago for forty years.

Two Oak Park youths were arrested late last night by State Highway Policemen Victor Edgren and Edward Krotz after their machine collided head-on with that of Brice Armstrong, prohibition agent, injuring Armstrong's wife and children. The men seized are Edwin Sargent, 231 South Taylor avenue, and Stanley Jones, 241 South Scoville avenue.

The accident happened at Irving Park boulevard and Harlem avenue. Sargent and Jones, police said, were driving from a gas station without paying for a load of gasoline and were shoving the attendant off the running board of their car at the time of the crash.

HARRIET TAYLOR, GENEALOGICAL EXPERT, IS DEAD

Mrs. Harriet S. Taylor, 75 years old, for thirty-five years custodian of the genealogy department of Newberry library, 60 West Walton place, died yesterday at the Illinois Masonic hospital. She had been ill for some time.

Mrs. Taylor was known to thousands of men and women throughout the country and especially to many of Chicago's most prominent families whose genealogies she traced. Her research skill was in demand particularly by women seeking admission to the Daughters of the American Revolution.

In her long service to the library, she never lived beyond sight of the institution. Her home at the time of her death was in the Newberry hotel, 617 North Dearborn street.

LONG ISLAND TO HAVE PEEK-A-BOO HOUSE OF GLASS

Hires Glass Blowers to Build Him a Home.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—The first glass house is being built on Long Island. Heretofore these peek-a-boo residences have been no more than an idea in this part of the country. Paris reports that one grew up overnight on the Rue St. Guillaume early in the spring, but it was one of those translucent—look out but don't look in—homes. The glass in the Long Island residence is going to be as transparent as a 5th avenue shop window.

Walter Harrison, one of the architects for "Radio City," is going to live in E. and A. Lawrence Kocher, the designer of the house, told about the innovation in building today.

The glass house will be completed within the next ten days and will occupy a site near Syosset, L. I. There will be a lot of room around it, but the space is for additional glass because it has not been reserved for purposes of privacy. Anyhow, there will be a lot more privacy in this glass house than Mr. Goldfish has in the glass bowl, for the Long Island residence will have composition walls throughout about half of the building.

Rises Nucleus of Structure.

The doll-like, three story glass affair which was on exhibition at the architects' show here last April will form the nucleus of Mr. Harrison's home. A couple of additional guests' rooms, a nursery and a maid's room are being blown in a nearby glass factory, and this is holding up the completion of the residence. It is all a matter of assembly of parts, and when the many pieces are ready the house is to be thrown together in six days.

"The walls of the glass house," said Mr. Kocher, "are three inches thick and fireproof. There is no basement. People who live in glass houses or for that matter any other type of modern house have no need for basements in these days of mechanical heating and refrigeration. The garage, furnace, porch and storage room is built on the first floor. The kitchen, dining room, living room, library and bedrooms are on the second floor.

"The living room has a 17-foot ceiling, and its walls are entirely of glass. It runs end to the dining room with a composite glass and steel table. The library is on a glass and steel balcony and is lighted with skylights from the glass roof. The garage doors are opened by radio. The house is supported by six aluminum pillars from which the beams are swung on a cantilever plan.

"The Harrison home will cost about $4,500."

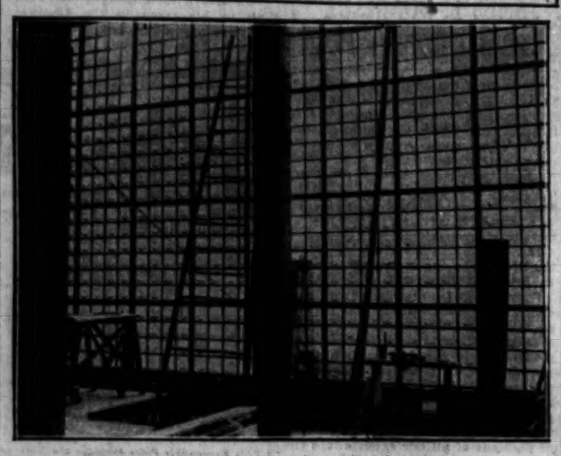
Built Cheaply and Quickly.

The Syosset glass residence is only the beginning of a Long Island glass era, according to the glass house sponsors. Mr. Locher asserts that with standardized measurements these glass and metal houses can be made on a mass production scale at cost to home owners of $3,000 or less and that they can be completely assembled within a week.

Right now Mr. Kocher and several associate architects are working on plans for a glass and metal house that will have all the space and advantages of the Harrison home, but which will cost only $3,500. The supports will be made of steel instead of aluminum with walls one inch thick instead of three. The walls will be made of asbestos coated with metal and treated with a composition that will make them soundproof, weatherproof and fireproof.

Plans have already been drawn for a roadside stand and for a filling station to be built entirely of glass and steel on Northern boulevard near the New York city line.

PARIS GLASS HOUSE INHABITED



Tenants of this house can throw stones without fear of retaliation. It is constructed of translucent glass and it is situated in such a way that it obtains the maximum of the day's sunshine, the light rays giving a diffused lighting effect which is restful to the eyes. Ordinary Saint-Gobtain unpolished glass is used in its construction.

SUMMER COMES TO CHICAGO; THIS IS ITS FIRST DAY

Summer officially begins at 4:28 a. m., daylight saving time, today. Officially, also, this is the longest day in the year, although the determination of the longest is a matter merely of academic interest, the difference in the time elapsed between the rising and the setting of the sun daily being less than a minute from June 17 to June 25, inclusive. The sun rises today at 5:14 a. m. and sets at 8:28 p. m.

PHONE FRANCHISE ISSUES COME TO CRISIS TODAY

Members of the city council committee on gas, oil and electricity will learn today whether the Illinois Bell Telephone company will make concessions to the city to replace the free city hall telephone service which the city loses under the terms of the new franchise now being negotiated.

The cost of the free service, at the regular subscriber rates, has been variously estimated at between $180,000 and $200,000 annually. Several members of the committee have insisted that if the city has to pay for this service the rate of compensation that the company pays for the use of the streets should be boosted proportionally.

Under a motion sponsored by Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th] the city attorneys were authorized to take up with the attorneys for the company the question of adding an additional percentage, equal to the value of the free service, to the proposed compensation of 3 per cent on the gross revenues of the company.

HOOVER AWAITS FRENCH ANSWER TO MORATORIUM

Success Hinges on What Paris Decides.

ested powers should go a long way toward lessening the burdens of depression and restoring prosperity at home and abroad.

"I am happy that the United States, through the President and statesmen who have put welfare of the country and world above partisan considerations, has come forward with a proposal that offers such great hopes to distressed peoples.

"I shall do everything within my power to advance it."

With the promulgation of the President's proposal the eyes of the administration turned today toward France, whose approval or disapproval will determine the fate of the project.

Authoritative assurance that the British government will accept has already been received from London, where the plan originated in conversations between Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson, and Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England.

Germany Welcomes Proposal.

Germany, of course, welcomes the step toward lightening her staggering burden of reparations payments temporarily, hoping, moreover, that the action of President Hoover will prove the entering wedge to a radical revision downward, if not eventual cancellation, of the war indemnity exacted by the victors from the vanquished in the world war. Nor is it doubted here that Dictator Mussolini will place Italy's seal of approval upon the Hoover proposal.

But it is France that will make or break the project and nothing definite regarding the attitude of the Paris government has so far been received by President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson.

France Has Most at Stake.

From the dollars and cents point of view France has more at stake in the situation produced by Mr. Hoover's suggestion than has any of the other powers. Under the Young settlement France is scheduled to receive about 201 million dollars in reparations from Germany during the fiscal year beginning July 1, next, which is the period during which the President proposes that reparations and war debt payments shall be suspended.

During that year France is obligated to pay Great Britain 65 millions and the United States approximately 40 millions on her funded war debt. Mr. Hoover's proposal therefore means to France the foregoing of a net 96 millions in revenue during the next fiscal year.

For the United States the reduction of revenue will be about 200 millions, the amount by which the prospective deficit next year will be increased by the postponement of war debt payments. The United States is due to receive 62 millions in payment of principal, 184 millions in interest, and 16 millions in reimbursement by Germany for the cost of the American army of occupation on the Rhine. Inasmuch as the principal payment goes to retirement of Liberty bonds the revenue will be reduced to the extent of the allied powers' interest payments and the German payment, aggregating 200 millions.

No Loss to Britain.

Great Britain faces virtually no loss at all. The British are to receive next year 80 millions in German reparations and 80 millions from France, Italy and other allied debtors. The amount Britain is obligated to pay the United States is about 161 millions. Thus what Britain is due to receive and is due to pay about balances.

The French government has at all times been a strong supporter of Great Britain in propagandizing for the remission of war debts but has always turned a deaf ear to suggestions of cancellation of German reparations, or at least such amount of reparations as exceeds the amount France is obligated to pay her creditors. Now France finds herself face to face in the Hoover proposal with the proposition in principle she has always rejected—namely: the complete suspension of reparations as well as war debt payments.

London Furnishes Inspiration.

While President Hoover did not specifically mention it in his statement, the understanding here is that the proposed suspensions include the 42 per cent of reparations payments by Germany which are classed as non-postponable under the Young plan as well as the 58 per cent which may be postponed under provisions of the reparations compact.

It is now amply established that London furnished the inspiration for the President's proposal, which is in line with what British statesmen have been maneuvering for weeks to bring about. At the recent Chequers conference between the heads of the German and British governments the subject to which the conferees returned again and again was how to get America in line for an all round reduction, if not cancellation, of reparations and war debts.

The conference closed with its participants pinning their hopes to intimations from Washington that Mr. Hoover would be hospitable to a reopening of the debt settlements if Europe were to proceed to disarm.

Then along came Mr. Mellon to see his son graduated from Cambridge and the British leaped to the opportunity. Mr. Mellon was drawn into conferences with the British prime minister and governor of the Bank of England.

They painted for him a dark picture of the condition of Europe. Germany was portrayed on the brink of bankruptcy and communism. Something must be done quickly to stave off disaster. Mr. Mellon was moved. He hastened to the telephone and called Washington. He communicated the apprehensions he had been listening to and the suggestions of the action that should be taken.

ITALY, AUSTRIA, AND SPAIN APPROVE PLAN PRESENTED BY HOOVER

ROME, June 21.—(AP)—President Hoover's proposal for a moratorium on war debts is widely praised here, although official comment will not be available until tomorrow. Since Italy's debts are roughly equivalent to the reparations which she receives, a moratorium would have little direct effect here, but any improvement in world conditions would benefit Italy.

Austria Approves Plan.

VIENNA, June 21.—(AP)—Dr. Johann Schober, Austrian foreign minister, characterizing President Hoover's moratorium offer as "a noble and important action," asserted today that if brought to fruition it will produce real peace in Europe and throughout the world. The President's offer is a cause for gratitude in Austria, he said, "for these enormous war debts are the despair and ruin of the nations."

Spanish Press Favorable.

MADRID, June 21.—(AP)—President Hoover's plan for a delay in payment of war reparations received a favorable echo in the Madrid press today. The conservative ABC termed the proposal "a most important gesture" and said it undoubtedly would be a big step toward solving the international depression.

E. N. HURLEY AND JAMES L. DONNELLY PRAISE HOOVER PLAN

Comment from prominent Chicagoans lauding the proposal of President Hoover for a one year suspension of international debts continued yesterday and last night. Among those who praised the presidential offer were Edward N. Hurley, former chairman of the United States Shipping board, and James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

Mr. Hurley, in his endorsement of the plan, sent the following telegram to President Hoover:

"My hearty congratulations on your constructive recommendations that all payments of intergovernmental debts, reparations, and relief debts, both principal and interest, be postponed for one year. I am convinced that your action will have a very stimulating effect on world business. As president of the American Manufacturers Export association, who ship 60 per cent of all our exports into the markets of the world, I know they will profit materially by the confidence your plan will create."

Bind and Rob Victim in Downtown Hotel

Two armed men held up Raymond Fink in his room in the Congress hotel late yesterday, bound him with adhesive tape and bed sheets, and escaped with $150. The bandits entered his room by posing as prospective applicants for jobs as salesmen. After the robbers fled Fink worked himself free from his bonds, and notified police. Fink is from Pittsburgh.

FRANCE FROWNS ON MORATORIUM; MAY REFUSE PLAN

Cabinet Crisis Feared on Question.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 21.—France will find it next to impossible to accept President Hoover's plan for a one year moratorium on all war debts if it is linked with or made conditional upon further disarmament, according to authentic information received from a source close to the French foreign office late tonight. It is generally believed here that the French government's attitude on disarmament will be the stumbling block which may wreck the whole project.

Recent Disarmament.

It is impossible to obtain official confirmation of this news today, but observers of the situation point out that the majority of the chamber of deputies bitterly resents various curtailments of France's military and naval forces which have already been forced down its throat by the left or pacifist wing.

The government is put in an embarrassing position by American initiative and the danger of a cabinet crisis was declared to be real. The crux here is that President Hoover's views regarding disarmament are entirely academic, and that America will not attempt to put teeth into them.

France Will Reply Slowly.

In contrast to the ready German and English acceptance of the proposal, it is learned that a French reply is not likely to be made before one week. It is rumored in certain quarters that Foreign Secretary Aristide Henderson will accompany Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, to Paris to try and beat down French opposition.

Unofficial statements and press comment indicate that about the only good the French can see in President Hoover's proposed moratorium is a chance to entangle the United States further in European politics and if possible make the United States responsible for the liquidation of the world war. Action along these lines is expected very shortly.

Pierre Etienne Flandin, finance minister, had a long interview with Clement Moret, governor of the Bank of France, in which they discussed the technical aspects of the moratorium. The decisions arrived at by them will be the basis for an exchange of notes with London, following a meeting of the cabinet on Tuesday. Some quarters state that no formal answer will be sent to President Hoover until after the arrival of M. Mellon, who is expected some time during the week.

Trouble for Mellon.

But how far France will go is unclear, but it is a cinch that Mr. Mellon and Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state, are going to get much more than they bargained for when they start conferring with the French.

It is learned from reliable unofficial sources that the French government, in addition to shying at the disarmament feature, is busy formulating reservations to the Hoover scheme which, if they do not wreck it, may put it very far away from the original purpose of a simple moratorium on our debts. First, France is willing in principle to accept a moratorium on Germany's conditional annuities under the Young plan; which are used to pay on the French debt to America, but shies at giving up the unconditional annuity of $100,000,000 in war reparations.

It is felt here that President Hoover's note logically constitutes the abandonment of the traditional thesis that reparations have nothing to do with war debts, and all possible pressure will be brought to bear to make Washington formally commit itself on this point. Whether France would refuse the American proposal because of the unconditional annuities alone is uncertain. But this claim will be used as a basis for further bargaining at least.

Meanwhile the nation as a whole is considering President Hoover's note with a coolness that borders on disapproval, and the rabid nationalist press is using it as an excuse for another attack on the United States.

"Once more it looks like France will foot the bill for the reconciliation banquet," says La Liberte.

Much more important than editorial comment is a statement from Francois Poncet, M. Briand's right hand man at Geneva, which has virtually the weight of an official pronouncement. He said:

"It is a very big thing to interrupt the Young plan after one year's existence, and it is unfortunate that the situation should come to this. One must always find lenders of money and be able to give them reliable guarantees. What will the lenders under the Young plan think when the 50 years agreed upon in the plan seem to be changing to 50 weeks?"

ENGLAND HEARTY IN APPROVAL OF DEBT HOLIDAY

Believe Trade Increase Will Result.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 21.—There is no doubt of London's opinion of President Hoover's gesture toward Europe in proposing a one year suspension of all war debts. It is one of unqualified gratification and approval. British official, political, financial and industrial circles are unanimous in this. All agree that "it is a noble gesture" and the most important event in Europe since the armistice, and dispatches from several capitals indicate that nearly all of Europe, except France is equally enthusiastic in welcoming the moratorium idea.

But President Hoover's announcement certainly came as a surprise to London despite the tremendous importance of the events of the past week.

The British government attaches the greatest importance to this move and is extremely hopeful of its outcome. Prime Minister MacDonald has already consulted with the ministers concerned and a full meeting of the cabinet has been called to consider the proposals in detail.

There is considerable satisfaction in British government circles over the fact that President Hoover's offer so closely follows Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon's conversations with Mr. MacDonald and Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary. Until the American President's statement is fully examined in all of its aspects, the view of official circles is that it is premature at the moment for any declaration to be made, but the prime minister is expected to make a statement tomorrow in the house of commons concerning the subject.

See Further Coöperation.

Official circles here did not expect that Washington would decide to take any definite action for the relief of Germany's troubles until after meetings between Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Prime Minister MacDonald, and Chancellor Bruening and Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson towards the end of next month in Berlin. But now that the action is taken, it is regarded here as an event of far reaching importance, the general opinion being that it is in the nature of a pledge by the United States henceforth to coöperate in the economic reconstruction of the European continent.

It is interpreted to mean that President Hoover believes that the breathing time afforded by a moratorium will facilitate a review by some international body of the whole problem of war payments, especially in their effect on international trade.

Mellon Is Silent.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who is spending the week-end at Cambridge visiting his son, declined to make a statement regarding the moratorium proposal.

"Naturally I know about it," he said. "But I cannot discuss the terms at all. The situation is delicate and everything, to be said from our side must come first from America. A statement by me might be misrepresented or misunderstood over there and might be prejudicial to the negotiations. I cannot take any risks. It is quite definite that no statement on international affairs can be made by me while I am in England."

In London financial circles there is no uncertainty that the American government's proposal will be greeted with profound relief and satisfaction. President Hoover's dramatic offer is expected to be reflected immediately in a rise in security values on the stock exchange tomorrow. It should also lead financial experts to anticipate a big recovery in commodity prices, the fall in which has been one of the main causes of the depression.

RED TROOPS WITH WILD DOGS GUARD CHINESE BORDER

Those Who Cross Liable to Be Torn to Pieces.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD TRANS-SIBERIAN EXPRESS, May 11.—[By Mail.]—There is a squad of frontier militia aboard the train, the trusted, blue-ribbon lads of the G. P. U., accompanied by their dogs, to relieve a contingent on the Usuri border.

Their job is to keep Chinese from sneaking across the river and peddling contraband in Russia, but chiefly to prevent Russians from escaping across that stream into Manchuria.

The dogs are of the German police dog breed, crossed, they say, with Siberian wolfhound, and they seem exceedingly fierce as they leap about and strain at the leashes of their masters, who take them off the train for exercise up and down the station platform every time the train stops.

Fed on Raw Meat.

"We feed them nothing but raw meat," one of the Red guards said. "That keeps them savage, and they will tear any one to pieces if they catch him trying to get across the frontier."

I looked at the mutts and wondered if it were true. I certainly saw them eating everything except raw meat or meat of any kind. They licked up some spoiled chicken cutlets that I started to throw away, and they nearly bit the arm off a Chinese gentleman who had just purchased a couple of salt herring to eat peacefully in his hard car. They ate a bit of cake that I threw one, and even tried to swallow a cigaret butt.

"We feed them fish occasionally," one of the Red guards said, "but that's good for them. They are trained to catch Kinesi [Chinese], and they taste like fish anyway."

The other Red guards roared with laughter and the Chinese within hearing looked extremely displeased.

Finds Railway Food Terrible.

During this long trek across Russia I must have visited a hundred railway dining rooms, or buffets, as they are called, and in none of them did I see anything more edible than growing rubber plants. At least the broad, green, oily looking leaves looked more tempting to me than the sour, soggy, black bread and the repulsive, dirty looking kasha, and the evil smelling bitter cabbage soup.

Russians love rubber plants and somebody must have done a land office business selling them originally.

"They like them because they live in these regions where there is not a green thing growing for nine or ten months of the year," a man on the train explained.

Sure enough, in all the houses propped up in the windows to get the sunshine, were rubber plants, big and little, chiefly big and how.

Despite all the propaganda and all the roaring about tractors and mechanized farming, I saw only two such machines in operation all the way across the continent. At several stations I saw caterpillars on flat cars, ready to be unloaded, and in many more places I saw stocks of various agricultural implements, ploughs, harrows, rakes, seeders, combines, but invariably the humble peasant was using an old-fashioned little hand plough when I saw him working in the field.

True, the season was too early for an intensive cultivation to be under way, but I caught no sight of the modern machinery, so loudly proclaimed by Moscow as distributed everywhere, in the barns as I passed them.

Collective farms became fewer and fewer as I came east. One can always tell them by the big barns with all the stock quartered together and the inevitable clubhouse with the red flag flying in the stiff eastward breeze.

Not So Many Soldiers.

Nor did I see as many soldiers as I had expected. The usual railway police were on duty at every station, scrutinizing every one who got off the train, peering curiously into windows to see who was in the train. And the usual forlorn sentry in his shuba, guarding every bridge and culvert and tunnel.

I passed several troop trains, some going east, some going west, and there were a number of freight trains carrying field guns, guarded by artillerymen. One train had aboard a couple of batteries of big howitzers, ten or twelve inch guns, I figured. The short, squat rifles were on one car, detached from the heavy breeches and bases, which were carried on other cars.

All along through Siberia, in the larger towns, the most imposing buildings, except in some cases the churches, were the prisons. Big stone or log structures, surrounded by walls and with barbed wire entanglements outside them. They were originally night stopping places for the caravans of exiles who tramped eastward to banishment under the czars. Now they are used as permanent places of incarceration for those who transgress the soviet regime.

Reminders of Revolution.

Always near the railroad ran the Great Siberian road, the only means of communication before the railroad, over which went freights, passengers, mail and exiles in the old days. Sometimes the road was stoned or cobbled for short distances, but usually it was just a wide brown trail, worn into countless ruts as passersby had sought to left and right to find hard footing.

There were many reminders of the revolution and the counter-revolution, too, when the armies of Denekin, Koltchak and others sought to overthrow the Reds. Each side, on retreating, burned stations and blew up bridges and wrecked the railroad, the only means of transport, as much as possible. Twisted masses of iron and steel still lie beside many rivers, mute evidence of attempts by one side or another to cut the line.

Always I was struck by the phenomenon that country produce costs more out in these wide open spaces than in shops in Moscow. Butter, milk, eggs, chickens, bread, everything, is from three to ten times more expensive than in the state shops. The reason I apparent after a little study. The government purchases, or rather, confiscates, from the peasants all it can reach, or acquires from convenient collective or state farms at a price it fixes.

Nothing to Buy with Money.

These peasants, operating independently, can charge as much as the traffic will bear, and furthermore, they are influenced by the depreciating purchasing price of the ruble. They can buy nothing with the paper money they accumulate. Shelves in the stores in these little towns are empty, there are no manufactured goods available for distribution here; the little there is goes to the larger cities for the factory workers, the proletariat.

Rather than see their eggs go bad and the butter become rancid and the milk turn sour they sell, but only at a price.

There is less misery apparent as one goes east. True, the people are all shabbily clad, many in ragged garments, all patched, but the crowd of bums and hangerson at railway stations diminishes gradually.

Tramps Go to Cities.

"All the tramps work their way west to the large cities," the conductor explained. "The only people beating their way east are those who are trying to get out of the country, to slip across the frontier, as of course they have no passports or exit visas. They travel chiefly by night and hide in the day, keeping out of sight of the railway police, or they will be arrested."

Mighty few homeless kids, too, which was a relief after the awful sights of the Ukraine and Caucasus, with their bands of wandering children, barefooted, clad in tatters, black with dirt, rapacious and famishing as they begged and stole for their masters, the crafty road tramps.

MAYORS RETURNING FROM LIMELIGHT OF FRENCH TOUR TODAY

New York, June 21.—(AP)—The arrival of the party of American mayors and civic representatives whose activities on a "good will" tour of France frequently occupied the front pages of their home town newspapers, was awaited with interest tonight.

Among the 23 members of the group returning tomorrow aboard the liner Ile de France, Particular interest attached to Mayor James L. Key of Atlanta, whose statements criticising prohibition while aboard had widespread repercussions at home.

The question of drinking champagne at banquets became a problem as soon as the party landed in France a month ago today. Mayor John Porter of Los Angeles and his wife refused to drink intoxicating wines, saying they intended to obey the constitution of the United States even when they were away from home.

Friday those who had made the tour held a meeting on the liner and agreed that upon their arrival they would give out one general statement to the press, in order to avoid "embarrassing interviews."

SEIZED AS ROBBERY ACCOMPLICE.

Joseph La Rue, 26 years old, 4069 Kenmore avenue, was arrested yesterday and charged with being an accomplice of Frank Whyte, 27 years old, 1612 Prairie avenue, who was caught Saturday night in an attempt to hold up the Hyde Park hotel.

SEN. HAWES AND FILIPINOS TALK FREEDOM PLANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, June 21.—Senator Harry B. Hawes [Dem., Mo.] in a conference with Filipino leaders last night regarding plans for the independence campaign, promised to attempt to pass the independence bill at the next sessions of congress. The conference was held in the strictest secrecy and was attended by leading members of the cabinet and legislative assembly.

An interesting discussion followed the senator's suggestion to amend the bill by providing for a five year trial period to be followed by a plebiscite on the question of independence. Miguel Unson, secretary of finance, told Mr. Hawes that the real trial was as to whether the Philippines could withstand the loss of the free American market.

There Are Springs in a Blanket

IF YOU were to look at one of your blankets through a microscope you would see millions of woolly fibres that look exactly like tiny springs. When a blanket is new, each of these spring-like fibres is free and resilient and makes the blanket fleecy and soft. But when grit and dirt get into the blanket they press down upon the fibres, making them hard and matted.

Davies' special "Squeeze Process" of blanket cleaning removes this grit and dirt from every one of these fibres. And it removes them so skillfully that it absolutely prevents shrinking or fading. Have your blankets cleaned by Davies' exclusive "Squeeze Process" now, before you put them away. It will add years to their wear and will preserve their lovely softness and warmth. SHIP SURGEON, STARR'S FRIEND, AIDS DEATH QUIZ

Reveals One of 3 Letters She Wrote Him.

New York, June 22 [Monday].—[Special.]—Starr Faithfull indicated a "fully meditated desire for suicide" in a letter she wrote Dr. G. Jameson Carr, the Cunard line surgeon with whom she was infatuated, on June 4, the day before she disappeared and four days before her bruised and lifeless body was washed ashore at Long Beach, L. I.

This was revealed early this morning at Mineola by Inspector Harold R. King, chief of the Nassau county detectives, who said, however, that he still was of an "open mind" as to whether the girl was slain, as the authorities at first believed, a suicide, or a victim of accidental death.

Meanwhile Dr. Carr, who is due to arrive here today on the Laconia, said in an interview while that ship lay over in Boston that he was in possession of evidence which will serve to establish the movements of the dead girl in the seventy-two hours preceding her death.

Wrote Him Three Letters.

Dr. Carr said that Miss Faithfull had written three letters to him between the time of their last meeting, on May 29, and her disappearance on June 5. He declined to discuss their contents but said he was not surprised to learn of her death and knew that he was bound to become personally involved in the case.

A copy of one of these letters was made public by Inspector King this morning. It merely expressed regret for the girl's conduct at the time of the sailing of the Franconia on May 29, when Dr. Carr rebuffed her for her intoxicated condition.

Inspector King said he was not fully aware of the contents of the letter showing her suicidal leanings.

Seeks Apology.

The letter he made public was as follows:

"Dear Mr. Carr: I want to apologize and to tell you how deeply I regret my conduct on the Franconia last Friday. I had come down hoping to renew our acquaintance, but I fear I only made a fool of myself and that it was very disagreeable for you. I had brought some drinks on the boat with me and drank them too fast. I become intensely irrational when I drink, and I want you to know how deeply sorry I am for the embarrassment I must have caused you. Very sincerely,

"STARR FAITHFULL."

The letter was written on the stationery of the Pennsylvania hotel and was dated June 3. It was addressed to Dr. Carr, care of the Cunard company, Liverpool.

HUNT CAUSE OF BLAST WHICH WRECKED STORE

Firemen and policemen yesterday conducted an investigation to determine the cause of a terrific blast which wrecked a Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company store at 4405-07 Sheridan road in the early morning hours.

Two passing automobiles were dented by debris hurled out by the explosion, which occurred in the basement, and A. B. Tredmond, 4418 North Racine avenue, was struck by a can. Windows of other nearby buildings were smashed.

The police held back a crowd of about 1,500 attracted by the blast while firemen extinguished a small blaze which followed. John Stahl, fire marshal of the third division, expressed the opinion that gas accumulating in the basement had caused the blast.

PARKED COUPLE ROBBED.

Edward H. Wolfertz, 2712 Ballou avenue, was sitting in an automobile early yesterday with Miss Helen Vallee, 5101 Ainslie street, in front of her home when three robbers approached. They took $40 from Miss Vallee and $79 from Wolfertz.

Baby Falls Into Boiling Water; Dies of Scalds

Marie De Rosa, 19 months old, died last night at the Mother Cabrini hospital of scalds suffered June 15 when she fell into a pan of boiling water in her home at 1111 Vernon Park place. Armita Azzi, 4 years old, 2217 South Irving avenue, was seriously burned last night when her dress caught fire as she was playing with lighted punk in the yard of her home. She was taken to St. Anthony's hospital.

Shove Saves Child Falling Over Cliff; Teacher Killed

Lenoir, N. C., June 21.—(AP)—Lillian Arhelgar, 21, Charlotte school teacher, died tonight of injuries suffered yesterday in a fall over a 60 foot cliff in attempting to save a small girl from the same fall. The young teacher landed on jagged rocks and never regained consciousness. She saved the child's life with a push as both went over the cliff. The shove sent the child clear of the rocks to fall in a soft sand pit. She was not injured.

ITALIANS HOLD PROCESSIONS AS POPE LIFTS BAN

ROME, June 21.—(AP)—Public religious processions were resumed in Italy today after Pope Pius raised his ban against these ceremonials in the country Thursday. Because of the controversy between the Vatican and the Italian government, Italy has been without these cherished processions for almost a month. Most of today's parades were those which had been postponed from other feast days.

Perhaps the most vivid was that held at Genzano, called "Infiorata" because hundreds of flower girls scattered blossoms on the street, and the marchers, including the city's entire clergy, marched on a thick floral carpet. This ceremony originally was scheduled for June 4.

Virtually every diocese had a procession in honor of Saint Anthony of Paduz, the seven hundredth anniversary of whose death was honored June 13. In each case the diocesan bishop was required to give special permission in conformity with the pope's orders.

THE MORATORIUM.

Recent critical developments in the financial situation of Germany have precipitated action by the President and procured for it the assent of a formidable list of senators and representatives, including most of the leaders of both parties in congress. While the President's statement is guarded as to the immediate facts which have induced him to propose a moratorium, the recent withdrawals of foreign funds from the Reichsbank and "an abnormal movement of gold into the United States" noted in European reports indicate an emergency which we must assume justifies the American initiative. The financial collapse of the present German government would be a misfortune to which the American people would certainly not wish to contribute, though we trust our representatives in any subsequent cooperation for the stabilization of the European credit situation will see to it that our contribution is fairly proportionate to our interest. We are of course interested in the economic and political stability of Europe, but not so nearly nor so vitally as Germany's neighbors, one of which at least has thus far shown a minimum of concern over the possibilities from which we are exhorted to save European society at our own special expense.

The moratorium doubtless will be approved by congress, and that virtual certainty, we trust, will have a stabilizing influence. It is in this view, as an emergency measure and not as prelude to war debt revision, that it will be approved by the nation. Mr. Hoover has therefore wisely reiterated our position and stressed his own opposition to debt cancellation.

THE OUSTING OF MR. CUTMORE

The board of assessors of Cook county has fired its director of appraisals, Mr. Harry Cutmore.

This is the same board of assessors which has shown no embarrassment in having among its membership Mr. Gene Oliver. Mr. Oliver was found guilty of cheating the United States government in his income tax return. He has been sentenced to 18 months in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth and unless the higher courts reverse the verdict he will be wearing a prison uniform one of these days. Mr. Oliver and his complacent confrères, in removing Mr. Cutmore, issued a statement in which Mr. Cutmore's probity was impeached. That is a lily which seems to need no painting.

Mr. Cutmore is a professional appraiser. When the incompetence and dishonesty of the elected assessing officials of this county had resulted in a complete breakdown of the assessing machinery Mr. Cutmore was called in to direct the job of reappraisal which was required in the reassessment order.

Probably the majority of taxpayers of Chicago regarded the reassessment with suspicion. They thought that it would prove to be merely a pretext for increasing the total tax collections. Mr. Cutmore's work was therefore subjected to the closest scrutiny not only by corruptionists who regarded him as a nuisance but as well by honest taxpayers. It is no small tribute to Mr. Cutmore that if he has not gained the esteem of the board of assessors he has earned the respect of taxpayers generally.

THE TRIBUNE shared the popular suspicion of the reassessment and followed its progress, therefore, with something more than the usual watchfulness. It is our belief that Mr. Cutmore has been an honest, conscientious, and able public servant. If mistakes were made by him, we believe they were not made from dishonorable motives. Mr. Cutmore was obliged to work as best he could with the staff sent him by the politicians from the patronage lists. In spite of that handicap he gave Chicago and Cook county what is generally conceded by impartial observers to be the fairest assessment which the community has had in decades.

That is not to say that there is not a great amount of dissatisfaction among taxpayers or that their complaints are not merited. Taxes are too high, and they bear too heavily upon real estate. The board of assessors has already sought to fasten the blame for high taxes upon Mr. Cutmore, but we do not think the effort will prove successful. It was Mr. Cutmore's job merely to place a valuation upon the hundreds of thousands of property holdings in the county. It was his task to appraise a bungalow worth $5,000 at $6,000 and an office building worth $1,000,000 at $1,000,000. It was his duty to prevent one $5,000 bungalow from being assessed at $1,000 and its duplicate next door at $6,000. He was merely the appraiser. The tax rates were no business of his and by no stretch of the meaning of words can he be charged with responsibility for high taxes in Cook county.

Mr. Cutmore retires to private life with the respect of the honest citizens of Cook county. That may go far toward explaining why he is out of office.

THE LEGISLATIVE FAILURE.

It will be a matter of general agreement that the Illinois general assembly of 1931 was a failure from any point of view. A legislature frequently can be judged by what it refuses to do, and sometimes its greatest service is negative. It must meet to appropriate for the expenses of government. The number of bills, other than money bills, required every two years for the proper conduct of government should not be very large. Statutory law ought not to need expansive repairing biennially, but it can take some.

This year was out of the ordinary. It is not usual for public finances to be in such condition as they are now. The public services have been handed the consequences of years of terrible administration of government. It was in the failure to show any consideration for these conditions that the assembly revealed itself at its worst.

One thing the assembly did which was undone by the governor. It repealed the Illinois search and seizure act, the state prohibition law, as instructed by the referendum vote of the people. Mr. Emmerson vetoed the repeal. The prohibition law in Illinois politics has produced a damaging confusion of ethical standards. It has been the refuge of rascals and the safe harbor of incompetents. Legislators have been judged by the single rule of their behavior on this question. A thoroughgoing scoundrel has been able to acquire merit by supporting the Anti-Saloon league in legislation, and then has been able to take his own way without condemnation.

Under such cover reprehensible activities have had protection. Criticism fails in its purpose because the rascal is immunized. He has a benediction from a pretentious morality and with it a safe conduct for his other purposes. It would be hard to imagine a more deleterious influence than that of the indulgence granted legislatures by this single standard of morality which takes no account of general probity and competence in public affairs.

When Gov. Emmerson vetoed the repeal of the state enforcement act he put new life back in an evil which the legislature itself had voted out of its activities. He restored the false standard of criticism and judgment which has been operating to lower the levels of legislative character and acts. There was a chance to get rid of it, but the governor spoiled it. His veto threw him into the hands of the legislators who profit from the oblique moral standards in the code of prohibition and the assembly goes into the record as the greatest failure in legislative history.

ANOTHER RETREAT.

Reports come from Washington that the government is giving careful consideration to the latest budgetary plan for the limitation of armaments. The government, of course, means the state department. We doubt that the army and navy departments have weakened in their opposition to budgetary limitations. It is the state department that is susceptible to the influences at home and abroad pressing always for concessions and compromises of American interest.

Up to this time our government has taken a stand against the policy of limitations of budgets for the obvious reason that we pay more for men and material than any other country. Especially the discrepancy is great where nations have compulsory military service, paying soldiers a pittance. International limitations of armament according to the amount spent would result in a drastic and disproportionate reduction of our armament unless full allowance were made for the difference of standards.

But we have little reason to expect that any such allowance demanded by us would be willingly or adequately considered by European governments. Also we have little reason to hope that our present diplomacy would resolutely withstand unfair adjustment. The report of reconsideration of our stand on budgetary limitations follows the news that pacifist pressure has lately been brought to bear in favor of a retreat from our previous position. The susceptibility of the administration to such influences has been revealed often enough to arouse concern among Americans who are opposed to the continual weakening of the national defense.

AN ISLAND NOW AND THEN.

Brazil is reported as taking action to secure possession of two islands in the South Atlantic which have escaped occupation. A cruiser was sent to extend Brazilian jurisdiction to them before a British or a French warship raised a flag over them. Such possessions may be liabilities rather than assets, but the avidity of Europe to pick them up is at least an instinct. Great Britain's inborn acquisitiveness is not so well illustrated by the red splashes of empire on the map as by the pin points everywhere on the globe representing a trifle picked up for what it might be worth. It has been an index of morale—to hold on like death to what you have and add anything you can find.

Brazil acted promptly, suspecting that a bit of delay would present the cruiser with the spectacle of a British landing party looking for fresh water under a British flag indicating possession. The United States is preoccupied with retrogression and surrender. Guam is an item. The British have some of the old yeast. They will not play their own recessional. These islands in question are probably covered by the Monroe Doctrine, if that still has any vitality. It may be doubted that Mr. Stimson thinks it has.

Editorial of the Day

PROOF OF FRIENDSHIP.

[The Grand Rapids Press.]

Those who interpret the Canadian tariff as hostile to the United States will do well to remember that the dominion has consistently shown a friendly attitude on other matters. For instance, the treaty prohibiting export of liquor to the United States is estimated to have cost Canada $7,000,000 in excise taxes.

While the tariff cannot logically be interpreted as showing hostility, the $7,000,000 sacrifice is decidedly a token of friendship and coöperation. Canada was under no compulsion to agree to such a ban. It did so apparently with the intention only of assisting this country to uphold a law with which Canada itself was not in sympathy.

The St. Lawrence lake-to-sea waterway appears to be approaching a point of realization. Canada has shown a willingness to work with the United States on that project, although many political and technical obstacles still remain to be overcome.

There is too much at stake to permit any imagined tariff battle to threaten the existing friendship.

TO MAKE FUMIGATION SAFE.

THERE is a disposition on the part of city councils and state legislatures to stop the use of hydrocyanic acid for fumigating purposes. The casualties are so numerous and the accidents so spectacular that one does not wonder at the action of the legislative bodies. But in spite of the waves of popular indignation, the fear excited by newspaper publicity, and the acts passed by legislatures hydrocyanic fumigation continues. The method is so superior to any other that it will continue in use in spite of everything until a better method is found.

For fumigating tobacco, fruits and vegetables, grain and flour, and for killing rats, mice, mosquitoes, and bedbugs hydrocyanic gas is in a class by itself. What is more, when the fumigating is done by trained, experienced men the danger is not exceptionally great. Foods that have been fumigated by it are entirely safe to eat provided proper precautions have been taken.

Even water that has become saturated with it becomes safe in time. It can be used in ships and houses without endangering the occupants, or those of adjacent houses, or the people on the street. All is in knowing how and in applying what is known. Legislatures—state and local—might very well regulate such fumigation by licensing fumigators and basing the license upon a showing of qualifications by specifying the kinds of material used [for the chemical is put up in different forms] and by approving certain methods and prohibiting others. That kind of legislation would be helpful and could be enforced.

Dr. C. L. Williams of the United States public health service recently gave an informing lecture on fumigation before the New York police school. Most of the lecture was devoted to hydrocyanic fumigation. A part that is of interest to the general public dealt with the treatment of persons made unconscious by the gas. Hydrocyanic acid first affects the center of consciousness. It next affects the breathing center, and, after that, the heart center.

Because a poisoned person is unconscious it does not follow that he must die. Nor is death inevitable if breathing has stopped. Not until the heart ceases to beat is hope of revival given up. Therefore the first thing to do when a person is poisoned is to get him into fresh air. If he is unconscious he must be dragged or carried out, and that quickly.

Throwing open the windows and blowing out the room is a waste of precious time. If the unconscious man is breathing he will probably recover and nothing need be done. If breathing has stopped, or if it is very irregular and ineffective, artificial respiration must be done. This should be kept up as long as the heart beats. If it is quite certain that the heart is no longer beating nothing that can be done will avail. No medicine of any sort is of service.

PREVENTIVE OF DANDRUFF.

F. N. writes: What is the best way to prevent dandruff and falling hair?

REPLY.

Keep the scalp clean and as greasy as it should be, but not more so. Brush the hair frequently and well. Wear light, loose hats only. Select a hairy father.

INGROWING NAILS.

Mrs. S. M. writes: Some time ago you wrote of ingrowing nails. The cause given was entirely new to me. I am a real sufferer from the trouble and have always tried everything in the way of treatment. Please tell me how such a condition should be treated.

REPLY.

Wear broad toed shoes. Wash your feet daily. After washing lift the ingrowing nail corner and push a little absorbent cotton underneath. Increase the size of the piece of cotton slowly. When the nail is lifted clear the inflammation will subside.

Narrow toed shoes push the nails until they come to lie somewhat diagonally on the toe. This causes them to ingrow.

NOISE ANNOYS.

Chicago, June 17.—[Friend of the People.]—In the 7600 block of Saginaw avenue dogs bark and cats howl all hours of the day and night. What steps can be taken to eliminate the unnecessary noises from the neighborhood?

C. A. S.

The captain commanding the 10th district reports that the men on duty have interviewed the owner of dogs, who said he owned three collie dogs, which only bark when some one comes to the door or yard of his premises. Otherwise they do not cause any disturbance at all, and he is not the owner of any cats. The owner also stated that he would keep the animals as quiet as possible and eliminate future cause for complaint of like nature.

JOHN H. ALCOCK,
Acting Police Commissioner.

LONG STANDING DEBT.

Chicago, June 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Two boys came to Chicago and roomed at the home of a friend. The first boy owes the second boy $150.00 covering expenses, room rent, etc., for the one year he remained in town. The first boy also owed their landlady $4.00. Later he left, without paying his debts, leaving behind a winter overcoat valued at $45.00. 2. Is the landlady entitled to the coat? 3. Does it belong to the second boy? A. Z.

1. We assume that they are minors.
2. Technically, no; but most persons in her position would take the law in their own hands.
3. Technically, it does not belong to either one of them.

UNETHICAL.

Chicago, June 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A tenant owes a balance of June rent, which he is supposed to pay in advance. 1. Can a lawyer garnishee his wages for balance? 2. Would tenant have to pay lawyer fee for releasing garnishee? 3. What redress would tenant have against lawyer for garnisheeing wages without obtaining judgment?

J. D.

1. No. It would be necessary to recover the judgment first.
2. No.
3. We assume that you mean serving a garnishee demand notice. This is regarded as unethical, and we would suggest that you report it to the Bar association at 160 North La Salle street.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. By B.B.

ALL IN DUE TIME.

'S funny, but everything happens in this old world when the proper time comes. Take the new kind of horribly colored wide flapping pajamas that the gels are wearing down to the bathing beaches this year. If those things had been worn a quarter of a century ago there would have been runaway horses in every block turning over buggies and trampling down innocent pedestrians. But today there are no horses, just autos, and though once in a while an auto driver is blinded by some suit of pajamas more brilliantly illuminated than the rest he generally doesn't do much worse than run his machine into a telephone pole. Nervous drivers, of course, ought to wear colored glasses this summer, or blinders or black goggles or something. Once in a while a flopping pair of rainbow colored pajamas comes walking along the street that's an awful shock to anybody that is high strung and excitable. Still it's better than if we had horses on the streets. An automobile may get an awful pain in its carburetor at the first sight of the kind of pajamas they're wearing nowadays, but it won't do anything much worse than run off in the ditch, but an old-fashioned horse would have turned and run until it dropped dead in its tracks. Yessir, everything happens in this world when the right time comes.

TWO SONNETS.

As the rich autumn in a year of good,
So let our love become as we grow old,
The last late blackbird calling in the wood
And all the lanes blown deep with shattered gold;
And up that high and ivy-reddened hill
Whereunder so much loveliness is laid,
When we go climbing, lest he feel the chill
Of nearing death, and quake, and be afraid,
Leave Love behind us in a patch of sun
To soothe his innocent memories with his wing,
Lest at the windy height, when all is done,
He fly upon our hearts and weep and cling,
And we in pity for his moaning sighs
Failing, insult the moment with our cries.

O silver time, O quick with many murmurs,
O sweet starred night, O shadow warm with wings,
Step softly; here, as in forgotten summers,
A ghostly Psyche to her lover clings.
No passion ever was that is not here;
The little flowers are breathing and awake,
And weep above the purple mosses where
Pyramus bleeds, and Thisbe for his sake.
O fatal wound, O strange defrauded love,
Think not you bleed, think not you die alone!
No drop you shed but is the prophet of
A drop as hot and final of my own.
Not for you only, slain and stilled of crying,
Burns in my throat the anguish of your dying.

DOROTHY KISSLING.

"AND NOW we say good-by to these scholastic halls," say the June valedictorians. Don't think it's good-by, dearies. Wait till they come after you as a loyal alumnus to give a little financial assistance to dear old alma mater. Say not good-by, but say you're going out to Kamchatka as a missionary and won't be back for 38 years.

A SPEED of 400 miles an hour may be maintained through the stratosphere, according to Prof. Piccard. But that is through stratosphere, and so many demon motorists think it means through Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, or any other state.

AND NOW PADEREWSKI gets an honorary Doc's degree from a university. Gosh, how the colleges have awakened all of a sudden! This year they're giving degrees for other talents than that of making money.

THA DUKE AN THA B AN C ARE INVITED TO A WEDDING.

Dick: Hell's bust loose again. Me an tha B an C has got 16 bucks laid by ta use on a vacation. This morning's mail brings the regulation eight 3rd and 4th notices plus a fancy envelope wich is tha only one we need to open. Lo an behole, it's a wedding invitation. After tha Mama rubs her finger across to see if it's engraved, we read that John's boy, Freddie, is taking upon himself a bride. He sure used his noodle in doin tha act now cause it may be a long time before we have another era of prosperity such as the pre-Wailing one. Looks like between tha wedding present an a new dress for tha B an C tha vacation will be spent in tha dunes of our back yard. You shooda heard tha argument about what kind of a present we shood give. After getting my nails loaded with dandruff, I suggests a bright idea in tha shape of a cuckoo clock cause every week when it gets out of order tha accepteе will remember who gave it an will eventually scratch our name off'n their mailing list. Tha Mama's idea was to send a piano on wich we wood give tha $6.00 down payment. Sometimes I think she's got brains. One cood even improve on her suggestion by dealin with a house which waives tha down bucks. Tomorrow I gotta write to a decent paper an find out for tha Mama what she shood wear at a 4 o'clock weddin. I wrote our neighborhood blade an they answered "Clothes." That press-feeding editor is still sore at me cause we used to run aroun with tha same girl an he won out. Johnny and Lou phoned today an asked if we had any bad news lately so I suggests we go together. They are gonna give tha happie coupel a fine second hand can opener. Can ya imagine Johnny wantin to rent a high hat, he's 4 ft six. I tole him everybody wood be knockin it off with their knees. Lou suggests us all taking a cab, this is jake with me providing we take a street car first an get off two blocks from tha shindig. I understand Freddie's gettin a peach of a bride. I sure hope so cause if he gets one like a certain party whose name I wont mention, but whose initials are D. B., I guess he'll wish he joined tha Navy instead. When we got married tha B and C picked Niagara Falls an I picked Atlantic City for tha honeymoon. DUKE BAKRAK.

P. S. If that argument came up today two railroads would benefit.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 22, 1915.

ATLANTA, Ga. — Proclamation of martial law within a half mile zone on each side of Gov. Slaton's home and the placing of a strong cordon of National Guardsmen around his residence follow the commutation from death to life imprisonment of the sentence of Leo M. Frank, convicted of the murder of Mary Phagan. The call for the guardsmen was made after a mob estimated at between 6,000 and 10,000 persons started from Atlanta for the governor's country home, six miles from the city. The mob set up cries of "We want John Slaton, Georgia's traitor governor." At 2:30 this morning two more battalions of the National Guard had been called out and two machine guns were set in position to command approaches to Slaton's home. The mob seemed to have disappeared.

JOLIET. — Convicts at Joliet penitentiary are still on their "honor." The tragedy in the life of Warden Edmund M. Allen, whose wife, Odette, was slain by a "trusty," will not affect the honor system at the prison. He sent a letter to "his boys" at a time when they were keyed up to a high tension by the news of the murder and were in a state of revolt. The letter said: "In this greatest trial of my life I want at least the knowledge that the boys for whom I and mine have tried to do are doing the right thing. I will do nothing until I have talked with you. If you want to help lighten my grief, be 100 per cent men."

LONDON.—A Petrograd correspondent reports that after tribulations and heroism the Russians are yielding ground by inches. The roar of enemy artillery is now heard in Lemberg, and thousands of inhabitants are leaving the city. It is the general opinion at Petrograd that Lemberg will soon be abandoned to the enemy.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 22, 1901.

CHICAGO.—A rabid fox terrier rushed into the residence of Deputy United States Marshal Thomas Middleton, 23 Woodland Park, and attacked his 16 year old daughter, Amy. The screams of the girl summoned to her defense a Scotch collie owned by Mr. Middleton, and after a desperate battle, in which the household pet was worsted, and the lives of a number of children playing in the park were jeopardized, the infuriated terrier was killed by a bullet from Mr. Middleton's revolver.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—An executive order issued by the President appointing Judge William H. Taft civil governor of the Philippine islands was made public by the secretary of war. The order says that on and after the 4th day of July, 1901, the president of the Philippine commission shall exercise the executive authority in all civil affairs in the government of the Philippine islands, heretofore exercised by the military governor of the Philippines.

JUNE 22, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is reported that Col. Dudley, the new commissioner of pensions, will remove all Democrats and ex-rebels employed in the pension bureau and replace them with Union soldiers. It is said there are a large number, not only of sympathizers with the "lost cause," but of persons who actually fought for the "lost cause," in the pension office.

NEW YORK.—A dispatch from Batavia, N. Y., says: "This little town is filled with excitement over the discovery of what are believed to be the remains of William Morgan, the man who betrayed the secrets of the Free Masons in his book entitled 'Morgan's Illustration of Masonry,' fifty-five years ago, and who was alleged to have been abducted and made away with before his work was given to the public. Following the digging up of the skeleton, a silver ring with "W. M." engraved on it was found and an old tobacco box containing a letter from "Henry Brown," in which the words "Mason," "liar," "prison," and "kill" are discernible. Henry Brown was one of the chief Masons in the town of Batavia and following the disappearance of Morgan he published a book reviewing the tragedy from a Masonic standpoint. Morgan disappeared Sept. 13, 1826.

AFTER CAPONE.

Chicago, June 18. — Mr. A. Capone, pleasure purveyor par excellence, has entered a plea of guilty. It looks good, it sounds good and the label appears to be genuine, but is it really going to mean anything?

Will it decrease drinking? So will your Aunt Fanny. Will it put more than a very temporary curb on graft and curruption? Don't tell me, let me guess. Is there any scarcity of blue-chinned, heavy-fingered boys ready to step into the breach created by the retirement of Al and a few of the firm? Methinks not.

Even a congressman will agree that you can't alter effect by ignoring cause. Prohibition is the cause and repeal or modification is the only lasting cure. When the tree has sick roots, snipping off a few rotten branches won't remedy matters. JONES B. FRANKEL.

ELEVATED CAR LICENSES.

Chicago, June 18.—In this morning's issue, June 18, you carry a letter signed by Q. E. McCredie under the caption, "A Source of Revenue," in which it is stated that the Chicago Rapid Transit company has not paid its current taxes on its cars.

I would like to advise you that on June 3 the Chicago Rapid Transit company paid for its car licenses in the sum of $99,650. The only reason that the new licenses are not up is that they have not yet been furnished to us by the city. As you probably know, this is only one class of taxes paid by the Chicago Rapid Transit company. H. M. LYTLE,
Vice President, Chicago Rapid Transit Lines.

PAID.

Chicago, June 19.—In the Voice of the People on June 9, 1931, Mr. Q. E. McCredie suggests that the city collect car license fees from the elevated lines. I wish to advise Mr. McCredie that these fees were due on May 1, 1931, and that the company's check, amounting to $99,650, was received by the city on June 3, 1931. FRED FISCHMAN,
Acting Superintendent, License Department, City of Chicago.

THE ANTHEM.

Chicago, June 17.—In today's paper a gentleman protests about the music of "The Star Spangled Banner." I see no authoritative reason for such statements as were made. The wide range of scale expresses the exhilaration and joy of a young patriot at the news of his country's victory. The harmony of the anthem is fully expressive of the feeling of patriotism that was instilled in the hearts of the people by seeing their intense efforts repaid by victory. Why should any one desire to obliterate such a glorious expression of American patriotism? Let us have one tradition, one patriotic hope that shall never die, and let this be "The Star Spangled Banner." JEROME P. PICKARD.

A POST CARD.

Chicago, June 17.—I feel I'm wasting a postcard, but I'll do it to suggest that you mail a copy of the great executive Hoover's speech, as reported in Tuesday's TRIBUNE, to L. R., whose letter appeared Monday. L. R., like a lot more of us, is suffering from the delusion that he wants a chance to earn some money honestly, while all he really needs is courage and confidence. L. O'L.

MR. HOOVER AT INDIANAPOLIS.

Chicago, June 17.—Congratulations on your splendid editorial with reference to the President's Indianapolis speech. As usual, THE TRIBUNE strikes the right note. I wish both speech and editorial could be read and studied by every American.

In these trying times when professional optimists feed us empty platitudes and glittering generalities it is like a refreshing drink to a sun-parched desert traveler to have a message of optimism and courage based upon fact and not upon fancy. Let's have done with whistling in the dark, which inspires no confidence among the jobless thousands. Those well meaning but ill informed apologists who through fear of creating a panic profess to doubt that we actually are going through the worst world-wide depression of the last century do more harm than good. They insult the intelligence of thinking people as they also insult the inherent courage of the American nation.

As THE TRIBUNE so ably points out, the President's speech, while not attempting to minimize our very real and concrete tribulations, does point to some equally real and concrete facts from which we may all take renewed faith and courage. It was a scholarly, statesmanlike and manly address which, whatever may be its effect politically, will contribute in no small degree to the enduring fame of President Hoover as an economist.

How fortunate that in this critical period the nation is guided by one who is without doubt one of the foremost experts on economics in the world today! Every fair minded and intelligent observer knows that Mr. Hoover is in no way responsible for this world-wide depression or the attendant evils of unemployment. Moreover, time will demonstrate that Mr. Hoover's statesmanship is a Godsend to the country in this crisis and has without doubt spared us from what might otherwise have resulted in the worst panic in American history. NEW YORKER.

P. S.—THE TRIBUNE is so far ahead of the field in all other departments, why can't it also lead in radio news?

A BAR OF SOAP.

Oak Park, Ill., June 16.—A colored boy was arrested in Oak Park for stealing a bar of soap and sentenced to 60 days in the Bridewell. An Oak Park official swindled the village out of thousands of dollars and walks the streets a free man. It is said he is gradually paying back the money. What I would like to know is, Did they give the boy a chance to pay for the bar of soap? A. S. H.

THE MANNER OF SPEAKING.

Chicago, June 6.—A correspondent of yours, Rebecca Thompson Bell by name, says she reads THE TRIBUNE "from the front page to the last column on the back page." Will some one please inform Miss Bell that there are no columns on the back page? Or maybe I'm blind. ROBERT FALKMAN.

STINSON SALES OFFICIAL, BRIDE DIE IN CRASH

M. S. Hutchison's Plane Hits Tree on Golf Course

Pelham Manor, N. Y., June 21.—[Special.]—Myron S. Hutchinson, district sales manager and pilot of the Stinson Aircraft corporation, was instantly killed and his bride of a few weeks was mortally injured early this afternoon when their Stinson monoplane crashed on the golf links of the Pelham Country club.

The couple was returning from Boston, where they visited Mrs. Hutchinson's mother. When over the village of North Pelham the plane seemed to be in difficulty and Hutchinson was seen to bank it sharply toward the golf course, which was crowded with players.

At the last moment, the plane lost altitude and refused to stretch its glide over a small grove of trees. Still traveling at good speed, it sank below the top of the trees and cut the top off one of the largest on the far side.

The impact threw the tail of the plane high in the air, and the machine itself nose first into the soft turf of the rough near the golf fairway.

The players rushed to the fallen machine and quickly extricated Mrs. Hutchinson. Stoppage of the motor prevented fire. Mrs. Hutchinson was rushed to the New Rochelle hospital where she died within a few hours without regaining consciousness.

The two victims had been married only a short time. They were living in Junction. Mrs. Hutchinson was Miss Ione Horwath of Boston.

SPANISH LEADER URGES CATALANS TO AID REPUBLIC

Opposes Macia for Votes in Barcelona.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BARCELONA, Spain, June 21.—Alexander Lerroux, minister of foreign affairs in the provisional government, and the man whom all the soothsayers indicate as the first premier under the constitution which the constituent cortes will draft, invaded Barcelona today to see what can be done about Col. Francisco Macia.

Following the ancient custom, Señor Lerroux went right down to the bull ring and made a speech. He told 40,000 Catalans that they should aim to be the best of Catalans where Spain was concerned and the best of Spaniards where Catalonia was concerned. This, said anywhere but in a bull ring, would mean that the Catalans are Spaniards and must be content with expressing their personality well within the Spanish state.

Macia a Problem.

Col. Macia has a way of thinking to the contrary that drives the Spaniards who live on the far side of the River Ebro absolutely "loco." Lerroux came down here back in 1909 to organize a republican federal party to neutralize the strong Catalan autonomous movement which was making the crown nervous. Although an Andalusian, he always since then has had a great following among those Catalans who consider themselves primarily Spaniards.

His game now, and his speech today, was the opening move to neutralize that of Macia in the selections next Sunday for the constituent cortes which is to decide, among other things, how far it will approve the Catalans' demands, which Col. Macia peremptorily insists must be swallowed whole.

Changes His Views.

In his speech today he assured everybody that he was no longer the ardent revolutionary of 1909 who said, "tear those veils off those nuns!" He smiled when he recalled that, and said he had grown riper. He assured his flock that he was still anxious as ever to have social equality, but that he was anxious, too, to respect the rights of almost everybody. Lerroux is now hailed as the "man of order and saviour of the republic," and as such warned them that conspiracies had gone out of fashion in Spain. "Conspiracy against despotism is a citizen's duty; conspiracy against a free régime is fratricidal," he thundered.

He was bidding for the votes of the conservative Catalans who are alarmed at the way Col. Macia seems to be playing with the anarchists of the one big union which rules the roost in Barcelona. Just to show its strength the union is threatening to hold a general strike tomorrow.

More than 6,000 candidates are running for the 470 seats in the cortes and this was a busy day of campaigning throughout Spain.

Recluse Shot to Death Near Michigan Resort

VICTIM OF CRIME ALSO MADE GOAT IN EXTRADITION

The Chicago crime commission at the suggestion of Judge Joseph B. David of the Criminal court has started an investigation into the practice of requiring the victim of a crime to advance the money to bring back a fugitive from justice. The situation was called to the attention of Judge David last week when he had before him a case wherein the state of Mississippi was attempting to extradite William Smith on a charge of larceny.

JUDGE DAVID.

During the hearing the judge was informed by the southern sheriff that the complaining witness had to advance the expense of the extradition proceedings and would not be repaid until the termination of a successful prosecution. The judge's indignation was increased when he was informed by Assistant State's Attorney Q. J. Chott that the state of Illinois had the same system. Judge David asked the crime commission to investigate.

The commission called attention to the case of Peter A. Lenoi, 1016 Davis street, Evanston, owner of a hardware shop, who tried to prosecute Joseph B. White, a former employé for stealing from him.

White fled to Georgia and Lenoi had to advance $150 for the policeman's expenses in bringing the fugitive back. After White was held to the grand jury and released on $1,000 bond he again fled, jumping his bond, and the case was stricken off the dockets with leave to reinstate in case White is ever caught. The bond was forfeited, but as far as the crime commission is able to learn from the records, nothing has been collected on the forfeiture.

The $150 has not been returned to Lenoi, the commission says, because the prosecution of White was never carried to a successful conclusion because the defendant is a fugitive.

Another phase of the extradition situation, which should be investigated, according to the commission, is the practice of the state in refunding the money advanced to the policeman or sheriff who brings back the prisoner instead of to the citizen who advanced it.

"We have one case on record where the policeman only refunded $93.35 of an advance of $125," said a crime commission official.

NEWEST 8 INCH CRUISERS CARRY HEAVIER ARMOR

Savings in Weight Allow More Protection.

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—The last of the ten 8 inch gun 10,000 ton Washington treaty cruisers to be built by the United States under the London treaty will have the most formidable armor deck protection ever built into a vessel of this type, it became known today. These vessels will have an armor deck skin deck enough to stop the 8 inch gun projectile up to ranges of 25,000 yards.

The eighteenth, seventeenth and sixteenth 8 inch gun cruisers of this class may have even greater deck protection than the seven building. The element in the navy now favors giving the vessels an extra deck rather thickness at the cost of speed. The navy high command, however, is understood to favor retention of the present speed of better than thirty-two knots an hour.

Increase Armor Protection.

Every new batch of cruisers built under a 8 inch gun treaty type have had given greater deck and side armor protection than their predecessors. Each batch also has been equipped with a greater number of anti-aircraft weapons. The first vessels were designed for four 5 inch gun anti-aircraft weapons. The next group of eight. Now the last ones to be built are to be armed with an increased number of anti-aircraft machine guns.

The first 8 inch gun cruisers had a little armor protection they were referred to by high ranking flag officers as "tin clads."

But the naval designers known as much as they do today, the first eight 8 inch gun cruisers could have been as well protected as the last ten are going to be. Investigations have shown that the first eight are each about 1,500 tons under weight. The total net tonnage for the eight vessels is 12,000 tons. This unused tonnage could have been used up in armor protection had not designers made the weight safety factor too high.

Bonus Offered Builders.

In building the new ships bonuses were offered those builders who saved tonnage. Electric welding was employed to a hitherto unknown degree. Lightweight metals and aluminum were used where possible. A high safety factor was used because of fear that the finished vessels might be over the 10,000 ton displacement permitted by the London naval treaty.

Figures discovered today place the tonnage of these 10,000 ton class vessels at slightly more than 9,000 tons. The displacement is as follows: Chester, US; Houston, 9,050; Northampton, US; Pensacola, 9,100; Sale Lake City, US; Chicago, 9,300; Louisville, US, and Augusta, 9,050, all of these would have been 10,000 tons displacement.

The last message cannot be built the 8 inch gun cruisers, as the United States is limited to eighteen. Whether it can be transferred to 6 inch gun cruiser tonnage is a moot question.

CHIANG SETS OUT TO WAGE BATTLE WITH RED FORCE

Nationalists' Leader on Way North.

FOOCHOW, China, June 21.—(AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek, generalissimo of Nanking's nationalist government forces, has entered the battle field to lead the fight against the Reds as refugees continue to bring reports of communist depredations.

The Chinese leader left aboard the gunboat Yungsui today for Nanchang in Kiangsi province. It has been estimated more than 200,000 Nanking soldiers are ready to take the field.

Refugees from northern Fukien province brought reports that the Reds intended to establish a soviet state in that region.

Many Towns Captured.

The invaders have captured virtually all towns in the district, refugees said, except Yenping, where the military halted them, thus preventing a direct advance on Foochow. Telegraph and mail services have been interrupted, isolating the region. Communists, they said, had confiscated all property title deeds as the initial step towards establishing a soviet régime.

Northern Fukien province, refugees said, is practically without protection since officials and many civilians have fled to the coast for safety. When communists arrived at Kienninghsien on the Kiangsi border, they exacted a large amount of money from the public on threats of burning the city, then rounded up all soldiers left and executed them publicly, seeking to terrorize the populace.

Missionairies Thought Unharmed.

It was believed the American Catholic missionaries, marooned at Kienninghsien continued unharmed although the city was in the hands of Reds and prospects of their escape seemed hopeless.

Consuls continue to advise foreigners against attempting to enter the region in the near future. Foochow officers have established rigorous preventive measures against possible disorders here.

Virtual martial law exists while searching parties are continually rounding up suspicious characters. While the future is uncertain, it appears likely that Foochow will not experience disorders.

Chiang Suffers Severe Defeat.

Hongkong, June 22.—[Monday]—(AP)—The government was victorious today in one engagement with communists but lost heavily in another.

A division of President Chiang Kai-Shek's troops was ambushed by reds, about 300,000 of whom are operating throughout southern China, and lost 10,000 rifles, 100 trench mortars and 30 machine guns to the bandits. Casualties were believed to have been heavy.

The 18th army, commanded by Gen. Chen Ming-Shu, former governor of Canton, surrounded reinforcements being hurried against Chiang Kai-Shek's troops, and severely defeated the communists, inflicting heavy losses.

Spanish Mob Lynches Bus Driver Who Kills Two

MADRID, June 21.—(AP)—A dispatch from the town of Sahtaolalla said an infuriated mob today lynched the driver of a motorbus who had driven his machine into a street crowd, killing two persons and injuring a number of others. Altogether 70 persons in the town were injured by the bus and subsequent disturbances. The crowd had gathered to welcome republican speakers at a campaign rally.

Evans, U. S. Star, Youngest Marksman in Bisley Shoot

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—Probably the youngest marksman to participate in the international small bore rifle match at Bisley, England, on July 10, and the second youngest ever to shoot in the international competition, will be Gail Evans of Steubenville, O., who, though only 18, won a berth on the United States team. The youngest marksman ever to compete was Marcus W. Dinwiddie, Washington, D. C., a member of the United States .22 and .30 caliber Olympics teams in 1924. He was 17.

SERVING BROADER FIELDS

a new light-express body extends the usefulness of

FORD TRUCKS

A GROWING number of standard Ford bodies is being made available for every hauling need. Almost daily, they are extending Ford economy to new business fields.

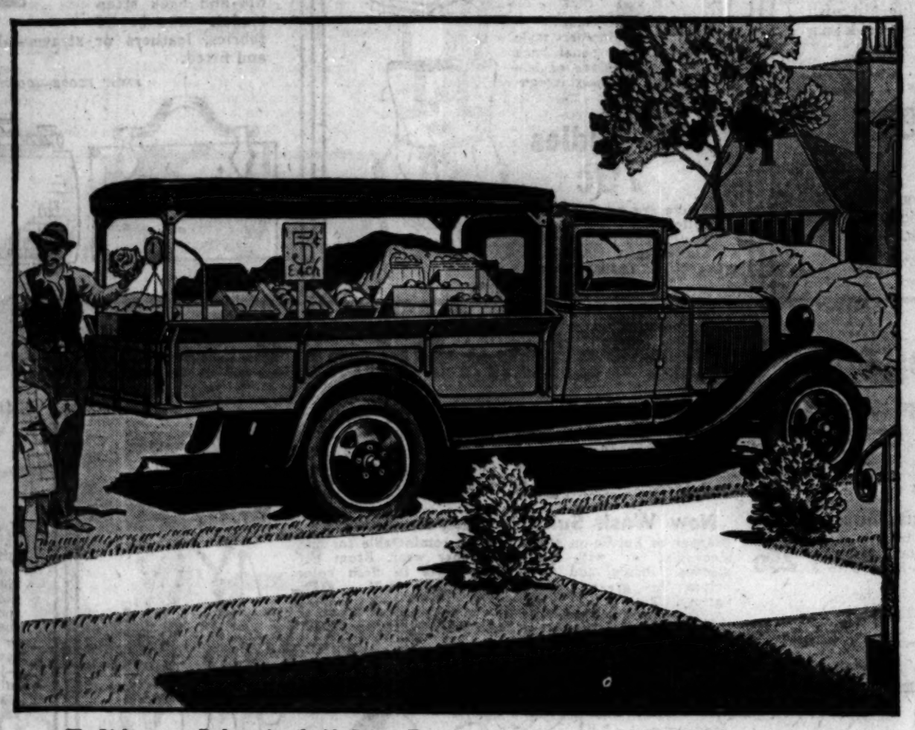
Among these bodies are stake, panel, platform, express and agricultural types, five different dump and four different coal bodies, two police patrols, a funeral coach, an ambulance, a garbage truck, an ice body, and others. With a wide range of choice in style and equipment, they comprise a full line of more than fifty types.

Ford chassis, too, offer a type for every need. The light-delivery car uses the same chassis as the Model A Ford car. The 1½-ton truck chassis is available with 131½-inch or 157-inch wheelbase. It may be equipped with single or dual rear wheels, and with high or low rear-axle gear-ratios.

Into the building of both chassis and bodies go fine materials—each selected for its purpose because it has those qualities of strength, toughness, hardness or flexibility which will serve best in that particular capacity. For example, in the making of the chassis alone, forty different kinds of steel are used.

This is but one example of the value that has been built into the Ford truck. These and many other features of value result in completed commercial units that give long, reliable service, capable performance and economy, offering to every business a specialized hauling service at low cost.

Your Ford dealer can supply a chassis and body that are designed for your hauling needs, in a choice of thirty-eight color-combinations. You may purchase a Ford truck or light commercial car on convenient, economical terms through the Authorized Ford Finance Plans of the Universal Credit Company.



The Light-express Body equipped with Canopy Top. A type widely used by hucksters, vendors, grocers and others, for newspaper and magazine deliveries, and for many other purposes. Made of steel, except for floor-boards and sills, which are of specially seasoned wood. The steel end-gate is equipped with heavy chains. Screen sides can be supplied.

The Chicago Tribune will pay

"GOOD TIME CHARLIEGRAMS"

What Is a Good Time Charliegram?

A Good Time Charliegram is a sentence of exactly ten words which conveys a timely message of good cheer or sound advice: "Every time you buy something you help bring back prosperity." "The time to stock up is when prices are low." "Large savings can be made on nearly everything bought today." "When business starts humming prices are bound to rise again." Do you think you can make up a better Good Time Charliegram than any of these?—using only the words appearing in advertisements in today's Chicago Tribune? Try your hand at it! Read the simple rules and start looking for your words now!

WHAT sentence of exactly ten words can you make up, using only the words appearing in advertisements in today's Chicago Tribune?

This is your last week to try for the $1,000.00 in cash prizes which the Tribune will pay for the best original Good Time Charliegrams. All you have to do is select ten words from any ads in today's Tribune except the Want Ads. Put them all together and the resulting sentence may win for you one of the big cash prizes.

Try it! It's a fascinating game—just like a treasure hunt. Read the simple rules and start looking through the ads now!

THE SIMPLE RULES:

1. The Chicago Tribune will pay $1,000.00 in cash prizes to the persons who send in the best and neatest complete sets of seven (7) original Good Time Charliegrams in accordance with these rules.

2. A Good Time Charliegram is a sentence of exactly ten words which conveys a timely message of good cheer or sound advice. The sentence must be made up of words taken from advertisements, EXCEPT Classified or Want Ads, published in a single day's issue of the Chicago Tribune. To indicate where you get each word, simply write down the name of the advertiser following the word. Words are NOT to be taken from the Want Ads.

3. Not more than one word shall be taken from the advertising of any one store, company, or individual. If an advertiser has more than one advertisement in the same issue of the Tribune, only one word from such advertisements may be used in the same Good Time Charliegram. The same word may be used more than once, provided that it is taken from a different advertiser every time it is used.

4. The prizes are as follows:

6. Good Time Charliegrams are to be submitted in complete sets only. DO NOT send in each day's entry separately. Hold all Good Time Charliegrams until you have the complete set of seven (7). Then send them to "GOOD TIME CHARLIEGRAMS," the Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill. All entries in the Fifth Series must be received in the Tribune office before 6 P. Varied Shivers for These Hot Summer Days

Only Deaths Between These 10 Covers.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

HERE are five prescriptions for curing summer ennui. These new mystery stories are absolutely guaranteed to take the mind off fallen stocks, lowered income, foreclosure of the mortgage on the old farm, and the approaching hay fever season. If you don't believe me, just open the first book on the list, "The Murder of a Midget," by Martin Joseph Freeman [Dutton]. Mr. Freeman, a former newspaper man, now instructor in charge of English in the School of Commerce and Administration at the University of Chicago, writes in the same vivid, graphic manner we expect of the good journalist.

Against an unusual background, that of a traveling carnival, he weaves his plot, and exciting enough it is, too. The midget, Sir Bimbo Barza, the midget, is found dead in a child's doll carriage, and a fellow newspaper girl sets to work to unravel the strange tangle that ends in murder.

Among the suspects are a snake charmer, Siamese twins, Whateley, the owner of the show, and Foggins, the human skeleton. Not the least sinister character is old Mrs. Marvel, the grandmother of the girl reporter. Although white haired, the old lady can pull a mean trigger on occasion.

The Texas town and its citizens are admirably sketched. They make a grand backdrop for a first rate murder story.

Another good one is "The Pottery Riddle" by Philip MacDonald, which with Carolyn Wells' "The Clue of the Twisted Candle" and "The Fabulous Feast" is a Crime Club book [Doubleday-Doran]. "The Pottery Riddle" is another Anthony Gilbert detective story. It's extremely British in tone and locale, and while its ending is something of a letdown, plenty of action and suspense precede it. It's one of those books where one murder is not enough. He indeed, there must be two or three more, at the very least, to whet the interest of the jaded fiction reader.

In my mind, a former Crime Club book, "The Poisoned Chocolates Case," is far better than either the one by Mr. MacDonald or Mrs. Wells. An old hand at the business, Carolyn Wells here set detective stories as a cook sets doughnuts. She's a close runner-up to E. Phillips-Oppenheim and Edgar Wallace for the world's record output, and no mistake! One ventures to say she could write one in her sleep.

On page 11 is the usual diagram of the room in the house where the crime occurred. And just to start the story off, a skeleton is delivered as a hoax to the host of a gay dinner party. On the bony chest is a card reading:

"Long years ago you murdered me; I'm back now, you soon shall be!"

Another, I rather took away the surprise of the guests. And shortly after follows the killing.

"The Birdhouse Riddle," by J. J. Connington [Little, Brown], is only mildly intriguing, just enough so to save it from getting bored. It takes a long time to get under way and a long time to finish up, but in between are some weird and grisly moments.

It is all about two strange deaths in a tropical little English town. (If some one would kindly make a mystery map of England, showing all the peaceful, little towns where murders have occurred in current fiction, I'd venture to say every hamlet in Britain would be marked with the spattering cross. The mystery would be to find one that wasn't.)

The death in this tale turns out to be not a murder at all. Mr. Connington is also an adept of long practice at this sort of twister and has many readers on both sides of the Atlantic.

The last of five books, "The Face in the Abyss," by A. Merritt [Liveright], is a thrilling record of a search for mysterious treasure in South America. "hidden lands," where monsters are seen and a strange temple still stands, where winged serpents fly in the night and monstrous battles between prehistoric creatures take place. It is such a country as we pictured remarkably in the film called "The Lost World," several years ago. Remember it?

Weird, fantastic, outlandish, "The Face in the Abyss" is not for those who demand the truth, the whole truth, and nothing else but. If there be any still who quiver when they reread Kipling's "The Man Who Would Be King," such lovers of the imaginative adventure tale will devour Mr. Merritt's book with hungry eyes.

And what a whale of a moving picture it would make!

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 21.—[Special.]—Two years ago Frank Fay and his wife, Barbara Stanwyck, both from the New York stage, regarded Hollywood from different views. Frank had just clicked in his first talking film, and seemed assured of a bright film future. Miss Stanwyck, not a hit in a picture which decidedly was not a hit, declared her abhorrence at "this papier maché town," and herself a misfit in Hollywood so-called society, and demanded to be taken back to New York. But she was in love with her husband; still is, in fact, very much so, and Frank wanted to stay in Hollywood, so they both stayed.

Two years have changed it all, except Miss Stanwyck's privately and publicly expressed annoyance with Hollywood customs and "society." She's now a big star. Frank Fay has just been released by his film employers. Miss Stanwyck says:

"I'm Mrs. Frank Fay first and Barbara Stanwyck second, and I am a star today, but give me one or two pictures and Hollywood will consider me a flop again. Now I want to stay on here instead of returning to New York, because Frank has had bad pictures and he is just on the verge of getting a good break again, which he certainly ought to have with a new film company."

Miss Stanwyck endures what Hollywood parties she attends, by taking a book along to read when things bore her.

Another case of tables reversed is that of Lois Wilson and Billie Dove. Three years ago Lois Wilson was one of Hollywood's better known stars. Billie Dove was merely a girl who because of her beauty, was given leading rôles. Now Billie is being starred by her producer and admirer, Howard Hughes, in "The Age for Love," and Hughes induced Universal to lend him Miss Wilson, who will play in Billie Dove's support.

Mary Duncan, herself a star at Fox's one year ago, is another added to Miss Dove's retinue of leading women of the picture. Frank Lloyd is to direct it.

Although she is not yet out of danger, Constance Bennett was reported today to be resting very comfortably at Santa Monica hospital. There she underwent an emergency major operation yesterday, the result of intestinal adhesions following an appendicitis operation two and a half years ago.

The retrenchment wave swept across the R. K. O. lot last Saturday like a giant with a scythe, cutting more than 200 off the pay roll. This studio has cut hot season production to merely three pictures, a reduction of twelve or fifteen films which were ordinarily programmed for June, July and August.

Zane Grey, the author of movieized cowboy yarns, is due for bad news when he arrives back in Hollywood and Pasadena from his current cruise about the south seas, on Aug. 18. Grey is to be served notice by T. J. Davis, secretary of the United States board of tax appeals, officials say, that he must pay the government $103,923 in back income taxes. The sum went unpaid by Grey, according to Davis, because the author and the government disagree over legality of Grey's sending in separate income tax returns from his wife.

Frankie Darro is another child star to come back, being signed to enact the rôle of Helen Hayes' 12 year old son in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Lullaby."

Children's Holiday for South Siders Is Set for This Friday

Chilren from the far south side districts are counting the hours until Friday. Then William Hayhurst day will be celebrated for the seventh consecutive year. Youngsters from Blue Island, Beverly Hills, Brainard, Washington Heights, and Morgan Park will be guests of Hayhurst, formerly president of the Ridge Civic council, and a number of business men.

Charles A. Comiskey has invited the guests to witness the game that afternoon between the White Sox and the Washington Senators. Trucks, buses, and automobiles will convey the children to the outing, the caravan stopping en route to pick up the wards of the Presbyterian Orphan home at 64th and Green streets.

After the baseball game the field sports will begin at 115th and Church street.

Good Morning!

The heroine of this piece has a Spanish lover and an English husband. Her intrigue with the Spaniard almost causes her relations with the British to fa' down and go boom.

Kay Francis, tall, svelte, raven-locked and dusky-eyed, makes a series of charmingly picturesque photographic studies. As a lady, loving, yielding, repenting, despairing, and kind to her dog, she is a vision of the very first water. She is variously backgrounded by swaying trees, mountain lodges, cafés, and furniture antique, futuristic, and what have you. Her throaty voice is music. Her acting satisfies.

Mr. Cortez as the Spanish lover emotes all over the place and, finally, dies deservedly at the hands of a mad Spanish señor, who is father of a girl whose child's papa he [Señor Cortez as Don Arturo] had been. Not so good this time, Mr. Cortez!

Paul Cavanagh as the English husband is an animated stick, and, come to think of it, NOT so animated. John St. Polis is properly villainous as a villain's valet. You'll like Doris Lloyd in a brief entrance or two.

Sound, photography sets and costumes get by in fine shape, but "Transgression," regarded in most charitable light, isn't a very good picture.

See you tomorrow.

New Hospital for Children on Midway to Be Dedicated Today

Dedication ceremonies will be held this morning at the new $300,000 Gertrude Dunn Hicks Memorial hospital, at the Midway and Ellis avenue.

Dr. Edward Scribner Ames, head of the department of philosophy of the University of Chicago, will offer the structure to President Robert M. Hutchins, who will accept it on behalf of the University of Chicago. Mrs. Ames, who recently returned from Florida, will be present.

Crippled children of the city will be cared for in this new unit of the university's medical development. As cheerful an atmosphere as is possible has been incorporated in the edifice, which includes a swimming pool, a gymnasium, a solarium equipped with artificial sunlight to supplement the natural variety, and a gay color scheme quite different from the usual hospital background. It has a capacity of fifty beds.

Indo-Chinese Birds Are Described in New Book

The birds encountered and collected by the William V. Kelley-Roosevelts expedition to French Indo-China, including many specimens new to science, are described in a book just published by the Field museum, which sponsored the expedition. The book is by Outram Bangs, curator of birds of the Museum of Comparative Zoölogy, Cambridge, Mass., and Josselyn Van Tyne, assistant curator of birds at the University of Michigan, who was a member of the expedition.

SALLY JOY BROWN'S FIRST PARTY PLANNED FOR WHITE CITY SOON

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Yesterday's TRIBUNE contained the news that all the boys and girls in and around Chicago have been awaiting for weeks—the announcement that our summer parties are about to begin. I hope you didn't miss it because it told what the first party is to be and just what you must do to be invited to it. Well, here it is again just in case you didn't see it.

As you probably know, each summer we arrange a series of good times for the boys and girls of Chicagoland—one party every week. Those of you who attended these in former years know what a marvelous time we have and I know you'll want to attend them again. To start the season off with a bang we looked around for something very exciting and when Mr. Herbert Byfield of White City invited us to his amusement park we accepted his invitation immediately.

There are so many things to do and see at this park that one must dash from one ride to another and from one attraction to another to squeeze them all into a single afternoon. And each feature of the park is so interesting or so thrilling or so exciting we won't want to miss any of them.

There's that famous ride, "The Flash." Its steep climb upward and its dip at a ninety degree angle impart a thrill that one doesn't get even in an aeroplane. And the "Giant Racing Coaster" is fun not only because it's a marvelous ride but because the cars race with each other up and down the inclines and over the curves. It's a good thing the attendant straps the riders in the cars.

In direct contrast to these zippety rides—and there are a great many more than those I've mentioned—is the trip through Venice. Here we'll ride in gondolas through the cool, refreshing canals banked on either side by miniature houses. It's interesting as well as refreshing and will put us in form for the more hectic exciting amusements to follow.

In order to be a guest at this party all you have to do is write me a letter telling me that you'd like to be one of our group of a hundred boys and girls. Let me know why you'd like to go to White City and why you think you'd have a good time. You see, I want to have with me those of you who will have the best time, and the only way I can tell who you are is by your letters. The party will be on Thursday, July 2, but every letter must be in my office by Thursday morning, June 25. On that day I shall choose the winners and their names will appear in next SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE. Every boy and girl who is sold enough to write is an eligible guest to these outings. Address your letter to Sally Joy Brown, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago, and be sure to include your own name, address and age.

Bori, Chamlee Share Triumph in 'La Traviata'

Closeup of Verdi Opera Delights at Ravinia.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

You may, if you will, think of "La Traviata" as one of the world's inspired masterpieces. You may, on the other hand, believe that it was something that Verdi, basing it on "Camille," wrote before he had felt the stimulation of his morning coffee. There are enough on both sides to make a debate possible. But you will have to admit that its performance at Ravinia last night is something that Verdi, if he were still alive, would have heartily approved.

Lucrezia Bori as Violetta and Mario Chamlee as the young Germont were an ideal pair of singing actors. Such a pair of operatic voices, such an interchange of the dramatic thread, such good manners and incidentally such good looks, made up a total of performing value units such as this ancient piece seldom is blest with. It only goes to prove what has been frequently maintained here and elsewhere that in order to find out what there really is in an operatic score, you should come to Ravinia and hear it at close range.

Miss Bori is one of the most intelligent operatic artists in the world, with an intelligence that goes into the display song of the first act as well as into the simulation of tuberculosis throughout the opera. Mr. Chamlee, one of the finest American artists of the present generation, is not in the least behind her in voice or in skilled dramatic impersonation. And when Mario Basiola appeared as the elder Germont, he added the third fine voice to the piece, and this is a good deal for an opera that counts three quarters of a century and thousands of performances in its history.

There was a highly attractive concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra in the afternoon. Dr. Eric De Lamarter conducted the "Siegfried Idyl," the "Peer Gynt" suite, and several other pieces of like nature with great spirit and expert attention both to detail and climax. John Weicher, concert-master of the orchestra, played the Mendelssohn violin concerto with a beauty of tone and brilliance of technic that made the audience vote him a unanimous encore.

PASTOR ATTACKS NEW MARITAL VIEWS AS OLD ERRORS REVIVED

Pocono Pines, Pa., June 21.—(AP)—Walter A. Maier, professor at Concordia Theological seminary, St. Louis, in an address delivered before the International Walther league convention, which opened here today, declared the twentieth century has produced "popular pulpit infidels."

"These highly publicized traitors betray their Lord in a manner which would make Judas blush," he said. "There have been apostles of impurity and free love before, but it is the notorious accomplishment of this age that those who champion loose marital relations and all of the moral bankruptcy which that involves are greeted and feted throughout the nation.

"Men like Sir Bertrand Russell, who openly teaches that physical infidelity is not serious, and former Judge Ben Lindsey, who boasts that 90 per cent of American students agree with him in his companionate marriage program, have become the men of the hour for a growing element.

"Our country has had immoral literature, but it never has been as cheap and easily accessible to young readers as now, in the age of magazine madness when selfish and savage commercialism piously parades as truth."

Rabbi Demands Disarmament; Urges Safety for Objectors.

Ligonier, Ind., June 21.—[Special.]—A plea that the religious organizations of the nation take the leading part in crystalizing public opinion of the United States into a demand for reductions of world armaments and opposition to any legislation which will penalize adherents of any religious sect who conscientiously object to engaging personally in any military operations because of their religious conviction were urged by Rabbis Max D. Currick of Erie, Pa., and Dr. Samuel Goldenson of Pittsburgh, Pa., at the session of the central conference of American rabbis now being held in the Spink Wawasee hotel at Wawasee, Ind.

4,000 Sing at Stadium; Part of Lutheran Session.

A chorus of nearly 4,000 voices, singing in a sacred concert under the baton of Dr. F. Melius Christiansen of St. Olaf's college, Northfield, Minn., brought to an end last night a four day international convention of the Young People's Luthern league. With the exception of 1,000 children and 700 adult singers representing the Illinois Circuit Choral union, other singers, who appeared in the Chicago Stadium, were drawn from all over the country.

A special train of singers arrived yesterday morning from Minneapolis and St. Paul. Large delegations of singers came from Calamus, Ia.; Duluth, Milwaukee, Beloit, Madison, and one group from California.

Public School Grads, 31,567, Out This Week

Four Year High Course Quota Increases.

This week approximately 31,567 students will be graduated from the Chicago public schools. This year's classes show an increase of 880 over last year. Then a total of 30,687 were graduated.

In the eleven major units only three failed to show an increase. Those showing a decrease were Chicago Normal college, Crane Junior college and the elementary school system.

The following table, prepared by the office of William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, compares the two years:

Chicago Normal college	315	288
Crane Junior college	500	358
Four year high school courses.	6,350	6,950
Two year vocational courses.	2,550	3,500
Five mo. secretarial courses.	190	342
Junior high schools	4,500	5,565
Prevocational—eighth grade.	315	375
Elementary schools	15,800	14,000
Standard evening high schools.	125	140
Montefiore—special school	34	37
Parental school	8	28
Total	30,687	31,567
1931 increase		880

Of the 24 junior high schools 20 will hold graduation exercises Thursday. Exercises for the Ross Junior High school will be held Friday. Three schools, Amundsen, Medill and Wright, all new schools, will have no graduating classes this June. Questionaires show that of the entire junior high school class, there are 3,523 intending to enter senior high schools in the fall. Foreman Junior high school, with 462 graduates, will have the largest class. Of them, 427 plan to enter senior high school. Ross Junior high school has the smallest graduating class with 62 of which 61 plan to enter senior high school. All schools will have exercises.

Graduation exercises at the 24 junior high schools will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday with most schools favoring Thursday.

This year's graduating class in the four year high school courses, totaling 6,950, an increase of 600 over the total for 1930, is one of the largest in the history of the Chicago school system. In the majority of schools exercises will be held in the auditorium with city and national figures retained as speakers.

William Wrigley Jr. Gives Buildings Used by Salvation Army

The Salvation Army yesterday announced that William Wrigley Jr. has made an outright gift to the organization of the property at 509-19 North Union avenue which the Army has operated since last fall as the New Start lodge for homeless and jobless men.

Lewis E. Myers, chairman of the Salvation Army board, and uniformed leaders of the organization will hold a special meeting of the board today at the shelter for formal acceptance of the gift.

Since Oct. 11, 1930, when Mr. Wrigley turned the property over to the Army, along with a check for $16,000 toward its maintenance, it has given shelter to 12,888 men, fed them 1,152,202 meals, and provided 411,145 nights' lodging. In addition to Mr. Wrigley's original contribution, the Army received $84,115 from the governor's emergency relief commission for the work.

Mr. Wrigley's deed of gift gives the Salvation Army power to operate the property as it sees fit. There are two buildings on the property, a five story and basement, heavy mill type construction building 80 by 150 feet, and a six story and basement, fireproof structure, 40 by 90 feet.

BRONZE RECALLS FRAY OF HASTINGS; YANKEE HELPS FOUND SOCIETY

FALAISE, Normandy, France, June 21.—(AP)—A magnificent bronze tablet, with bas-reliefs depicting some of the principal scenes associated with the Norman conquest of England in 1066, was unveiled here today on the wall of the old chateau of Falaise, home of William the Conqueror.

The tablet bore 315 names of participants in the famous battle of Hastings, chosen after careful culling of old records. Of those about 100 were known to have descendants in the United States and canada.

M. Jackson Crispin of New York, himself a descendant of one of Duke William's noblemen, said the organization's headquarters would be in Falaise.

How Hapsburg Family Lives in Belgium

Nobles Lend Homes to the Exiled Royalty.

By ANN SOMERS HOUSE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, June 21.—The ex-royalty microbe has got me. You can't live in Brussels as a reporter for some time without being infected by it. With oodles of ex-princes and princesses all around you, it's impossible not to get interested in what they're doing and how they live.

To look behind those old gray walls and into the big parks and chateau where ex-kings and queens keep up miniature courts, is no easy matter. Ex-Empress Zita of Austria, and Duke Jean de Guise, or Prince Louis Napoleon, and that one-time Crown Princess Louise of Saxony wouldn't let reporters into their sacred homes.

Subconsciously they fear being ridiculed about their one lay-in-waiting or the slovenly little maids-to-do-all-work, or the shabby remnants of past splendor in their rooms.

Ex-royalty in and around Brussels are so much "ex" they don't even have many callers. No American women of the type that loves to hobnob with royalty, seek them out. Once in a while some royalist youngster or politician pays homage to them. And then again there are weeks of monotonous solitude.

The one ex-prince that has the greatest chance to be king some day, Archduke Otto of Hapsburg, receives the biggest number of visitors. He is fairly sure to have at least one delegation of royalists a month at his castle of Steenockerzeel. He practically never invites them to stay for dinner. He can't afford to.

Those Hapsburgs are wretchedly poor. Ex-Empress Zita, Otto's mother, has lived in borrowed homes ever since she left Austria with her children and her husband, ex-Emperor Charles, in 1918. In Spain, the Bourbons were hospitable and granted her a cottage, near San Sebastian. Here in Belgium, marquis de Croix, an old Belgian noblesman, offered the Austrian empress his somber chateau of Steenockerzeel, 20 miles from Brussels. She lives there in summer only. In winter it's really too damp, with that big slimy moat close around the house.

In winter, Zita, Otto, and his seven brothers and sisters move frequently to La Vanne street in Brussels. This town house belongs to duke d'Ursel and is big enough to offer room for the Hapsburgs and old d'Ursel at the same time.

Friends of mine, live in the house next to Duke d'Ursel's. They report to me long tales of woe about the "infernal noise" the Hapsburgh kids are making. Otto himself, now 18, stays apart from his brothers and sisters. The latter refer to him as "der kaiser" and grow more quiet when he comes into the garden where they play. He drives to Louvain each morning in a closed car, with a Hungarian monk who is his tutor, and attends courses at the Catholic university there. He always drives home for luncheon.

At Steenockerzeel, the life of the Hapsburgs is freer. No neighbors are apt to peep into the castle in the middle of a huge park. The kid princes and princesses run about in that park, Otto walks there serenely and thinks of his lessons and of Hungarian grammer. Zita dreams there of a future Austro-Hungarian empire, with her son at the helm.

Hungary being a thoroughly royalist country, Otto's only chance to wear a crown again is to become king of Hungary. So this young Hapsburg who once looked down upon Hungary as one of the minor nationalities he, the Austrian, would rule some day, now learns Hungarian. Official statements to the Hungarian press always emphasize Zita's family life is a Hungarian one, her servants Hungarian, the favorite language of the household Hungarian.

That is a pretty legend, calculated to win Hungarian hearts for Otto. In reality, I can affirm that German is the language of Zita's and Otto's household. I have talked to servants at Steenockerzeel castle. They spoke German and hardly anything else. I have talked to Baron Erwin von Gudemus, chancellor of the miniature court of the exiles; he is an Austrian, knows no work of Hungarian. There is one general of Hungarian origin at Steenockerzeel: Count Arthur de Kerestech; he and a Hungarian monk teach Otto Hungarian; but Otto hasn't managed as yet to speak Hungarian flawlessly, without his slight German accent.

Where the poverty of the Hapsburgs shows most in their exile, is in the way their servants are dressed and behave. There are just six maids for the huge chateau household. They are more poorly dressed than in any Belgian middle class household. They have not even the traditional black outfit with white apron any hostess would insist upon, at least when guests come. They look slovenly. They are badly trained.

Empress Zita, though, has something queenly about her, even in poverty. She dresses in mourning still, eight years after the death of her husband. Her sharp features have something undeniably royal. A woman born to rule. A woman who wouldn't give in to fate. A woman who will push her claims adroitly, until some day her son will wear a crown—first the crown of Hungary, then maybe the imperial one of Austria.

Otto, himself, is a good-looking chap who rides horseback and studies. He knows no girls, except those of his family. One of these days, he probably will get engaged to the youngest daughter of the Italian royal couple. But right now, his mother has full sway in his life. She makes him study hard. She keeps ambition alive in him. In the quiet country chateau, he walks about as "the Emperor," and, on occasion, his brothers and sisters bow and curtsy to him.

Interest, Sympathy, Never Showmanship, Help Gifted Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Have you a gifted-talented-artistic-brilliant-clever-smart child? Do you talk about his talents or his fine scholarship before him? Especially do you do this if there are other children in the family? Do you show him off? Are you prouder of him than of the others? Do you make or imply comparisons?

All these things are bad for your talented child. If you have a gifted child, don't spoil him in disposition or character. Also, don't hurt the other children in their affections and in their self-esteem by unwise handling of your cleverest child.

Give your talented child great and intelligent interest—but not showmanship, not flattery. Praise him, as you should the others, in proportion to his good will and expenditure of effort.

If you're not sure just what to do to help develop a talent, then just be interested and encouraging and see that he has the time, place and materials to paint, or draw, or play, or whatever it may be.

Expression is what a gift should have. Sympathy and understanding and quiet interest and approval on the part of parents are the greatest helps to true, free expression of a talent.

Some interesting additions have been made to the list of "Books on the Outdoor World," which many parents used for reference successfully last year. These books cover the natural life of mountains, woods, seashore, field and stream. This list will be sent on receipt of stamped self-addressed envelope.

Food Talk.

A recipe for the limpa bread which was mentioned several weeks ago in one of our Sunday articles on sandwiches has been requested by a number of our readers.

The following recipe is a representative one using whole wheat. If a more or less pronounced orange flavor is desired the grated rind may be added accordingly without disturbing the proportions of any other ingredients. The same thing applies to the fennel seed.

LIMPA BREAD.

2 cups whole wheat flour.
2 cakes compressed yeast.
1 tablespoon lukewarm water.
4 tablespoon sugar or honey.
2½ teaspoons salt.
2 cups luke warm water.
¼ cup lard or hydrogenated fat.
¼ cup warm water.
¼ cup orange juice.
3 teaspoons grated orange rind.
2 teaspoons fennel seed.
4½ cups whole wheat flour.

Lift the flour out of the box or bin lightly to fill the cup when measuring. Do not sift. Some brands of whole wheat flour that have recently appeared on the market are much finer in texture than those we have had before—whole wheat flour that packs into the cup readily—so it should be handled lightly. Put the three cups of flour into a mixing bowl. Crumble the yeast into a small bowl, add 1 tablespoon of warm water and the sugar and blend with a fork until the consistency is that of a smooth, thin batter. Let stand 10 or 15 minutes. Add the two cups of lukewarm water [96 degrees F.] to the yeast mixture and stir to distribute yeast. Add the yeast mixture gradually to the measured flour working it in very gradually with a knife or fork, to form first a stiff dough of uniform consistency which gradually changes to a smooth drop batter or sponge as all the liquid is added.

Cover and put in a warm place free from drafts and let rise until the dough has increased at least 2½ times in volume. A stoneware jar with tall straight sides is an ideal vessel in which to rise any yeast dough.

To keep the temperature of the dough uniform during the summer months is not such a problem as in winter. The dough must be kept out of drafts. The old time practice of wrapping the vessel containing the dough in a heavy cloth or blanket or in several layers of newspapers cannot be improved upon. The average summer time temperature of most kitchens in this locality is about 80 degrees F. At this temperature the dough will more than double in bulk in one hour.

When dough has risen sufficiently measure the rest of the flour into another mixing bowl, one holding at least three quarts. Add the salt and mix thoroughly. In colder weather the flour will need to be slightly warmed. To do this place the flour in a flat baking pan, spread it out in a thin layer and put it in a slow oven. Let it remain just a few minutes, then stir to heat the flour evenly. When flour feels warm to the touch, not hot, it should be used. Melt the fat in the ¼ cup of warm water. Cool to lukewarm, then stir this into the risen sponge until it is of uniform consistency. Add the grated orange rind and the fennel seed to the 4½ cups of flour, then add alternately the sponge and orange juice gradually stirring until mixture is of even consistency.

Knead for about three or four minutes quite vigorously. The dough should not be stiff but soft. In fact, it should almost be sticky. But do not mind if it does stick to the finger some. With quick kneading the adhering dough will soon change to a soft elastic mass that will not stick.

After kneading set to rise again in the same warm place in which the sponge rose. Let rise until double in bulk. This requires about ¾ of an hour. Shape into two loaves without the addition of flour and place in oiled individual loaf pans. Cover and let rise again until at least double in bulk, from 30 to 45 minutes. Bake in a hot oven [425 degree F. for about 45 minutes].

Smart Women Known by Shoes and Gloves

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Victorian mamas were always telling their daughters: "You know a real lady by her shoes and gloves." [At least, that's the impression one gets from novels and from one's grandmother.] Replace "real lady" by smart woman and you have the maxim brought up to date, and it's a perfectly sound one, too.

Many women make the mistake of thinking that smart accessories mean elaborate ones and that expensive accessories are necessarily smart. That's all wrong. Today more than ever. The new accessories are getting simpler every day.

Sketched today are some of the right shoes and gloves for hot weather wear this summer. In the upper left hand corner you see Jullenne's barefoot sandals that Worth is showing even with his formal afternoon and evening gowns. They're of black satin or crêpe de chine and their few straps fasten on the outside of the foot with a strasse button or jeweled buckle.

Smart Parisiennes have taken to wearing the long silk gloves that are sketched beside them in black, white, or dyed to match their pastel frocks.

Next come Talbot's summer gloves for sports or country wear in the new jersey cotton mesh. They're six button slipons and she makes them in colors to match scarves or other accessories. They'd go well in green with Marouf's new Oxford sandals in beige straw, trimmed with strips of bright green leather.

In the lower left corner of our drawing there's a smart eight button gauntlet in white broadcloth, surfaced fabric trimmed with white machine stitching. You know, all the smartest women in Biarritz are wearing pure white fabric gloves all day long. These have the new cuff buttoned side fastening done in eight pearl buttons and they flare at the top in the proper manner.

Fashion Promenade Shows Newest Ideas for Wedding Attire

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The other afternoon I attended an original fashion presentation, called the Flower Fashion Promenade. The latest fashions in flowers for the bride and her attendants were presented. One of the interesting features, to me, was the beauty tieup of hairdresser, florist and dressmaker, as represented at this show.

The setting was charming. The raised platform stood in the center of one of 5th avenue's large florist shops. Up the steps came the Cinema bride, the Demure bride, the Ultra Modern bride, the Aristocratic bride, the bride of yesterday, the Silhouette bride, the bride's mother, and she who goes to the altar a second time.

In each presentation the person who styled and staged the show called attention to the suitability of the coiffure to gown and personality, demure, cinema, modern, etc. The demure one wore one long shoulder curl. The modern one a long bob, beautifully wide waved and hair framing the face in the most fetching accents here and there around the hair line at the sides.

It isn't right from a pictorial standpoint that any bride should avail herself of the modern privilege of running down to city hall in her street costume. She owes it to the eyes of the beholders to present the loveliest picture of herself she can. If any girl cannot look beautiful in formal bridal attire she is in a bad way pictorially, I say.

Most brides are simply breath taking in their loveliness. It's the chance of a lifetime to strut your very best pictorial of you, isn't it? Though you may take a couple more flyers, you can't again be quite that ravishingly veiled young creature the first spouse claims for better or worse.

But about the coiffure again. One of the brides had a high forehead. The wedding veils for this year have gone in for receding to the back brain cells, like the hats. So, with the high foreheaded one, to meet this wide discrepancy the hair was curled much after the manner of a tiny towhead's curls, pinned down slantwise over the brow at wide intervals. The quality of the hair of each "bride" was lusciously rich and glossy, and when waved, only the widest of wide waves appeared.

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Clare, three year old daughter of Iris de Bertincourt, disappears mysteriously. Iris has been separated for years from her dissolute husband, Marcel. They are cousins and children of their tyrannical aunt, the Comtesse de Castelmauron. Marcel is seen frequently with Susanne Marly, an actress. Iris planned to divorce her husband and marry Alan Charnwood. Charnwood and his friend, Tommy Rossiter, conduct a search for Clare.

Iris goes to her aunt's home and learns that her husband is already domiciled there. It is believed they have reformed.

A ransom note is sent to Iris stating that Clare is being held for ransom. Her aunt offers to pay it and asks if Marcel and Iris promise to become reconciled.

Iris suspects Marcel and recalls having seen him at Le Touquet, hobnobbing with a notorious gambling couple. Marcel calls on Alan in his hotel room. That night an attempt is made to abduct Alan. He moves to Tommy's apartment.

Iris, Tommy and Alan suspect that Marcel, who is known to be heavily in debt, is the instigator of the kidnaping with the couple, known as Yetta and Pietro, his partners in the crime. Iris receives a note demanding that she herself, being the ransom. Alan learns that the couple have a half-witted son.

Iris goes to Marcel's home at the hour scheduled for him to deliver himself. Alan calls on Iris. Marcel arrives shortly after, badly beaten up, and tells Iris that he was robbed by the kidnapers, who have not returned Clare. Tommy tells Alan the story to the police. They return with the police inspector to question Marcel and find he has vanished. They leave to search for Yetta and Pietro in the neighborhood outside of Paris, where they are supposed to dwell, each taking separate routes. Alan finds the dilapidated dwelling they used as their hideout. It is deserted.

INSTALLMENT LV.

BURNED EVIDENCE.

With renewed expectancy Charnwood mounted the sagging treads. Cold darkness flowed down upon him, so that he was not surprised to emerge in a somewhat larger space immediately beneath the belfry, from which dangled a rotting rope. A surreptitious scampering receded at his approach, but when he reached the landing there was silence. He stopped, surveyed the darkness around, and uttered a gasp of revulsion.

There, crouched along the main beams, were two rows of rats, sleek, somnolent, their bodies pressed closely together, while their red eyes, lit like coals, held him enchained with a loathsome fascination. Defiantly, without fear, they stared down at him. Not until he had shouted and waved his arms did they thud, one by one, to the dusty boards and slide away into the shadows.

Facing him was an open door. It led to a cramped room under the eaves, little more than a cupboard. He went in, heart in mouth, dreading what he might find.

In the dim twilight he made out another pallet, smelling of mould. Half expecting to see a prostrate figure, he bent over it, pulled back the gray blanket, but, although the pillow encased in striped ticking retained the imprint of a head, there was no one there. The one small window was boarded across, the atmosphere was close and foul.

A plate and a sticky tumbler caught his eye, also a little heap of woolen garments, which proved to be a boy's shirt.

So here were the son's sleeping quarters—a wretched, vermin infested hole. What manner of people were these Lepins, the smiling Pietro and his self-confessed paramour, that they could treat their own flesh and blood with such inhumanity? Charnwood could not understand it. Still, there was nothing to show that Clare de Bertincourt had suffered a like imprisonment. Her whereabouts was as deep a mystery as ever. With a last glance around the abominable place he descended the winding stairs, meaning to get away and report to the police as soon as possible.

As he reentered the kitchen his attention was caught by the overturned chair. Its position suggested an act of rage, the hurling aside of a chance object in an angry person's path. He eyed it thoughtfully, and in so doing espied beneath the rungs the trodden fragment of a cigaret.

Turkish? Expensive, too. So much was evident, although the maker's name was obliterated. Lepin would not be likely to smoke this sort of thing. The clinging odor it gave forth called to mind the picture of Marcel a fastidious in the hotel bedroom, lighting cigaret after cigaret only to throw it away after a few puffs and cast the remainder away.

Then was that noise?

Quick as thought he clicked off his torch and stuck the extinguished end of it in his pocket. From outside, not six feet away, some one was talking with the kitchen door. Subdued voices penetrated, a man's whining tones, a woman's harsh contralto.

The Lepins had come back. In an instant they would find him here. Even as the door was opening. There was nothing for it but to bolt into the almost solitary and flatten himself against the wall. This he did in double quick time and, as the rusty hinges jarred on his ear, thrust his hand into his side pocket.

A nasty shock greeted him. His revolver was gone!

How on earth had he lost it? For a second the discovery paralyzed his faculties. Then in a flash he recalled his headlong tumble into the coal hole, and guessed that the revolver had dropped among the rubbish. At all events it was trapped and must remain so, above all avoiding the loosely stacked bottles, which a careless movement would send rolling and crashing.

Ducked behind the door, he put his eye to the crack. There was the light of a match and in the brilliant flare two figures were revealed, their distorted shadows grending huge and grotesque upon the wall behind. The outer door banged.

"Light the lamp, you!"

It was the woman's voice, strident in command, every trace of its fawning character stripped away. The tortoise shell cat had become a tigress, menacing, ruthless. All Tommy had said about Roche Anna in the Rue des Saints rushed into his mind.

"You left the car's lights on? We don't want any fool of a constable going in on us. Now, quick! The petrol, the matches—I'll get a big fire going so the ashes won't show. Where did you put those barrel staves?"

In the glare of the tin reflector the man's long, tobacco stained fingers held out a matchbox, upon which his companion pounced. His arm shook with palsy, his close set eyes were wandering, bloodshot, the eyes of a drunkard recovering from a bout.

The woman, dressed in her tweed coat and tight brown turban, bent over the stove. The iron lid clanged, there was a rustle of paper, a splash, and smoke dense two feet high leaped into her face. Inert, dazed, the artist watched, fully seeing her well occupied, reached the bottle from the dresser, at the first steering it to his loose lips when, as though gifted with second sight, she wheeled and snatched it from him.

"No more of that!" she snarled. "You grinning ape, it's you who've led us in this mess, you with your eternal guzzling! Here, it's your turn I want. Give it to me."

She clutch free a rolled up bundle she was carrying. There was a spurting sound and a rain of metal pellets tinkled to the floor.

"Put these up, every blasted one!" she ordered with a jerk of the head. "Bullets won't burn—and a single one would do for us."

Horrors! Charnworth felt his flesh creep. What buttons could they be? Not the little steel ones down the back of Clare's frock?

Apparently, he saw her stuff various articles into the stove, but he could not tell what they were for her vast bulk blotted out her operations. However, a strong stench rose, the unmistakable pungency of burning hair. Whose was it? That would mean no further need for disguise, that whatever part he had played was over and done with. She worked with great speed, cramming the sizzling mass down with a poker, heaping on coal until the fire roared in the chimney. Her stooped body, lit by the red glow, resembled some obscene witch performing a satanic rite.

She called over her shoulder: "Better eat something. There's sausage and cheese in the cupboard. O, I know you don't want food now, but before you go stop going your stomach will be precious empty." She gave a last poke, clapped the lid down, and turned with a horrible laugh of triumph. "There, that will look after itself. Now then! Ready? Got your revolver in your pocket? You may need it."

The man roused himself from his comatose condition to bring out a small, murderous six shooter. Fingering it stupidly, he moved toward the door. In the full light he stopped and Charnwood now saw that he was wet to the waist, his sodden boots leaving a trail of water, while dead leaves and scraps of weed clung to his saturated trousers.

He stood there, half in a dream, the woman cried out impatiently: "What are you gaping at? Don't you know we ought to be a hundred miles on our way? Would be, too, if you hadn't played the fool! Shake a leg, can't you?"

"Get it, then, and be quick about it!"

He lurched toward the scullery door. A quarter of a second and he would have had full on Charnwood, revolver in hand. The very shelf mentioned was at that moment pressed into the prisoner's neck. No help for it. Spurred by the sight of the deadly weapon closing in upon him, Charnwood drew his jaw and prepared to seize hold of the nearest bottle and bring it crashing down on the drunkard's skull.

A groping hand appeared around the door, missing his nose by a couple of inches. Then it drew back.

"Hold the lamp here, Yetta," came the indistinct mutter. "It's darker than—O, my God! Who's that?"

The hand recoiled, gibbering with fright. Discovered, thought Charnwood. Instead of tension, then he realized his mistake, as rapid running steps sounded, the kitchen door burst open, and around its edge peered a bloated, discolored face. Through the crack the hidden man stared fascinated. Just beneath the rim of a dark beret two startled eyes, one almost obscured by a purple swelling, the other dilated and fringed with thick lashes. His pulses bounded. The intruder was Marcel de Bertincourt.

Darwin Curtis Family Back from Belgium

BY THALIA

MR. AND MRS. DARWIN CURTIS (Dorothy O'Ryan), who have been living in Antwerp, Belgium, for the last two years or so, have returned to this country, summoned to come back sooner than they had planned by the recent death of Mr. Curtis' father, Augustus D. Curtis.

They had started for a motor trip of 6 or 7 weeks with which they planned to conclude their stay abroad, and received the message of Mr. Curtis' death while they were touring in Spain. They took passage as soon as they could and have been in Chicago for the last few days.

Mrs. Curtis has gone on to California with her mother-in-law. Mr. Curtis, the baby, Darwin Jr., and the latter's nurse are to join them in another week. They plan to be in Beverly Hills, Cal., for several months and will probably come back to Chicago to live after that.

Miss Eloise Higgins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilfred Higgins of 1448 Lake Shore drive, will have her sister, Miss Jeanette Higgins, as her only attendant for her marriage on Saturday to Norris B. Gregg Jr. of St. Louis. The service is to be read at the chapel of St. James, and will be followed by a reception at the Fortnightly. Douglas Kingland is to be best man for Mr. Gregg, and Patrick A. Valentine, Blake Blair and Benedict Farrar of St. Louis, Mo., are to usher.

Edith Fairbanks to Be Married Wednesday to Italian Count.

Edith Fairbanks and Count Ruggero Visconti de Modrone are having a succession of parties given for them during these last few days before their marriage on Wednesday and their departure for Milan. Yesterday Geraldine Swift gave a luncheon for them at Shoreacres, and in the evening the Stephen Y. Hords had a supper party at their Lake Forest house. Jacob Bischof gave them a dinner party on the terrace of the Tavern on Friday night, after which the guests took a fast and cooling ride out on the lake in speedboats. Betty Poole gave a luncheon at the Casino on Saturday, and Miss Fairbanks' sister, Miss Cornelia Fairbanks, entertained for them at a dinner-dance at the Saddle and Cycle Saturday evening. Leo Hogan is giving a dinner this evening for them and for Kathleen Whitcomb and Byron Harvey Jr., whose marriage is to take place on Saturday.

The announcement made last week by Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Hanna of Cleveland of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Kate Hanna, to Warren Bicknell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bicknell, also of Cleveland, explained to Mr. Bicknell's numerous acquaintances here the increasing infrequency of his erstwhile often social and business trips to Chicago. The announcement of the betrothal of Miss Hanna, who is kin to Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, and Mr. Bicknell was made on a yachting cruise on the S. S. Good Time, chartered by the Hannas for the occasion. The wedding is to take place in the autumn.

Society Editor Writes Essay About Toggenburg Goats.

Once a long time ago at a luncheon I remember hearing somebody tell about seeing Mr. Charles A. Stevens' Toggenburg goats at his estate at Delavan lake and saying that they were perfectly sweet. "Of all the ridiculous things!" thought I. "Talking about goats that way is the very silliest thing I've ever heard of." I took it all back though when I saw the goats at the Lake Forest pet show the other day. They ARE sweet. They're so soft and gray and they have such amiable faces that they don't look a bit real and certainly they bear little resemblance to the common garden variety of goats we're accustomed to see eating tin cans in vacant lots. There were quite a lot of the pretty creatures sent down from Agawan farm for the pet show, and they traveled in a jaunty green painted truck with "TOGGENBURG GOATS" painted in large letters across the front.

Mr. Stevens' pair of burros, a mother and her two weeks' old infant, were also exhibited in the pet show. Mr. John T. McCutcheon had drawn a birth certificate for the little beast, with amusing facts concerning its pedigree and little sketches of the family, and it [the picture] was auctioned off Saturday afternoon, and the proceeds turned over to the Lake Forest Hospital association, which is the beneficiary of the horse show.

Frederick T. Haskell was elected president of Lawrence hall, a home for boys, at the annual meeting the other evening. The other officers are Edward M. Skinner, vice president; Howard O. Edmonds, treasurer; Edwin E. Sheridan, secretary, and Erskine Wilder, assistant secretary.

WEDDING ANNOUNCED

Announcement is made of the marriage a week ago Saturday of Miss Gratia Armstrong, daughter of Mrs. J. Roy Armstrong of La Grange, to E. A. Hammesfahr, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. G. Hammesfahr of Bronxville, N. Y.

Ravinia Opera Offers Fashion Show, Too, Among the Audience

To a feminine observer, the opening of the Ravinia opera season Saturday night was as much a fashion revue as a musical treat. It brought forth a stunning display of the sort of evening gowns and wraps that will be favored by society for the next two months.

All of the dresses worn were full skirted and ankle length. Chiffon, lace, tulle, and organdy in pastel shades seemed to be the most popular materials. The wraps, many of which matched the gowns in color, were for the most part brief jackets or sleeveless capes that ended at the waistline.

Mrs. Lloyd Laflin, who was with her husband and his mother, Mrs. Louis Laflin, wore one of the prettiest ensembles seen. It was of flesh colored tulle and both dress and jacket were covered with narrow flat ruffles. The only trimming was a wide sash of jade green velvet.

Others seen wearing a dress and matching jacket ensemble, were Miss Geraldine Swift, in a pale yellow lace gown and yellow velvet wrap with cape sleeves; Mrs. Lawrence Williams, in a light green crêpe dress and jacket, and Mrs. Duncan Hodges in a green printed chiffon dress, and crêpe jacket and Miss Betty Brown, in a cream colored gown and short sleeved wrap.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Eckstein were hosts in their box to Mrs. Ralph H. Poole, president of the Ravinia Opera club, and Mme. Lucrezia Bori. Mrs. Eckstein wore white satin, Mrs. Poole peach chiffon, and Mme. Bori a pink chiffon gown and green brocaded wrap.

Among those who arrived before the overture started were Mrs. Edward Hines, in a printed chiffon gown, pale green velvet wrap and diamond pendant earrings; Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews King, the latter in a white gown and wrap; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Brown, who had with them their daughter, Betty, and her house guest, Miss Ann Beckwith of Minneapolis; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde and their daughter, Miss Sarah Hinde; Mr. and Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Otis; Mr. and Mrs. William S. Monroe, and Mrs. Monroe's sister, Mrs. William J. Calhoun, who is here on a long visit from Peiping, China; and Mr. and Mrs. James W. Morrison.

Others seen either in the boxes or strolling about the moonlit terraces included Cyrus McCormick and his petite bride, who wore a pink lace dress and a black velvet wrap; Mr. and Mrs. John Finlay, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Field, Prince Nicholas Galitzene, Mr. and Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson, Mrs. John T. Pirie, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lawrence Houghteling, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Donald McPherson, Mrs. Abel Davis, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham and Miss Jessie and Miss Catherine Colvin.

Treat your face to plenty of HOT WATER

. . . right from the faucet, for a few cents a day!

Shave on a second's notice when you have an automatic gas water heater for a valet. Just turn the faucet for steaming, bubbling hot water. Lots of it, too! Hop in for a shower . . . or slide way down under for a blissful, soul-soaking bath.

Gas keeps the water hot automatically—a whole tankful, morning and night! Take the rub out of house cleaning for your wife . . . and make dishes, laundering, and washing the children seem like half the task.

Cost? Not as much as your daily cigarettes. You're paying more for many things that don't mean as much to your daily comfort. Ask any friend who owns one. Or visit your neighborhood gas store.

Fiance Out of Work, Girl Gives Him Money, but She Finally Rebels

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am engaged and, naturally, much in love. The boy friend has been unemployed for six months now. He had no savings, so I have been helping him out. Wherever we go I must do the financing, or we do not go.

But this has been going on for such an extended period I'm wondering how it will end. I am more than willing to do my share, for he spent on me when he had it. But my instinct rebels against a man who continues letting a girl foot the bills. I am afraid of losing my respect for him completely. HELEN.

I'm wondering if the above situation isn't a fairly common one, at the moment. And how many other girls are facing the enigma?

One understands perfectly the revolt that possesses almost every woman's soul when she becomes the official bill payer. But surely the present unemployment situation must be faced and something done to appease the old female instinct to be the protected one, for the time being.

Suppose one were married to a man who had been out of employment for months through no fault of his own. She and every one else would think her a poor specimen if she didn't rally whatever aid and cheer she could possibly manage. She would produce her own savings account, if she had one, for common use. She would economize to the last nickel and she would try to face her problem not as a personal one, but as a great, big economic one.

I think the same procedure might be adopted between engaged couples. Especially where the man was generous when he had money. There will come another day, shortly, when he will be his old self again, no doubt. And a quarrel precipitated over something he cannot now help might be a matter for lifetime regret.

It's pretty demoralizing to be out of work for months. One must remember that. But it is doubtful if a character would be changed, though it might seem to be undergoing one under circumstances like those reported. Anyway, a smart girl can always withdraw her benefactions when she sees signs of being leaned on a bit too heavily.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Three new booklets answering the most numerous questions which puzzle Chicagoans on shrubs and trees have been prepared and now are on sale by THE TRIBUNE. Copies of "The Care of City Trees," "Favorite Trees of Chicagoland," and "Shrubbery for the Home Site," can be purchase for 10 cents each, or all three for 25 cents, at any of THE TRIBUNE public service offices, or they will be mailed on receipt of 12 cents in stamps for one or 28 cents in stamps for all three, sent to the Farm and Garden Editor, THE TRIBUNE.

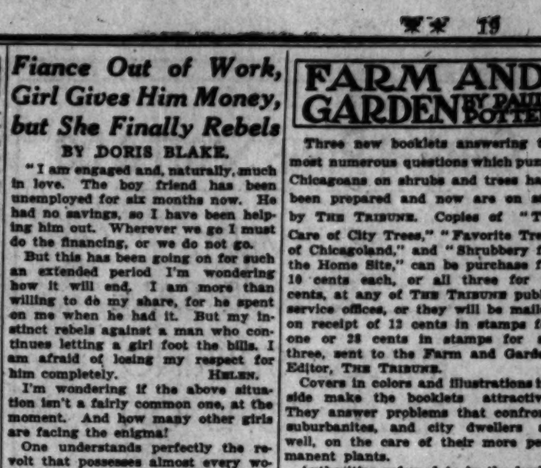
Covers in colors and illustrations inside make the booklets attractive. They answer problems that confront suburbanites, and city dwellers as well, on the care of their more permanent plants.

Authorities referred to in the booklets include Chicago's three prominent park authorities—August Koch of west parks, H. Benthe of south parks, and Carl Poppe of Lincoln parks system. Much of the material is reprinted from Farm and Garden columns of THE TRIBUNE.

Subjects discussed in the booklets include favorite and best adapted varieties, how to plant and transplant and when to accomplish this, and special topics on diseases and pests from which trees and shrubs must be safeguarded.

The booklet on favorite trees provides descriptions of growing habits and adaptability of various kinds. The shrub booklet describes various kinds and gives pointers about the care and treatment. The booklet on the care of city trees treats of transplanting, spraying, trimming, diseases and pests, feeding, and protection.

Now Brush Away Ugly Yellow and Stain



WHITEN TEETH

3 Shades in 3 Days This Way

A startling new discovery now makes it easily possible for anyone to have gleaming white teeth and gums that look firm and healthy—free from dread disease.

IT'S A REVOLUTIONARY TECHNIQUE THAT ACTUALLY REMOVES YELLOW AND STAIN. CLEANS TEETH RIGHT DOWN TO THE BEAUTIFUL, NAKED WHITE ENAMEL WITHOUT INJURY. IT STRENGTHENS GUMS.

You can brush teeth and gums the ordinary way a dozen times a day... still teeth will discolor and decay, gums will break down... so long as you neglect the millions of germs that swarm into the mouth with every breath and cause most tooth and gum troubles. Ordinary toothpastes are helpless against them.

This remarkable new technique—called the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique—destroys the millions of germs that spread destruction. As a result, teeth soon look whiter and feel cleaner than ever before.

The very moment Kolynos enters the mouth it multiplies 25 times and becomes a refreshing FOAM that permits the use of a dry brush which makes Kolynos 10 times more effective.

This FOAM gets into every pit, fissure and crevice. Cleans out fermenting food particles. Kills dangerous germs, 190 million in the first 15 seconds. Stimulates gums. Gently erases tartar. Purifies the mouth. And cleans teeth as they should be cleaned—to gleaming, dazzling whiteness.

Improvement Overnight

Start using the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique—a half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush. After the first brushing you'll note a difference. Overnight the improvement will be so marked you'll never again go back to old-fashioned, incompetent methods of brushing teeth and gums. In 3 days teeth will look 3 shades whiter! Buy yourself a large tube of Kolynos.

Requests for a Wheel Chair.

I am the Sunday school teacher of a 17 year old girl who hasn't walked since she was 3 years old. Her wheel chair is broken and cannot be used on the street, and so the girl has to stay away from Sunday school. Her mother, the sole support of the family, works from 3 o'clock until midnight; she barely makes a living, and is unable to buy a chair. Do you think some reader might have one to give?

EDWARD BURNS.

Boston, Mass., June 21.—The Cubs had their share of the bitter heartbreak in the longest game of the year on the longest day of the year. Heroically as the Cubs in defeat, they could not overcome three runs in the ninth to effect a 6 to 6 tie with the Brooklyn Robins this afternoon, only to see the Robins blow the works with an error in the ninth. The final score was Brooklyn, 7; Chicago, 6.

In the string of substitutions, Lester Bell was charged with the loss in the second of the series, though he played in only two batters, fanning in one and walking the other, while Lefty O'Doul, who originally started the winning marker, was put up for his second game of the series. The first two batsmen of the Robins made hits to tie the score at 6 to 6 in the ninth, but the hitting stopped and Burns got the victory. Phelps, who had pitched 8 1-3 innings, left the game with a one run lead.

Gives Hornsby Star at Bat.

It was bad enough to lose the rubber game of the series, of course, but there are certain things that went down in the books that are what we are sobbing about. Think of poor Charley Root, for instance. He wasted a home run yesterday and that should be enough for a spell. Today Hornsby finished four singles and a double and the last of the five safeties came in the two runs that tied the game. But instead of being a hero five hours and fifty minutes later, he is just another player in a losing baseball game.

Of course Rogers Hornsby, who started the big ninth inning rally by hitting a home run with one on base, is the man who will have to explain to his income tax trouble and the fact that earlier in the game he failed had in two double plays.

The Cubs made 17 hits as compared to the visitors' 12, but a fine pitching job by Watt Tinning and Lon Warneke when you think of the way the Robins got off Guy Bush in the horrible ninth.

Lopez's Hit Wins Game.

As you've been told, Sweetland started the ninth. He fanned Bissonette, whose homer in the third had given the Robins a 2 to 1 lead. Lon Lester walked O'Doul. Malone, who had shut out the Robins in his

RAIN REDUCES CROWD; FAILS TO DIM SPECTACLE

The first Chicagoland Sports Congress, the greatest demonstration of mass athletics ever held in the United States, thrilled a crowd of more than 20,000 who gathered at Soldiers' field yesterday to witness the spectacle, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, with its cast of 5,500 actors.

The congress was a veritable melting pot, including as it did American men, women and children athletes of Polish, German, Czecho-Slovakian, Norwegian and Ukrainian extraction, as well as hundreds of students of the Foreman Junior, High school and athletes of the Northwest parks district.

The attendance was reduced considerably by rains in the outlying neighborhoods of the city, and although the clouds did not advance upon the stadium until after noon, the program was halted for 15 minutes, during which rain pelted the spectators and contestants. The congress went into its first number immediately after the termination of the shower.

Mass Drill Wins Applause.

The program included mass calisthenics by the various groups, marching drills, gymnastics, relay races, a giant tug of war, fencing, boxing and wrestling. But it was the final number, a mass drill in which all of the participants in the individual features engaged, that drew the most cheers from the spectators.

It was the largest assembly of athletes ever held in Chicago and justified the work of the leaders of the various societies for the manner in which it was conducted. The spectacle of more than 5,000 men, women and children taking part in a demonstration that required the entire length and breadth of Soldiers' field to encompass it was a fitting climax to the congress.

Parade Opens Congress.

The parade which opened the congress was a separate spectacle in itself. All of the contestants assembled in the court of honor at the north of the stadium with their respective groups and marched south along the west cinder path of the stadium. Following the Husa band came the Czecho-Slovak delegation. After them marched the Polish Falcons, the Illinois district group of the American Turnerbund and its fife and drum corps, the Foreman Junior High contingent and the school band, the United Daughters of Norway, the Norwegian American Athletic association, the Catholic Slovaks, the Maxhan band and finally the brilliantly dressed Ukrainians.

The program was opened with a raising of the flag, accompanied by playing of the Star Spangled Banner by the bands of James Husa and Earl Maxhan. Hundreds of children of a half dozen different descents then marched on to the field for a series of games and with them came a select group of young Ukrainians, who took the center of the field for a special folk dance.

Wear Colorful Uniforms.

These youngsters, ranging in age from six to eighteen, wore the most colorful costumes of any of the participants in the congress, but they didn't rely on the brilliance of their attire to please the throng, for their dance was one which required plenty of energy, together with perfect timing. They went through every step faultlessly. The boys danced first, then the girls, and they concluded the number with a group dance. A young soloist dressed in a costume resembling an Argentine tango dancer, drew a big hand from the crowd after a five minute turn by himself.

While the Ukrainians were dancing, the field on all sides of them was filled with groups of children in flag, hoop and rope skipping relay races, in addition to basketball and push ball throwing contests.

The next number brought out 500 boy students of the Foreman Junior High school, who gave a demonstration of group calisthenics, the precision and grace of which elicited another round of applause from the crowd. The boys were on only five minutes, but they showed that they had improved their work since their own annual field day, if that were possible. The Lincoln Turner fife and drum corps provided a spirited accompaniment for them.

Norwegian Girls March.

The drill team of the United Daughters of Norway then came onto the congress stage, and while these young ladies didn't have the numerical representations of the other groups, they gave a perfect demonstration of marching tactics.

Then came the tug of war, engaging 520 stalwarts. This event stirred more enthusiasm among the spectators than any on the program. The contestants were picked from the Ger-

TO OUR FRIENDS:

The Tribune extends its appreciation to the members of the German turnerbund, the Czecho-Slovakian schools, the Polish falcons and the other organizations which cooperated in the promotion of the Chicagoland Sports Congress. It also owes a debt of gratitude to the officials who gave up a day of recreation to help make the event a success. Thank you all.

CHARLES GRIMM.

Lou Schneider Wins 100 Mile Race at Roby

Louis Schneider, winner of the Indianapolis 500 mile race, won the 100-mile event at Roby speedway yesterday from a fast field.

Schneider's victory was achieved in the closing laps, just as his win at Indianapolis. He idled along in sixth and seventh places until near the end of the race he worked up the list. At 19 miles, after the various leaders had battled each other and dropped out with mechanical difficulties, he went into the lead and sailed through the last ten miles to win. A crowd of 14,500 saw the race.

Cummings Is Second.

Second to Schneider was Bill Cummings, and third was Sam Ross. The early favorites, Lou Meyer, Shorty Cantlon and Ernie Triplett, each led for part of the race. Triplett gained the pole position with the fastest lap in the time trials, 45.84 seconds. He led for 24 miles, then went out with tire trouble and a broken feed line, whereupon Meyer assumed first place.

Meyer, driving No. 21, led for 20 miles, then began to have trouble with his air line, and took a mechanic aboard to pump up the air pressure and keep it up. He gradually dropped back, however, and finished fourth.

Fred Frame jumped into the lead at 45 miles, and hung on to it until his air broke down at 91 miles.

Early Stars Fade Out.

Ralph Hepburn, Babe Stapp, Gene Haustein, and Fred Winnai all looked good in the early stages of the race, but the hard driving of Meyer, Cantlon, Schneider, and Frame soon left them well behind.

Schneider drove an even race, taking every turn at an unvarying speed, and easily demonstrated why he won the Indianapolis race.

The next race at Roby will be July 12. The finishers:

First—Louis Schneider, Indianapolis, Sealfast Special.
Second—Bill Cummings, Indianapolis, Empire State Special.
Third—Sam Ross, Ann Arbor, Miller Special.
Fourth—Lou Meyer, California, Jadson Special.

STARTS 300 HOLE GOLF MARATHON BY LANTERN LIGHT

Purchase, N. Y., June 21.—[Special.]—An attempt to play 300 consecutive holes of golf was started today by Leo De Korn on the links of the Purchase Country club.

De Korn began his endurance test at 6 o'clock this afternoon and in an hour had completed his first round, taking 96 strokes to play the initial eighteen holes. His game was considerably improved on the second tour of the eighteen holes, for which he carded a 90. The endurance golfer plans to play throughout the night and expects to finish his 300 hole journey by 9 o'clock tomorrow night.

To furnish light for him during the night play De Korn will have three caddies, carrying large lanterns, accompany him on his rounds of the course. Each caddie will have two lanterns, making a total of six in all. Two caddies will be near him when he plays each shot and the other will serve as a fore caddie to light up the fairways and help indicate the location of the greens.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Catching the usually steady George Earnshaw on an off day availed the White Sox nothing yesterday. He showered them with nine bases on balls and they hit him in spots. Finally, in a stormy ninth that had 20,000 customers pounding their heels on the concrete, he surrendered. Two Chicago runners already had scored, three were still on the bases, one was out and one run was necessary to tie. But in the twinkling of an eye he had disposed of two pinch hitters and the Sox succumbed to the Athletics for the third straight time, 6 to 5.

Bush's Strategy Fails.

Earnshaw's real troubles began in the seventh inning. But strangely enough, his pitching himself into that hole brought on the Mack runs, which later gave him his twelfth victory of the season. At the time, the champions were ahead, 4 to 3, Tommy Thomas having already been blasted into oblivion.

In that inning, when the bases were filled, Manager Bush sent up a pinch hitter for Bill Cissell. The pinch hitter, Simons, didn't produce. Then Luke Appling had to fill Cissell's place at short in the eighth and promptly fumbled two grounders which the Macks converted into their winning runs at a time Red Faber was doing a good job of pitching.

As soon as the game started Thomas was in trouble, which wasn't unusual. Bishop, the leadoff man, hit a high fly deep to right. Reynolds, with his ailing leg, was unable to reach it and the ball fell for two bases. Haas' fly to right permitted Bishop to move to third and he scored when Todt flied to center.

Sox Take Lead.

Watwood's triple was the important factor in a two run Sox rally this same inning. He lined one of Earnshaw's pitches out into the neighborhood of the left center field scoreboard. Blue, who had previously walked, scored. Reynolds then singled past Dykes and Watwood also scored.

Two hits and a pass in the Macks' third were turned into two runs, thus wiping out the Sox' slim lead. Bishop walked and Haas sacrificed. Todt's fly, which would have been an easy home run in the Athletics' home park, bounced off the right field wall for three bases, Bishop scoring. Mr. Simmons then stepped up and there was

A Mutt's a Mutt, Even if You Call Him Hesketh Wu Kee

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—In looking over the summaries of a dog show held at Rye, N. Y., I have been wondering what the owner of the champion dog of the show says when he wants to call his dog. The champion is a Great Dane named Fionne von Loheland of Walnut Hall and it seems almost as difficult for a man, stepping to the door at night to call his dog, to yell: "Here, Fionne von Loheland of Walnut Hall; here, Fionne von Loheland of Walnut Hall," as it is for the students of Massachusetts Institute of Technology to cheer their crew in the rowboat race at Poughkeepsie.

Up to now, it is true, the students of this school have had only one occasion to cheer. That was when their crew unexpectedly finished third in the race of 1930. But, though I heard plenty of cheers running "Rah—rah—rah, Cornell; Cornell! Cornell!" there was nobody on the train sufficiently gifted to yell "Massachusetts Institute of Technology" three times in rapid succession.

Other names of dogs in this particular show were Bodo von Siekerfelde, Hesketh Wu Kee, Maesydd Molly of Happy Valley, Hitofa Blaengaru Bet, Blossom of Elfenwald and Clamariow Pung Yen. I suppose, if it is constitutional for people to call their summer cottages "Kamp Kilkare" and "Welkum Inn" and name their innocent children after candidates for public office, it is legally O. K. to name a dog Clamariow Pung Yen.

Willard's Dog Was Rover.

But the names of the dogs listed in the summaries of the show at Rye, N. Y., awake the first friendly feeling that I have ever felt toward Jess Willard, the old heavyweight champion.

Once, when Mr. George Creel was writing Mr. Willard's autobiography, after several days of ineffectual pumping, he finally hit upon the idea that Willard probably had owned a dog at some remote time and that if he should mention the subject, Mr. Willard's memory would begin to stir.

"So the next morning I hurried over and asked him," Mr. Creel said. "And sure enough, Jess said, 'Yes, I used to have a dog when I was a kid.' Instantly alert, I asked him, 'What was the dog's name?' and I give you my word that I knew that dog's name before he ever got it out of his mouth. He was the kind of fellow who would call a dog just one name and no other. Jess said, 'His name was Rover.' So I knew it was useless to try to pump him any further and went back to New York to write his autobiography anyway."

Maybe Jess Had Right Idea.

I admit that the name of Rover is bromidic and that Mr. Willard is just the sort who would call a dog Rover and nothing else. But in view of the terrific originality shown by the professional dog breeders in naming their dogs, I am inclined to respect Mr. Willard for it. Anyway, what is original about Mr. Creel's name?

The names of Rover, Sport, Duke and Spot may be said to correspond to the names of George, William, James and John for men. Through the comic supplements of the days before the strips turned from sheer farce to melodrama, we were made acquainted with the names of Towser, Fido and Nero for dogs, but I never enjoyed personal acquaintance with any dogs so named. But I did know a lady dog of no particular breed which was a victim of the familiar mania for naming persons and pets for popular figures of the hour without due regard for the proprieties. This lady dog was found—and people always used to find their dogs instead of buying them—about the time that Admiral Dewey came home, so she struggled through life under the abnormal name of Dewey, conferred by persons too young to understand.

All the dogs I happen to know personally at the present time are called nothing like Hitofa Blaengaru Bet. There is one named Pandora, but she is a thoroughbred and I suppose she was named before she left the breeding kennel.

A Three Time Thoroughbred.

The others, though, are called such names as Duke and Buddie and Annie. These are easy to remember, they are obviously not fancy affectations, and certainly much easier to yell, in calling the dog, than Bodo von Siekerfelde. As to breeding, they are on the miscellaneous side, although Duke is a thoroughbred of three different types. His father was the son of a thoroughbred Airedale and a thoroughbred bloodhound and his mother was a thoroughbred setter.

This makes a good stout dog.

He is not a good field dog in the formalities of the hunt, but he gets his share of woodchucks and rabbits and his coat is so heavy that he is quite independent even on the coldest nights of the winter. Then he sleeps wherever he happens to find a door open in the neighborhood or in the woods. Everybody in the neighborhood knows and respects him for a substantial citizen, and if he isn't a thoroughbred of a single breed, who are a lot of people derived from generations of Scotch, Irish, German, English and other intermarriages to low rate him for that?

He will go walking in the field with you, but he is too independent to come when called unless he wants to. He has a mind of his own and his own business to attend to.

Best Dogs Cost Least.

I notice that the dogs which give the least worry and the most companionship and require the least care are dogs which are not worth much money. Nobody steals them and there is none of the worrisome necessity for locking them up or keeping them always on leash, which is no fun for either party. As to companionship, the people I know who raise thoroughbreds seem to take no more sentimental interest in the individual dog than a chicken farmer in the individual chicken. They feed them according to scientific formula, so the dog never knows the pleasure of a sliver of roast begged at the dinner table or a steak bone which had been left over. And because he has his quarters in the kennels he misses that natural delight without which the life of no dog can be complete, sleeping by the stove on winter afternoons.

Royalty goes in for long and outlandish names and I suppose these thoroughbred show dogs are the royalty of their breeds. Duke has no more reason to envy them for all their Clamariow Pung Yen than anybody with a pretty good job has to envy the king of England for all his Britannic majesty.

FORFEIT SECOND GAME, SO TEAMS PLAY TRIPLE BILL

Columbus, O., June 21.—(AP)—A battle of words decided one of three baseball games in what was scheduled as a double header between Minneapolis and Columbus of the American association here today. Columbus was ordered to forfeit the second game when Manager Harry Leibold got into an argument with Umpire Larry Goetz.

Having won the first game, 14 to 3, the Millers were credited with a 9 to 0 victory in the second by virtue of the forfeiture. Columbus came back to win 9 to 1 in the third game, which was moved up from the Millers' next series here.

Umpire Goetz ordered the second game forfeited in the first inning after Leibold had been sent to the showers for protesting ball and strike decisions.

CUBAN TO AWARD MEDAL TO ROBINS' HOMER LEADER

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Ruth, Klein, Wilson, Gehrig and other major league baseball stars may hit more home runs than Herman, O'Doul, Bissonette, Wright or Frederick, but one of the latter is going to get a special medal if he tops his teammates in making round trip blows this season.

This award for socking superiority on the part of a Brooklyn slugger is made by Señor Claudio Conde, prominent Havana business man and sportsman and an enthusiastic Robin fan. Señor Conde has the bauble already engraved, with a blank space left for the name of the Brooklyn manufacturer of the most home runs, 13 to 6.

COGGESHALL AND MISS WOLF WIN TENNIS FINALS

Keep Singles Crowns at River Forest.

Two tennis champions, Harris Coggeshall and Catherine Wolf, staged brilliant rallies yesterday to retain their crowns in the western championship tournament at River Forest before a crowd of 2,000.

Coggeshall, blond defender of the title in the men's singles, waged an uphill fight against little Marcel Rainville, the Canadian Davis cup star, to win, 7-6, 7-5, 6-1, 6-2.

Easy for Miss Wolf.

Miss Wolf retained her title by defeating Mae Cuervorst, 1-6, 6-0, 6-3, in a match marked by the surprisingly long volleying periods of both. On one occasion the ball crossed the net 167 times before the point was decided.

Coggeshall won his match by playing the net excellently in the closing games, keeping Rainville constantly on the run by driving short, hard shots with accurate placements. Coggeshall's volleys and overhead placements were decisive and it was here that he showed his real power. Rainville played a steady game of tennis, and, although lacking Coggeshall's spectacular ability, made it difficult for his younger opponent by smashing ably returned shots across the net. The Canadian, however, because of his small size, lacked the killing stroke of the type that Coggeshall sizzled across the barrier.

Thalheimer, Williams Win.

Louis Thalheimer and Luke Williams, intercollegiate stars, proved their superiority in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3, over Harris Coggeshall and Richard Mason to win the men's doubles championship. Coggeshall and Mason tired under the incessant drive of their opponents, who showed no letdown in a fast pace, started early in the match. Mason tried hard for the losers, but Coggeshall seemed a bit too tired after his singles match with Marcel Rainville a half hour earlier.

Clara Louise Zinke and Ruth Oexman, both of Cincinnati, scored a hard earned victory over Catherine Wolf and Barbara Duffy to win the women's doubles title, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4. The victors were slow in getting started, but rallied to take the second set with ease. Miss Oexman's beautiful crosscourt drives and placements, coupled with Miss Zinke's clever net play, were too much for their opponents. In the final set, however, they were forced to the limit to score a 6-4 victory.

PETROLLE-SUAREZ FIGHT HEADLINES WEEK'S RING CARD

New York, June 21.—(AP)—The lightest boxing schedule in months finds most of the promised action this week centered in the New York district and on the Pacific coast. The headline bout of the week will pit Justo Suarez, Argentine lightweight contender, against hard socking Billy Petrolle, the "Fargo Express," in a ten round bout in Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

Out west, Fidel La Barba, Los Angeles featherweight, will battle Claude Varner, Bakersfield, Cal., at Hollywood Friday in his first start since his disappointing showing against Bat Battalino in New York.

Shreveport Pitcher Hurls 3d No Hit Game of League

Dallas, Tex., June 21.—(AP)—Spec Erickson, left handed pitcher for Shreveport, pitched the third no-hit game in the Texas league this season when he held Houston without a safety today, winning 2 to 0. Bill Harris of Galveston held Shreveport without a hit May 3, winning 1 to 0. Ewell Moore, San Antonio, pitched hitless ball June 6 against Galveston, winning 1 to 0.

CHAMPION

College Golf Title Quest Starts Today

One hundred and twenty-three college golf stars, including George T. Dunlap Jr. of Princeton, and Lawrence Moller of Notre Dame, finalists last year, will try the traps and bunkers of Olympia Fields today in the opening round of the national intercollegiate championships.

The qualifying rounds, at 18 holes each, will be held today and tomorrow. The team championship will be decided in the qualifying rounds, the four low men on each team to count. The team title will be defended by Princeton, which has entered five players.

Reduce Field Wednesday.

The field will be reduced to 32, in two 18-hole rounds Wednesday, with the quarter finals set for Thursday and the semi-finals Friday and the finals Saturday.

Fifteen institutions will be in the team title battle, with Yale leading the list with nine entrants. Harvard, Michigan, Notre Dame and Northwestern have seven each; Penn State, Williams, Illinois, Southern California and Chicago, six, and Ohio State, Loyola, Princeton, Dartmouth and Southern Methodist, five each.

De Paul Enters Three.

Tulane has four entrants, and Colgate and De Paul have three. Georgia Tech, Texas and Georgetown are represented by two each, and Pittsburgh, Stanford, Rice Institute, Brown, Knox, Washington university of St. Louis, Minnesota, College of the City of Detroit and Purdue have single entrants.

Tommy Aycock of Yale, 1929 champion; Phillips Finlay of Harvard, Francis Beaupre of Notre Dame, Johnny Fiorio of Ohio State, are among the stars who will compete.

NEW BALL NOT SO BAD, WESTERN OPEN REVEALS

Dayton, O., June 21.—(AP)—Golfers who competed in the western open championship at Miami Valley here last week have decided that the new balloon golf ball isn't so bad after all.

Led by Ed Dudley, the Wilmington, Del., professional who captured the title with one of the lowest 72 hole totals in the tournament's history, the entries played just as well with the new ball as they did with the old one. Several scores in the sixties were recorded and the Miami Valley course record was broken twice in as many days.

Dudley's championship rounds were 69—70—70—71 for a 280 total that clipped par by exactly 4 shots. Walter Hagen, who showed a promise of his old time skill once again, came in second with an even par 284 for the distance.

Hagen cracked the competitive course record on his second round with a 68 and Collins, who held the old course record with the old ball, regained his record with a 67, 4 strokes under par.

SPORT CONGRESS DRILLS THRILL CROWD OF 20,000

Rain Reduces Throng, Delays Events.

man, Czech and Polish groups. The rope stretched from the southern end of the stadium to the slope on the extreme north side. It was the biggest tug of war ever held. The team on the south end of the rope was victorious after a minute and a half.

Until this time the element of speed had been absent from the program, but it came in large quantities in the number which followed. Thirty-three standards were erected on either side of the field, and at each of these four young men lined up. A shuttle relay race followed, in which each team raced across the stadium to its mates on a standard parallel with its own, and for five minutes the floor of the amphitheater was filled with dozens of fleet footed young Norwegian-Americans dashing across it and back.

The first of the older groups in the congress appeared next, with nearly 500 men and women Czecho-Slovakians arraying themselves on the field for a pageant of mass calisthenics that made a perfect pattern against the stadium grdas. The men filed into the field from the east, the girls from the west, and both marched to the center of the field where they blended into perfect lines of eight each. They then deployed into seven lines, three abreast, and gave a superb account of the value of mass calisthenic training.

Turners Show Skill.

The Czecho-Slovakians concluded their group performance by sending out a picked group of thirty-six young men who gave a display of callisthenics that was remarkable for its smoothness and finish. They went through their paces as if they had been trained from boyhood.

The German Turners followed the Czecho-Slovakians in a performance which required the entire field. On one side were young women dancers; on the other a dozen fencers, their blades flashing in the sunlight. Here a gymnast was spinning over and under a cross bar, here another was twisting and turning over the parallel bars. A group of girls and young men played volley ball with nets erected at opposite ends of the stadium. In another corner was a band of young men, bouncing on and off a huge springboard, and boxers and wrestlers performed in other parts of the field.

The Polish Falcons were the last of the groups to come on to the field. Their impressive display of athletes—men, women, and children—amazed the crowd by its size. The Falcons covered nearly two-thirds of the stadium football playing field when they marched on to the field and nearly filled it when they spread out to allow themselves space for their mass calisthenic drills. Considering the disparity in age and size of their numbers on the field, the Falcons gave a demonstration that was a classic of motion.

Perfect Mass Drill.

The mass drill which concluded the program was a perfect finish to a day in which exactness and control were the rules, for it brought together every group engaged in the congress, all of them perfect in themselves, in a display which was matchless in its magnitude and motion.

The actors in the final drill were under the leadership of several group directors, each of whom was in contact with the congress director through a master telephone so that the finale was more remarkable when it is pointed out that these several widely separated groups had never rehearsed together. But they worked as one unit yesterday.

After the conclusion of the mass drill the participants stood at attention while the band played America.

Advertisers' Golf Meet Is Won by George Hartman

Minocqua, Wis., June 21.—[Special.]—George Hartman, with a gross of 149 for the 36 holes, led the field today at the close of the annual tournament of the Western Advertising Golfers association at the Minocqua Heights Golf club. Hartman scored 76 in yesterday's play and 73 today.

Joseph B. Campbell, former University of Illinois star and a newcomer in the advertising men's play, had scored low gross with 161. Low net for the two days was won by the association president, C. D. Freeman, who finished with nets of 70 and 72, followed closely by E. R. Goble, with 146.

The low net in Sunday's play brought out some below par totals, including a 83 for James Meigs, a 67 for Joseph B. Campbell, a 66 for Fred Hunton, and a 65 for Walter Stocklin. These scores all reverted to par of 70 and in the draw Hunton won. As on Saturday, Meigs won the low putts contest, duplicating his 39 total.

Today's low gross foursome included George Hartman, T. S. Dowst, Roscoe Fawcett, and S. F. Nelson. Second low gross were Campbell, Ray Seng, Hunton, and Dick Wilson. Low net foursome included J. A. Bender, Carl Fritchard, Stocklin, and D. W. Aahby. Second low net honors were won by Meigs, Lewis M. Williams, Mortimer Berkowitz, and Lloyd Maxwell.

STOCKYARDS HOLD MEET.

Approximately 1,000 officials and employés of the stockyards held their annual golf tournament at Olympia Fields yesterday. They used all four courses. A truck was required to haul the hams, bacon, pigs' feet, etc., which were given as prizes.

On course No. 1, W. H. Townsend with 83—11—72 and Harry Kellain with 85—11—74 were low; on No. 2, used by the ladies of the party, Mrs. George Edmonds and Mrs. A. L. Heald, with 74 and 75 respectively, were the best; on No. 3, R. C. Wilson, with 76—7—69, and C. R. McFarland, with 79—8—71, headed the list, and on No. 4, N. L. Anderson shot a 74, the best gross of the day, and a 72 net. G. B. Maxwell was next with 83—9—74.

It's Time for Old Sun Beau to Start Handicap Title Drive

BY FRENCH LANE.

Just about this time every season a big bay streak of thoroughbred speed and stamina begins a drive which usually lands him the American turf handicap championship along about the time the cup races are run in September and October.

Running true to his familiar schedule, the big bay streak, which is none other than the old turf favorite Sun Beau, will begin his drive for the title in Chicago within the next few days.

He may start it in the $10,000 added Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap at Washington Park on Saturday afternoon. Or he may wait a few days and begin by taking on all the star handicappers in the series of rich fixtures which are to be renewed during the July racing at Arlington.

Sun Beau is to step off the cars from New York this morning. He will find many old time cronies on hand to greet him, for a number of his greatest races have been run before Chicago crowds. If he ships well from New York—Sun Beau has always been a good hardy traveler—he will go after the Peabody Memorial, the closing day feature of the Washington Park season.

But it is no cinch he can win this gallop at a mile and a quarter, for Gallant Knight, Mike Hall, Karl Eitel, Brown Wisdom, Lady Broadcast, Satin Spar, and others of the more fashionable performers in the west are ready to take him on. There is also a possibility that Spinach, from the east, will oppose him.

A trip up and down the long line of stables at Arlington yesterday revealed that the stalls there are rapidly filling up with the best horses in the country. And most of them are fit to begin racing when the Arlington season opens one week from this afternoon.

And here's a tip. The horses in the John Herts stable have been pointed throughout the spring and early summer for the engagements they are to fill at Arlington. Herts would rather win a couple of races at Arlington than a dozen at any other track.

From the way the Herts horses look now they are not going to stop at a couple of Arlington victories. Better give them some consideration whenever they start, for Trainer Bill Knapp has them in better condition now than they are likely to be in at any other time this season.

Albert C. Bostwick, whose Mate won the American Derby, has been remarkably successful in the ownership of race horses. He has been the owner of only a few, yet all of them have been of stake caliber.

A number of years ago he bought Shuffle Along from Joseph E. Widener and the horse was successful on the flat here and later as a hunter in England. Bostwick also owned Spot Cash when that horse was making the headlines.

Last year the red and blue jacket of Bostwick came back into prominence through the winning ability of Yarn, Mate and Scuttle. The latter filly was beaten a nose recently by Tambour in the Coaching club American Oaks at Belmont. She is a half sister to Yarn. The latter, cut out for distance running, is in England to seek some of the old fixtures on the flat there later this season.

Bostwick bred Mate and has trained him for many of his engagements.

As the final week of the Washington Park season gets under way this afternoon, a big field of sprinters will come together in the Oak Park purse, which is the day's top piece. Crofton, Ironsides, Battleship, Prose and Poetry, Dewey Fly, Zazawelsta and Sister Zoe are some of the flyers that will come together. Rusty, a 3 year old making his first start of the year, may rule the favorite.

Weather Is Hot, but Sportsmen Think of Hunting

BY BOB BECKER.

Although June, July and August are the months when the outdoor fan thinks more in items of fishing, camping trips, canoeing, motoring and other similar sports, the wise sportsmen who want some fun with their shotguns this fall will take time off right now to set the stage for pheasant, rabbit and other hunting.

The definite trend in upland game shooting this year is toward a closer working relationship between hunters and farmers. The farmer is going to get a break from now on and instead of being expected to furnish cover for game birds and rabbits, provide food for such game and then open his gates and let the hunters swarm over his place and shoot the game.

Many sportsmen are taking the stand that the landowner should have some return for his crop of wild game. Summing it up in a few words the situation is this: The people own all the wild game, but there is no reason why the farmers should raise all their game and provide the land on which to kill it without getting some remuneration. The sooner that all of us sportsmen realize that the good old days of free hunting, roaming over anybody's land, and shooting any place we want are gone forever, the closer we will be to the day when we get improved hunting conditions and more game.

The important part of the better hunting question rests in the fact that after all is said and done the farmer can make or break the future of hunting for the city dweller. When we leave the city to hunt we must look for our coveys of quail or the pheasants on somebody's land. If the farmer wants to cut down all bird cover or rabbit cover, destroy the feeding grounds of wild life and otherwise make his land unsuitable for game birds he can do it. On the other hand, sportsmen by forming a partnership with the landowners can improve game conditions, increase the game bird crop and get some sport each year. Therefore, it behooves either the individual hunter or groups to work with landowners if more birds and better hunting is wanted.

In Indiana we find that the Huntington plan [in five counties] whereby sportsmen, farmers and the conservation department are working to produce more game birds and at the same time provide hunting is spreading to 8 more counties. Wisconsin now is talking about compensating the farmer for raising game birds.

Women's Open Golf Tourney Starts Today

The second annual open championship tournament of the Women's Western Golf association will open today at the Midlothian Country club with a qualifying round of 18 holes. Starting tomorrow, 18 holes of match play will be played daily until Friday, when the 36 hole final is scheduled.

Mrs. Lee Mida will defend the title she won at the Acacia Country club last year. Miss June Beebe was runner-up.

The tournament is open to women who have a handicap of 12 or less. They may be members of the Western association or daily fee or public park players. More than 65 have entered. Tee entries will be accepted.

Mrs. H. D. Raymond, chairman of the association, has paired a W. W. G. A. member with a public course player in each twosome of the qualifying round. Each flight for match play will comprise 16 players, the 16 low qualifiers constituting the first flight. Losers of first matches will play for consolation honors in their respective flights.

The winner of the championship will receive a trophy donated by Mrs. W. W. Haerther, president of the Women's Western Golf association. The winner and runner-up in each flight also will receive trophies.

The open championship was inaugurated by the association two years ago when Mrs. Paul Walker of Glen View was president.

Midlothian is about 25 miles southwest of Chicago and a quarter mile west of Cicero avenue on 147th street. Midlothian buses will be at Blue Island to meet the Rock Island train leaving the Randolph street station at 8:10 a. m.

OUTDOOR BRAND OF WRESTLING ON DISPLAY TONIGHT

McMillen, Steinke Head Mills Program.

Wrestling moves out into the open tonight when ten heavyweight grapplers will appear at Mills stadium in a show promoted by Doc Kraus. There will be a double windup and three supporting contests with the first match at 8:15.

Jim McMillen, the former Illini tackle, is in one of the featured numbers with Frank Bronowicz, Sticky Pole. In the other headline event, Jim Clinkstock of Oklahoma, and Hans Steinke of Germany, two of the biggest men in the game, will clash.

Both matches will be one fall to a finish. Clinkstock and Steinke drew in a previous appearance here, while McMillen and Bronowicz will be meeting for the first time.

McMillen probably will depend on his rushing attack, especially the flying tackle. Bronowicz employs a steady, diversified attack. McMillen will weigh 215, Bronowicz, 201.

The Steinke-Clinkstock struggle is expected to develop into a wild battle. Both men are noted for their rough tactics. They weigh around the 250 pound mark.

Karl Pojello makes another appearance here, this time being paired with Nazareno Poggi, newcomer from Italy.

Two other supporting contests round out the card. Jack Smith, Chicago physical culture exponent, is linked with Marshall Blackstock of Georgia. Jack Washburne, Hollywood veteran, and Milo Steinborn, ponderous Teuton, meet in the other bout.

PIRATES DEFEAT GIANTS, 5-4, IN ELEVEN INNINGS

Grantham's Four Errors Prolong Game.

New York, June 21.—(AP)—After piling up an early lead on errors by Grantham, the Giants lost a fine chance to gain in the National league pennant race today as they dropped a three inning game to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5 to 4. Grantham made four errors, contributing largely to the New York scoring.

In the eleventh the Giant infield went to pieces and errors by Jackson and Marshall and Grantham's single gave the Pirates two runs. New York came back with one in the last half.

FRENCH TENNIS STARS FAVORED AT WIMBLEDON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WIMBLEDON, England, June 21.—Last handed by Henri Cochet and Rene Lacoste of France will begin tomorrow for Wimbledon tennis championships in a tournament which for the first time in years lacks the support of American stars. The two French players, both of whom have won a pair of singles crowns here, are considered almost certain to sweep past all opposition.

If the four titles won by Americans and Britons shared with Australia last year are won is being defended this year. The absence of Big Bill Tilden, Wills Moody and Elizabeth Ryan weeds out all but one of the players who captured titles for the newcomers from the United States are seeded. They are Francis T. Hunter, ranked number two in America, and Wood. Lott and Van Ryn are not seeded in the singles and Miss Gregory Mangin of New York.

Miss Jacobs is chief American challenger among the women, but the favorite is Betty Nuthall, British star of the United States crown.

His average went up four points to .391. Hendrick lost eight points, as he failed to get a hit, and dropped to third place in the big six at .380, although he held the top of the National league. Charley Grimm of Chicago hit safely five times in succession and replaced his teammate, Riggs Stephenson, in the last rung of the big six ladder.

Sox Lose 3d Straight to Macks, 6-5

a slight delay while admirers from Milwaukee rushed to the plate to present him with a silver bat. Simmons, however, prefers the wooden kind and proved it an instant later by hitting a single to center, scoring Todt.

The champions gathered two doubles and three bases on balls in the fifth, but all they could shake out of this mess was one run. Haas opened with one of the two baggers along the right field line. Todt doubled to right center and Haas scored. When Tate dropped a pitched ball, Todt started for third, but Tate threw him out. Then Simmons walked and Foxx was tossed out by Jeffries. Miller and Dykes also walked to fill the bases, but Heving flied to Watwood.

The Sox managed to get one run in the sixth. It was in the nature of a gift, however. Fonesca started the inning with a single into center field. Kerr walked and Jeffries moved both men up a base by sacrificing. Cissell remained in his hitting slump by fanning. A pass to Tate then filled the bases. Fothergill was sent up to pinch hit for Thomas. He grounded to Bishop, who booted the ball, Fonseca scoring. Then Blue lined to Simmons.

Appling "Performs."

Appling's peculiar shortstopping in the eighth started when Dykes aimed a grounder directly at him. It bounced off the ends of his fingers. Heving hit the same kind of a ball and Appling again fumbled. Earnshaw advanced the two men by sacrificing and Bishop's single to right center scored them.

The rush with which the Sox banished Earnshaw and almost tied the score in the ninth began with a pass to Watwood, who was forced by Reynolds. Lyons ran for Reynolds. Fonseca scratched a single off Earnshaw's glove and a pass to Kerr filled the bases. Jefferies boomed a single over short, scoring Lyons and Fonseca. Kerr went to third. When Appling walked, filling the bases again, Earnshaw started to take himself out, but, when almost to the bench, was waved back. Mack wanted to force the first move on Bush—and did.

Mckain was sent up to bat for Tate and Grove was promptly waved to the mound. Bush just as promptly yanked McKain and countered with Grube, a right handed hitter. Then Grove ended the flurry in hurry. A pop to Bishop was Grube's contribution. Henline was rushed forth to bat for Moore. He swung three times.

Brooklyn Wins from Cubs in Ninth, 7 to 6

game Thursday, came on the scene and Wright filed to Cuyler. Finn singled to left and O'Doul stopped at second. Then Lopez, who hadn't got a hit all day, singled to left and the ball game was over the instant O'Doul hit the plate.

The Cubs scored only two victories in five games played here and the Robins have an advantage of six won in ten starts this season. Tomorrow the Cubs move to the Polo Grounds where they engage the Giants in four games in three days, the double header being on Tuesday.

Guy Bush is slated to pitch for the Cubs. John Berly, imported from Rochester, is the logical man for the New Yorkers.

In the second, after a double play had blighted the Cubs, the Robins scored the first run of the game. O'Doul pushed off with a single, paused while Wright struck out, and scored on Finn's double to left.

The score was tied in the first of the third. English got his second hit with one down and stole second. Woody went to third while Hornsby was beating out a roller toward third. English scored and Hornsby stopped at second on Stephenson's single to right.

The 1 to 1 tie did not prevail throughout the third because of Bissonette's homer. Gilbert got his second single with one out and held first while Herman filed to Stephenson. He walked home ahead of Bissonette when Del knocked his home run.

Error Gives Cubs a Run.

Lopez's amazing error gave the Cubs a run in the fourth. Grimm opened the inning with his second single and stopped at second on Jurges' single. Warneke bunted and forced Jurges, Grimm stopping at third. Cuyler walked and although Grimm was only a foot off third base as Warneke started for second, and Ki to first, Lopez tried to throw the ball to third. Instead of throwing to third, however, he threw to left field, Grimm strolling home with the Cubs' second run. Phelps insisted on having the bases full, so he walked English. The pressure was greatly relieved for Phelps and his associates when Hornsby tapped into a double play to end the inning.

The Cubs required two singles and a double to score the tying run in the fifth. Stephenson opened with his second single and he stopped at third when Wilson doubled off the score board in right. Hemsley singled to right center. Stephenson scoring, but when Hack endeavored to steam home also, he was out at the plate, Herman to Lopez. The decision angered Hack, though obviously he was out. Jurges popped to Wright and Warneke forced Grimm.

In the sixth inning the Cubs went down in a double play for the third time. With one down English made his third hit, a double to left. Hornsby then grounded to Phelps, who ran over in the short stop territory and tagged Woody, and then turned and tossed to double Rog who was making a brave effort to reach second on what he probably thought was to be a prolonged run down play.

Rather encouraged by evidence of confusion on the part of the Chicago manager, the Robins stepped out for two runs and took a 5 to 3 lead in their end of the sixth. Wright launched the trouble with a single to left, and advanced on Finn's sacrifice. Lopez walked and Phelps fanned. Frederick shot a murderous triple to the right field wall, the ball bouncing back almost to the infield. Wright and Lopez scored without extreme effort.

The Robins made their sixth run in the seventh on Herman's double and O'Doul's single.

And here's the detail of that futile ninth. Hornsby opened with his No. 10 homer to make the score 6 to 4; Finn threw out Stephenson; then Wilson walked and Vance relieved Phelps. Hemsley doubled, Wilson stopping at third. Grimm knocked his fifth hit, scoring Wilson and Hemsley. This made it Vance's game to win or lose. The hitting suddenly ceased. Bell fled to O'Doul, who also got pinch batter Blair's foul.

Celtic Soccer Team Defeats Brickies, 6-3

The Glasgow Celtics, international soccer champions, defeated the Bricklayers yesterday at the Cubs' park, 6 to 3. Eleven thousand attended the game.

The visitors played one of the best soccer games ever seen in Chicago, flashing unusual speed and combination play.

The first goal came after 7 minutes play, when R. Thompson shot the ball between the posts. Number two followed immediately. Wilson, taking a free kick from the center of the field, shot hard for goal and when Neate came out off his goal he merely tipped the ball into the net. The third goal was lucky. The ball was kicked against Bob Thompson's hand in the penalty area and, from the free kick, Napier scored.

The Brickies had several good tries for goal but the half ended with the Celtics leading, 3 to 0.

Twenty minutes of the second half had been played before the Brickies found the net. Imrie, taking a short pass from Cuthbert, beat J. Thompson for the first time. However, the visitors came right back, Hughes scoring number four with a great shot.

The game continued fast and Neate showed skill in goal for the home team by bringing off great saves

DR. GEO. W. BOOT, NOTED PHYSICIAN, TAKEN BY DEATH

Nose and Throat Specialist Passes Away at 61.

Dr. George William Boot, noted ear, nose and throat specialist who had practiced in Chicago since 1903, died yesterday at the St. Francis hospital in Evanston. He was 61 years old.

On April 7 Dr. Boot fell against a table at the county hospital, suffering an injury to his chest. An infection which developed from the injury, complicated by a diabetic condition, caused death, although two operations were resorted to in an effort to save the physician's life.

On Several Hospital Staffs.

Dr. Boot was a staff surgeon at a number of hospitals, including the St. Francis, the Children's Memorial, the Grant, the Durand hospital of the McCormick Institute for Infectious Diseases, and the Illinois Eye and Ear infirmary.

Although in the last five years Dr. Boot had done a great deal of research to find a possible cure for cancer, his reputation rested mainly on his success in treatment of throat and nose ailments. During his career he had removed hundreds of foreign objects from human throats and lungs. He had done more of this type of surgery, according to Dr. Ole C. Nelson of the county hospital, than any other physician in the country in the last twenty-five years.

Funeral to Be Tomorrow.

Educated at the University of the Northwest and the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Boot took postgraduate work at the University of Chicago, University of Minnesota, Northwestern university, and in Vienna. He had been a professor at Rush Medical college and assistant otologist at the Presbyterian hospital.

Dr. Boot's home was at 313 Sherman avenue, Evanston. He is survived by a son, a brother, and a sister. Funeral services are to be held at Graceland cemetery chapel at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

TRIAL OF WOMAN MAGISTRATE IN NEW YORK TODAY

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—With her judgeship at stake, Magistrate Jean H. Norris, the first woman to hold a position in New York, will go on trial tomorrow morning before the appellate division. JEAN NORRIS.

The trial, Mr. Seabury indicated today, probably would take only two days, or three at most. The principal charge at issue is that Magistrate Norris substantially altered the record of the trial before her of Mary Desana, convicted on a vice charge, in such a manner that the defendant's constitutional rights on appeal were abrogated.

Magistrate Norris, as her defense was outlined in her answer to the charges, is expected to admit that she did change the record, but only to eliminate mistakes in transcription made by the stenographer, George A. Ingersoll. Other charges are that she altered the record in another case and that she was unduly severe and arbitrary in her conduct of Women's court.

UNCERTAINTY AS TO U. S. HOLDING HITS GRAIN PITS

Urges Farm Board Sell Its Wheat.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Three leaders of the farm board to come out flatly and announce that they would liquidate their holdings of 257,000,000 bu of wheat on a world basis, with a get together movement on the part of both government and private grain interests to eliminate the big load of wheat that is hanging over the market as the greatest handicap thereto, there would be a decided change in sentiment, and an increase in normal speculation," asserts one of the most active local speculators.

Another speculator expresses the belief that were the farm board to announce that their old wheat would be sold under $1.00 bu inside of six months it would restore confidence among traders, help farmers to get better prices for their grain, and ultimately enable the farm board to dispose of their holdings abroad within a reasonable time. There would be a rally, which is to be expected, but with no restriction on trading, he says, speculators would come in and absorb big lines of wheat because of its low price."

Removal of Restrictions Favored.

Removal of restrictions on speculative trading where accounts run 10,000 bu or over, it is said by a number of large commission houses and speculators, would go a long way toward assisting the farm board in the disposal of its immense holdings in the open market, as all predecessors have had to do in the past. The use of Board of Trade machinery is necessary to broaden speculation, making a free and open market, which, it is said, would increase trade to possibly the greatest volume in years, as prices are the lowest in thirty-five years, being only a little over the 50 cent level at Chicago, with farmers getting only 10@20 cents in a large part of the wheat area.

The fact alone, in connection with a short spring wheat crop, around 200,000,000 bu for Canada, against 300,000,000 bu for last year and less than 300,000,000 bu in the United States against 247,000,000 bu a year ago, it is believed should largely increase buying and create an advance of 10@20 cents a bu. The present high volume of speculative trade is due to uncertainty as to the farm board's policy.

A bullish view of the situation is taken by Fred Uhlmann of the Uhlmann Grain company, who puts it this way: "We figure that our wheat harvest this year on July 1 will be about 325,000,000 bu, and that we will have, with increased yields in the winter wheat belt, probably 250,000,000 bushels for export on this year's crop, making a total available of 575,000,000 bu. Our net exports in 1930 from the United States were 150,000,000 bu, compared with 140,000,000 bu in 1929 and 140,000,000 bu in 1928, with this year's about 150,000,000 bu, a total of 578,000,000 bu in the three years.

CHICAGO FIGHTS RAIL RATE RAISE ON VEGETABLES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—Receivers and distributors of fresh fruits and vegetables in the Chicago market will be represented in opposition to the 15 per cent increase in freight rates sought by the railroads. The National League of Commission Merchants, represented in Chicago by a branch league, disclosed this fact today in a statement to be filed with the interstate commerce commission setting out the importance of the Chicago market in the fruit and vegetable trade.

C. H. Cross of the C. H. Cross company is president of the Chicago branch as well as vice president of the national league. R. Ben Egan of Smith-Cotton company is secretary of the Chicago league.

Chicago, according to the national league, absorbed 63,850 carloads of fresh fruits and vegetables in 1929. This total did not include a large volume that moved into the market by truck. Imported products amounted to 761 carloads, leaving 63,108 carloads gathered into the Chicago market by rail from 42 states.

Farm Value of Shipments.

While these distributors of fruits and vegetables do not oppose the carriers' efforts to improve their revenues, they will urge exemption of these perishable products, holding that present rates are among the highest imposed by the railroads. The league states that the freight charges in 1930, when compared with the farm value of the shipments, were 40 per cent of the prices paid the growers, and that this year, with prices lower than in 1930, the freight charges are proportionately a greater percentage of the farm value.

"To further increase these rates will mean to drive the traffic off the rails," the league submits in its statement. "As Chicago is the most important fruit and vegetable market in the central west and the second largest in the United States, it and every one that ships to it has an important stake in the transportation issue now raised by the railroads.

"Much of the traffic in fruits and vegetables moving into Chicago is handled in long hauls. Chicago, in 1929, took 5,178 cars from Florida, 2,353 cars from California, 4,701 cars from Idaho, 614 from New York, 1,075 from Arizona, 1,038 from Virginia, 121 cars from Mississippi, 2,700 from Washington, and 2,825 from Colorado.

Draw From Distant Fields.

"These figures indicate the wide and distant fields from which Chicago must draw its supplies of these perishable foods. To advance freight rates on these long hauls 15 per cent would be adding an unwarranted burden to consumer cost in Chicago as well as penalizing the growers and shippers in the 42 states which ship to the Chicago market.

"The growers and shippers in Illinois, of course, will be hit by the proposed increase if it is to apply to farm products. In 1929, 5,178 carloads of fruits and vegetables were hauled by Illinois growers. Of the total 2,194 moved to Chicago. The remaining 2,984, however, were shipped to 52 of the 66 large terminal markets in the United States."

"But it takes to supply the Chicago market, with its annual requirements of fresh fruits and vegetables as revealed by the unload figures compiled by the railroads for 1929, which show the following carloads taken by the Chicago market: ..."

IVAR KREUGER TAKES STAR ROLE IN PHONE WORLD

Now a Leading Holder of L. T. and T. Shares.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—The alliance between the International Telephone and Telegraph corporation and the L. M. Ericsson Telephone company concluded last week extends to the operation of telephone companies in many foreign countries and to the manufacture of telephone, cable, and other communications equipment for the use of private and public telephone systems throughout the world.

The transaction has made Kreuger & Toll, which controls the Ericsson company, one of the principal, if not the largest single holder of International Telephone and Telegraph shares. Ivar Kreuger, therefore, as head of Kreuger & Toll, will have an important part in the future shaping of world telephone growth.

Now Has New Rôle.

Mr. Kreuger's activities will be, as heretofore, that of negotiator and financier, leaving operation and manufacturing problems to the competent managements. As a friend and advisor to the heads of numerous foreign governments, he has supplied numerous short term credits in exchange for long term credits in need of assistance.

In his new rôle, he is expected to continue the dual rôle of concession getter and lender, with this difference, that whereas Lee, Higginson & Co. have been his banking connection in this country throughout the match concession financing of recent years, it is anticipated that J. P. Morgan and National City interests, as bankers for International, will share in future deals arranged in connection with telephone concessions.

Operates in Five Countries.

Without discussing the cable, telegraph and radio operations of International, its telephone operations extend to eleven countries, where thirteen separate affiliates operate. The telephone companies operated by Ericsson are located in five countries and are eight in number.

Measures to interconnect many of these telephone systems and to provide apparatus to facilitate their operation in a unified manner are to be taken in due course. The twenty-one companies together operate more than 1,000,000 telephones.

Jell-X-Cell Company Completes New Plant

The Jell-X-Cell company of Illinois, 2129-1143 East 74th street, has just completed construction of a modern plant, representing an estimated investment of approximately $150,000, on which Henry L. Trout & Co., have underwritten a $100,000 bond issue.

Please send me information on Twin City Rapid Transit company.—R. B.

Twin City Rapid Transit company operates about 520 miles of street railway in Minneapolis and St. Paul, under an indeterminate franchise.

In recent years the company's earnings have been adversely affected by the competition of privately owned automobiles.

Net income of $833,590 in 1928 was a sharp drop from net reported for the preceding year. An increase in the fare in 1929 was reflected in higher earnings for the year. Number of passengers carried, operating revenues and net income showed a decline in 1930. Net income was $1,085,736 or $3.99 per common share. For 1929 net income was $1,184,910 or $4.43 per common share. Record net income of $1,570,068 was reported in 1923. The two next highest figures reported since then were $1,456,805 in 1926 and $1,272,601 in 1927.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current liabilities of $1,493,036 exceeded current assets by $167,360.

For the first quarter of 1931 gross revenues were $2,982,243, against $3,579,496 for the like period of 1930. Net income was $221,316 or 77 cents per common share, against $433,611 or $1.72 per common share for the 1930 period.

Capitalization consists of 30,000 shares of 7 per cent preferred [par $100] and 230,000 shares of common [par $100]. Funded debt totals $22,489,000.

At their meeting June 1, 1931, directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock payable July 1, but voted to defer consideration of common dividends until December, 1931. The company had been paying common dividends at the rate of $2 a share semi-annually, payable in interest bearing notes and 6 per cent fractional scrip due Jan. 15, 1937. This dividend policy was occasioned by the necessity of accumulating funds to pay off subsidiary bonds due Jan. 15, 1937.

The company apparently must find some means to increase its traffic. In 1930 it was successful in securing a reduction in its taxes and in effecting operating economies partly through adopting a faster schedule.

The preferred is speculative and the common more so.

HUGE HARVEST OF WINTER WHEAT MOVING NORTH

Railways Have 50,000 Cars in Southwest Ready.

Harvesting of one of the largest crops of winter wheat ever raised is on in the southwest and is rapidly moving northward. Kansas has one of the largest crops it ever raised, and with Nebraska, Colorado, Oklahoma, and Texas, prospects are for 550,000,000 bu, compared with 346,000,000 bu in May and 307,000,000 bu in 1930. There are many claims made by southwestern grain men that Kansas alone will have 20,000,000 bu, which will equal its record of a few years ago.

Railroads of the southwest and middle west have been active in preparing for handling the movement of new grain, particularly in the former section, where more than 50,000 box cars are specially prepared for moving grain are parked and can be put into service at short notice. There will be no delay in moving the crops, as indicated by railroad officials.

Need Export Sales.

The only thing that they fear is that absence of export sales of wheat from the gulf ports during July, August, and September will congest elevators there when the big movement of wheat is on, elevators there will fill up and prevent unloading of cars so that they cannot be returned to the interior for reloading, and by that means prevent profitable use of the cars.

An investigation in the elevator storage capacity for grains in the southwest by a railroad car specialist of one of the largest grain carriers shows that there has been an increase of 21,000,000 bu this year, including more than 6,000,000 bu at Galveston, Houston, and Texas City, also good increases in scattered storage at mill and interior elevators in Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas, while at Kansas City the increase has been around 10,000,000 bu and probably more, as the grain board is erecting an 8,000,000 bu house. At Chicago, 1,500,000 bu in addition to the Irondale elevator is under construction and several millions more are being added at St. Louis and around 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 bu at Minneapolis. This is in addition to mill and country storage capacity at various other locations.

Santa Fe Railroads Leads.

The Santa Fe railroad is the largest grain carrier in the southwest, handling more wheat than any of the other big systems. It has 20,000 grain cars available for loading within a week's notice scattered over the three great southwestern states. Second best is taken by the Rock Island, it having 15,000 cars stored and ready for loading on short notice. Grain loadings of the Santa Fe railroad system for the year ended June 14 aggregated 16,351 cars, compared with 124,494 cars the previous year, a decrease of 7,857 cars. For the year ended June 14, 1931, the Rock Island handled 51,000 cars. One feature that must not be overlooked is that owing to slack business there are more automobile, furniture, and box cars available for loading grain than in any other year.

Bulk of the grain movement in the southwest as figured by railroads is around July 4 to 10. Occasionally when weather conditions delay harvesting and marketing, the peak extends a few to ten days beyond the usual date. After that period the movement is strong clear for the next twelve months, all depending upon the size of the harvest.

SEASONAL DECREASE IN DEMAND FOR STEEL IS BELIEVED AT END

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 21.—Seasonal decreases in steel demand are believed to have run nearly their complete course. The longer range argument assumes that general business has been undergoing no great changes since the first of the year, except seasonal changes, whereas steel production is at just two-thirds of its peak rate, in the third week of June. A loss of one-third, it is held, cannot fall much short of the total loss, of purely seasonal character, that could occur.

A short range argument is that estimating last week's steel ingot production at 38 per cent, there is only a 2 point loss in a fortnight, all or nearly all of which can be accounted for in rails and automobile steel.

Steel consumption in a country that has used much steel is held to have some sort of an irreducible minimum even were it granted that there was no expansion. To date nearly 1,000,000,000 gross tons of iron and steel products have been made and put into use in the United States, and a large part of this survives, involving upkeep, as in the replacement of boiler tubes, for instance, while some steel is currently consumed, as in tin cans.

There is, however, not a little expansion, as the continued placing of fabricated structural steel contracts illustrates. The work of the fabricating shops has no summer lull, for shipments run lowest in January and increase each successive month through October.

AUSTIN COMPANY REPORTS RISE IN NEW CONTRACTS

Substantial gains in the number of inquiries and of contracts placed during the last ten days are reported by the Austin company, engineers and builders of Cleveland. New construction work received during that period involves an investment of more than $500,000, representing diversified industrial building in various sections of the country.

"There is growing evidence of a gradual upturn in certain industrial lines," said W. J. Austin, president of the company. "Reports from our seventeen district offices in the United States and Canada reflect underlying improvement in sentiment.

"Several of the construction projects now under way are in the aeronautical industry—an industry that is going forward rapidly and which requires additional facilities to meet expanding operations."

Announce New Syndicate to Handle Utility Bonds

Announcement is made of the formation of a syndicate to be headed by E. H. Rollins & Sons, Inc., for the distribution of $32,000,000 Jersey Central Power and Light company first mortgage 30 year 4½ per cent gold bonds. The issuance of these bonds has been approved by the board of public utility commissioners of New Jersey in connection with the approval of that body of the sale of Eastern New Jersey Power company to the Insull system of public utilities.

State, Municipal Issues Will Total $41,595,859

New York, June 21.—(AP)—New state and municipal bonds scheduled for award this week total $41,595,859, representing the needs of 32 communities. More than half of the total will be accounted for by two state issues, one of $16,500,000 on Wednesday for the state of Arkansas, and one of $8,800,000 on Tuesday for the state of Minnesota.

OFFICIAL HOLDS 2c DUTY TOO HIGH FOR RAW SUGAR

Lets Colonial Products Be Sent Here Unordered.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—Two cents is too high a duty for raw sugar and defeats its own purpose by permitting Philippine and Porto Rican sugar to be sent to the United States unordered and sold as distress cargoes, thus depressing the prices throughout the world, according to a statement issued by Walter Lagemann, vice president of the Czarnikow-Rionda company, in commenting upon the results of the first year of operation of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill.

Mr. Lagemann declares that there is only one conclusion to be drawn from the present policy of selling Philippine and Porto Rican sugar in this country and that is "that the duty advantage they are enjoying in the United States is so excessive that they can afford to sacrifice a large part of it."

Both Call Upon Cuba.

He points out that while the first half of the year is normally the time of the lowest prices for sugar due to the culmination of sugar harvests which supply the United States and England in January, both the United States and England receive large supplies of sugar from their colonies, but neither raise enough for their own markets and both call upon Cuba to supply the remainder of their requirements above the total crops of their colonies.

"England is the largest purchaser of sugar in the open market," said Mr. Lagemann in explaining the circumstances which he believes make it possible for the United States tariff to depress prices throughout the world. "British refiners supply themselves with the largest part of their requirements well in advance, including Cubas, and leave only a small balance to be bought from time to time, which consists partly of small lots, arriving unsold.

"The refiners in the United States do not buy for future needs at all, because they are usually able to obtain sugar for prompt arrival. Porto Ricans and Philippines are shipped to this country, without prior sale, direct to refiners. The holders of these sugars are satisfied to get any price obtainable upon arrival, so that they do not have to place them in storage.

"It is quite evident that with this method of marketing these duty free sugars, of which there are annually about 1,350,000 tons, all arriving practically as distressed cargoes, are a constant source of depression, not only here, but to the world in general for the following reason.

"Europe needs Cuban sugar to fill requirements in excess of colonial and home production. Therefore, the London market will stay more or less on a parity with New York as long as Cubas are in demand there. This year, as a matter of fact, London is paying more than the New York parity for Cubas, by reason of the practically complete withdrawal of Cuban sellers from that market."
